ADMIT SENTRY FIRED FIRST

Japanese Authorities Say He Is Under Arrest and Will Be Court-Martialed.

GLEAVES ABANDONS TRIP

Commander in Asiatic Waters Decides That His Presence in Vladivostok Is Unnecessary.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 13.—The American Government has taken up officially with the Japanese Government the affair of the killing of Lieutenant Warren H. Langdon, engineer officer of the American cruiser Albany, who was shot by a Japanese sentry at Vladivostok.

Acting Secretary Davis of the State Department tonight sent to the embassy at Tokio a communication in the form of a protest against the shooting of the naval officer. The communication also makes representations. No announcement was made by the State Department regarding its action, and it was impossible to ascertain the nature of the American Government's communication in detail.

The communication went forward after Baron Kijuro Shidehara, Ambassador to the United States, had called at the State Department late this afternoon and expressed the regrets of his Government over what had occurred, and after the State Department had studied the latest official reports received from Admiral Gleaves, Commander in Chief of the Asiatic Fleet, Consul MacGowan at Vladivostok, and the empassy at Tokio.

From the facts at hand there is a disposition to believe that the shooting was the act of an excitable sentry, and the Japanese Government has taken every measure possible so far to indicate that it sincerely regrets what occurred and will take the proper measures to try to prevent a recurrence of the incident. It is not believed that the Japanese Government will in any way condone the action of the sentry responsible for the shooting.

Americans Not to Be Challenged.

Admiral Albert C. Gleaves, Commander in Chief of the Asiatic Fleet, notified the Navy Department today that General Oi, commanding the Japanese troops in Siberia, has given fresh instructions to Japanese commands not to halt Americans. All Japanese officials of high rank at Vladivostok have gone aboard the cruiser Albany and expressed sorrow and regret, while Vice Admiral Kawahara sent a telegram from Tokio to the commander of the Albany saying he was shocked over the death of Lieutenant Langdon.

Admiral Gleaves has decided, in view of the latest developments in the case, not to continue his trip to Vladivostok to investigate the affair, as he now thinks his presence there will not be necessary. The Navy Department tonight gave out the following dispatch from Admiral Gleaves in regard to the shooting:

"Strict instructions have been issued by General Oi that all commands instruct their sentries not to halt Americans. All Japanese officials of high rank have been aboard. They expressed sorrow and regret and state that the sentry who shot Lieutenant Langdon was very ignorant. General Oi has sent a large wreath.

"Vice Admiral Kawahara has sent telegram from Tokio as follows: 'I am deeply shocked at the news of Lieutenant Langdon's death by unlooked for accident. Please accept my sincere condolences, although no word of mine can help, I feel, for this most lamentable occurrence. Most deeply sorry.'

"Practically all officials of foreign Governments have called, as well as the Russian Admiralty, to express sympathy, regret and horror for themselves as well as for their countries. The investigation has not yet been finished."

The despatch concludes: "Above received by radio while on way to Vladivostok. In view of developments I deem my presence there to be unnecessary and have abandoned plan to go there at this time."

Secretary Daniels today made public this extract from the report of Captain Watts, commanding officer of the Albany, relative to the services of Lieutenant Langdon from April 1 to Aug. 17, 1920:

"Lieutenant Langdon is an excellent engineer officer, and combines with good, thorough, practical experience in engineering a most admirable temperament and disposition that make him a most helpful man on board ship. He is earnest, ambitious, constantly improving himself in the theoretical side of his profession, and in every respect most fully deserving of retention in the permanent commissioned grades of the navy. He has the most sterling character and his habits are most exemplary in every respect. He has established a very creditable record for the Albany in the engineering competition and administers his department in an excellent manner. It is a great pleasure to testify to his exceptionally meritorious service in this ship."

Secretary Daniels made public a letter of commendation which he wrote in the Summer of 1916 to Lieutenant Langdon, commending him for his services while

'Farrell Is the Hero,' Hinton Now Says; 'He Bore the Brunt'

TORONTO, Jan. 13.—In a statement here tonight Lieutenant Hinton declared: "Farrell is the hero. He bore the brunt of the adventure. He broke the trail and did the hardest work. We were all nearly exhausted and suffered the agonies of swollen feet, caused by our unfamiliarity with snowshoes. I am thankful it is over. It seems to me now but a terrible nightmare."

BALLOONISTS BACK ON AMERICAN SOIL

Special to The New York Times.

BUFFALO, N. Y., Jan. 13.—The three navy balloonists recrossed the border into their own country at 9 o'clock tonight, just one month after they started on their flight from Rockaway. The train bringing them back from Canada was halted at Niagara Falls, Ont., and Mayor Maxwell M. Thompson of Niagara Falls, N. Y., with other members of a reception committee, took them across the bridge by automobile. They were entertained informally at the Elks Club for ten minutes. Silk American flags were pinned on the breasts of the aeronauts as souvenirs of the occasion.

The next stop was at Buffalo, where the Aero Club offered them a hurried welcome at the Saturn Club. There were only a few welcomers at the station. There was no cheering and no evidence of excitement. Those who did meet the train showed particular eagerness to see Farrell.

TORONTO, Ont., Jan. 13.—Canada had its first real opportunity to welcome the three American naval aeronauts back to civilization when they reached here just before 5 o'clock this afternoon. About 600 persons, nearly all men, had gathered at the Union Station. They pressed close about the airmen as they descended from their train, smilingly congratulating them and asking eager questions, such as, "Where's the balloon?" and "Where are the pigeons?" In reply to the latter question Lieutenant Kloor, navigator of the balloon which landed the men in northern Ontario, near Moose Factory, expressively rubbed his stomach.

There were one or two hurrahs when the men alighted from the train and a few scattered handclaps when they left the station to don new uniforms brought to them by Lieutenant A. W. Evans of the Rockaway Naval Air Station, the officer who was sent to Ottawa to search for them in the pernod when it was believed they must have perished. While the welcome was not noisy, it was sincere and cordial.

Controller Alfred Maguire met the party in behalf of Mayor Thomas L. Church, offering them informal words of welcome. Another to greet them was Major Bert Wemp, D. S. C., the first Canadian to enlist in the Royal Air Force and now President of the Aero Club of Canada.

After handshaking all around, two policemen shouldered a way for them through the close-pressing crowd, and they were driven to the Old Colony Club, where they changed their uniforms. There was no time for formal ceremonies, since they were to leave at 6:25 for New York.

Welcomed Along the Route.

On their journey from Mattice to Toronto they found little knots of persons at every station they passed, eager to get a look at them. Except at Cochrane, where they participated in a welcoming ceremony, they stuck to the train, waving greetings from their drawing room window to those who discovered them there.

The three officers, Lieutenants L. A. Kloor, Stephen A. Farrell and Walter Hinton, kept themselves in seclusion today and refused to be interviewed either separately or jointly by the American newspaper correspondents accompanying them back to New York. They

FIRST WOMAN IN POSITION

She Assumes Control at Once—Appointment Is Effective for This Season and Next.

WILL CONTINUE HER ROLES

No Extra Compensation for New Duties—Galli-Curci May Come to Metropolitan.

Special to The New York Times.

CHICAGO, Jan. 13.—Miss Mary Garden, the American prima donna, was elected today General Director of the Chicago Opera Association. She will immediately assume charge of both the business management and the artistic direction of the opera, succeeding Herbert M. Johnson as business manager and Gino Marinuzzi as artistic director.

The appointment of Miss Garden, first woman in the world to hold such a position, is effective for the rest of the present season and all next season, which concludes the five-year period for which the present association is responsible for the production of opera in this city.

Under the Executive Committee of the association, of which Charles G. Dawes is Chairman, Miss Garden will be in control of the conduct of the opera here and on tour.

Miss Garden, following the announcement of the appointment, locked herself in her room at her hotel and refused to see newspaper reporters or to answer telephone calls.

In a statement issued tonight in behalf of Harold F. McCormick and the Board, Mr. Dawes said:

"The members of the Board are contented in the firm belief that the permanency of grand opera for Chicago is more assured than ever before and that therefore we face the future under splendid auspices."

"Miss Garden assumes," said Mr. Dawes, "the responsibilities involved in the position offered on the basis of accepting no compensation as general director for this season or the coming one, and she will only receive, as heretofore, cachets from regular performances as an artist of the company. She will continue, therefore, in the dual rôle of general director and artist, just as Maestro Campanini continued to conduct the operas while he was general director.

"This particular program applies directly only to the remainder of this season and next season, which will terminate the present régime, or the duration of the present five-year guaranty.

"Last Spring, pending further consideration and final determination of a successor to Maestro Campanini as general director, the position of executive director was created and Herbert Johnston was asked to fill it; and the position of artistic manager was created and Gino Marinuzzi was asked to fill it. Mr. Johnston has resigned as executive director and his resignation has been accepted. Mr. Marinuzzi has resigned as artistic manager and his resignation has been accepted. These two positions have now been abolished. Mr. Marinuzzi continues as conductor.

"Miss Mary Garden as General Director, will have, therefore, general charge and direction under the Executive Committee of the affairs of the Chicago Opera Association both artistic and executive.

"Announcement shortly will be made of appointment of a business manager and others who may be desired to perform the respective duties assigned them and to assist Miss Garden in the work. Otherwise the management and staff remain the same as heretofore."

There was much speculation in operatic circles tonight as to whether Miss Garden's accession to the directorship would cause any change in the plans of Mme. Galli-Curci. Doubts have already arisen as to whether her voice will be heard in Chicago next opera season. Galli-Curci is in Minneapolis preparing for her wedding Saturday.

The Metropolitan Opera Company is reported to have made her a big offer. The Chicago Opera Association has also offered her a new contract. Galli-Curci, it is said, would like to sing in both places. Whether she will sing exclusively next Winter with the Metropolitan

'Karpoff,' Said to Be Nikolai Lenin, Is Dead; Red Autocrat Reported to Have Been Shot

LONDON, Jan 13.—A communication from Moscow, announcing the death of M. Karpoff, member of the Supreme Economic Council of Soviet Russia, is quoted in a Berlin dispatch to the Exchange Telegraph, received by way of Paris.

The Supreme Council in Moscow contains no person named Karpoff, which is an old pseudonym of Nikolai Lenin, the Soviet Premier. Some of his publications bear that name.

Copyright, 1921, by The Chicago Tribune Co.

LONDON, Jan. 13.—Nikolai Lenin's illness, on account of which he is reported to have undergone an operation, was similar to that from which many Russians suffered by his command. It was from a bullet wound.

Friends of Lenin whom I met in Moscow and who have just arrived in London, told me this evening the Bolshevist Czar was shot by counter revolutionary adherents during the Christmas holidays.

Four thousand Chinese mercenaries have been called to Moscow to guard the Kremlin. They are quartered on the palace grounds.

The Jewish News Bureau, a New York City news agency, announced on Jan. 9 receipt of a dispatch from its Moscow correspondent telling of the dangerous illness of Lenin.

A Berlin dispatch to the Havas Agency, received here yesterday said that the Russian newspaper Rul had announced the death of "the communist Karpoff" in Moscow. The dispatch added that "'Karpoff' seems to be the former pseudonym of Lenin."

Officials of the Russian Soviet Bureau here said yesterday that "M. Karpoff, member of the Supreme Economic Council of Russia," was unknown to them. They declared that Premier Lenin was never to their knowledge known as "M. Karpoff," nor had he written books under that name.

Women to Carry Nebraska Vote To Washington by Airplane

HUGHES'S SELECTION NOW BEYOND DOUBT

Formal Invitation From Harding Said to Be the Only Step Remaining.

DAUGHERTY'S CHANCES UP

Hoover Also Likely to Win—President-Elect May Take Completed Slate South.

Special to The New York Times.

MARION, Ohio, Jan. 13.—Charles E. Hughes, it is believed here today, will unquestionably be the next Secretary of State. All that remains to be done before Mr. Harding announces his selection for this post, it is understood, is for the President-elect to issue a formal invitaton to Mr. Hughes and then await a formal reply. This was learned from unquestioned sources today.

The President-elect apparently intends to spend little more time in selecting a Cabinet. Before he leaves for Florida next week there is little doubt that he will have definitely decided upon all ten Cabinet places. There is no definite information as to whether he will be prepared to announce his Cabinet at that time, but there is a strong belief that Mr. Hughes's appointment will be announced in the latter part of this week or early next week and that the choice of either Charles G. Dawes of Chicago or Andrew W. Mellon of Pittsburgh as the next Secretary of the Treasury will be made public.

Senator Harding will put the names of the other eight Cabinet selections in an envelope, the indications are, and give no further thought to them until just before the inauguration.

Predict Daugherty's Selection.

Harry M. Daugherty, the Harding pre-convention campaign manager, will be "taken care of" by the President-elect, it is stated, and presumably his ambition to become Attorney General will be fulfilled. There is now a disposition on the part of some of Mr. Daugherty's political enemies not to oppose his entrance into the Cabinet in the belief that he would be in a far more powerful position politically outside the Cabinet than as one of the Harding official family.

It is believed that Mr. Harding is of the opinion that the selection of Herbert Hoover as Secretary of the Interior would be as popular a choice as that of Mr. Hughes. But Mr. Hoover has been subjected to intense opposition from elements which, although they appear to be in the minority, are capable of becoming embarrassing should his name come up in the Senate for confirmation. The President-elect has high regard for Mr. Hoover, which appears not to have been diminished by opposition.

As the situation stands at present, and there appears little likelihood of its changing within the next week, Hoover ranks next to Hughes and Daugherty as a Cabinet certainty.

Coming to the Department of Agriculture, the opposition of packers and live stock marketing interests to the selection of Henry C. Wallace for the post has created such a situation that Mr. Harding, it is said, could hardly change his mind in regard to Wallace if he wanted to do so. The President-elect's decision in regard to this post hinges on whether to appoint Wallace and be confronted with powerful opposition that may be embarrassing in the management of the Department of Agriculture, or to turn down Mr. Wallace and encounter the charge that he yielded to the packing interests.

Doubt Centres on Four Places.

With former Senator John W. Weeks regarded as the most probable choice for Secretary of the Navy, Mr. Harding must decide upon four other Cabinet posts if he is to "close the books" by next week. These are the Post Office and War Departments and the Departments of Commerce and Labor.

There is still speculation as to whether Will H. Hays and A. T. Hert will survive efforts made to block their appointments on the ground that little popular approval could be expected from the selection of two or more political managers for the Cabinet. The stronger Daugherty's chances are the less seem to be those of Hays and Hert, although it is thought that the Republican National chairman has a slight advantage over Hert. It is said that Daugherty is not opposed to Hays's Cabinet aspirations, and it is understood that Daugherty, Hays and Hert have been greatly disturbed by reports that opposition has been aroused over the prospective appointment of political managers to the Cabinet.

Former Governor R. Livingston Beeckman of Rhode Island, who has visited Marion a number of times during the campaign and since the election, had a long conference with Mr. Harding today on the subject of Pan American relations. Having served a number of terms as Governor, Mr. Beeckman now has his hopes set toward the United States Senate, with a view to running two years hence when Senator Gerry's term expires. Between now and the Senatorial primaries, it is understood, Mr. Beeck-

PREMIER HARD HIT IN DOVER ELECTION ON 'WASTE' ISSUE

J. J. Astor, Coalition Candidate, Is Beaten by 3,130 in Overturn of Constituency.

BIGGER UPSET IS PREDICTED

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

LONDON, Jan. 14.—It is no exaggeration to say that a mine has been exploded at the very foundations of the Lloyd George-Bonar Law Coalition Government by the result of the Dover election yesterday. At the last election the Coalition-Unionist candidate was returned by a majority of 6,128. This has now been turned into a minority of 3,130.

The new M. P. for Dover is Colonel Sir Thomas Polson, who asked the electors to return him as an opponent of the alleged "squandermania" methods of the Government. The rival candidate was Major J. J. Astor, brother of Lord Astor.

Polson was chiefly supported in the press by Lord Rothermere's picture paper, The Daily Mirror. Some of Lord Northcliffe's papers also espoused his cause as part of their general campaign against Lloyd George.

In the early days of the electoral campaign Polson referred to some remarks made by the Prime Minister in the House of Commons to "the savage music of a jazz band outside," that is, charges of extravagance made against the Government by the Northcliffe and Rothermere press and asked the electors of Dover to give him an opportunity to make that music heard inside of Parliament. He described his success yesterday as "the heaviest blow the Government has received" and added "we may hope it is a knockout blow."

In the course of the campaign one newspaper, whose editor holds a title accorded to him by the coalition Government, published a report of a divorce case in which Polson was concerned when a young man. Horatio Bottomley, M. P., who has been one of Polson's strongest supporters, issued a challenge to Polson's opponent and his agent to deny that they had been in any way concerned with that publication as "un-British." A majority of the clergymen in the Dover district issued a round robin to the electors calling upon them to vote against Polson because of the divorce court episode, but Lord Rothermere's paper and Polson's platform speakers succeeded in presenting the issue in such a fashion that public sympathy was aroused in favor of Polson and the wife to whom he is now happily married.

Lady Askwith, who has been campaigning for the successful candidate, said yesterday:

"I attribute Sir Thomas Polson's victory to public anger with the wasteful methods of the Government and to the sympathy with Polson and his wife. The women's vote played a considerable part in the victory."

Discussing the Dover result in The Daily Mirror, Lord Rothermere declares that there is not a conservative seat safe in the south of England and predicts that the great suburban districts around London will be swept by anti-waste candidates at the next election.

The Daily Mirror declares that the result of the election is "the biggest blow yet sustained by the exponents of more waste and higher taxes," and, therefore, that it marks quite definitely a turn of the tide. The paper continues:

"The spendthrifts of Whitehall have been riddled with criticism from every quarter during the last two years or more, but this criticism does not seem to have had the slightest influence upon them. It has come, indeed, from nearly every independent source in the country. It has been focused, rather than inspired, only by the press. It has been taken up and reinforced by the business community.

"Deputations representing almost all commercial interests have sat in the Chancellor's room at the Treasury, all in vain. Criticism has seemed safely negligible to the politicians because they rely on a mechanical majority in the House of Commons, which has long given up even pretending to be the guardian of the taxpayers' interests.

"Dover's verdict is a direct condemnation from the people of the whole of the Government's financial management. Sir Thomas Polson's large majority will be followed by others of the same character elsewhere. It will, therefore, shake the wasters in their obstinacy and bring the first signs of relief to the taxpayers throughout the land."

The Daily News says that the result of the Dover election, coming on top of the Hereford election, points a moral which cannot be misread even by Lloyd George. It continues:

"When one candidate running on the anti-waste ticket can pull a coalition majority at Hereford down from 7,950 to 2,259, and another with the same war-cry at Dover can turn a majority of 6,128 into a minority of 3,130, it is safe to adduce that economy is a matter on which the electors have developed strong convictions."

The Daily News, however, has a word to say about the "stunt" economist,

MILLER PLANS VIGIL WITH LEGISLATORS

ALBANY, Jan. 13.—To promote close co-operation between the executive and the legislative branch of the State Government, Governor Miller today announced a rule to govern his own official conduct which, besides being a decided innovation, will add frequent attendance at the Executive Chamber during night hours to the many burdens already resting on the Governor.

The Governor informed the legislative leaders that he would always be in his office at the Capitol while the Legislature is in session, so as to be within easy access to leaders and lawmakers alike who might desire to see him in relation to business of the State. This will render it necessary for the Governor to remain in the Executive Chamber approximately until midnight while the Legislature is in session, and sometimes later on Monday evenings. During the closing weeks of the session it will involve continuous all-night vigils unless this Legislature finds some way of avoiding the grind that has been a feature of the end of every session for many years.

The Governor's action is a radical departure from what has heretofore been the practice. No recent Governor has made it a point to be on hand at the Capitol whenever the Legislature was in session. Governor Whitman, especially during his last term, was as frequently away from the Capitol on a speechmaking tour as he was there, even while the Legislature was at work. While most of his speeches were political, many were for the promotion of war purposes.

Governor Miller is already beginning to hear from the voters. Many letters commending his economy and efficiency program are reaching the executive chamber in every mail. Civic bodies in many parts of the State are adopting resolutions indorsing his stand. He said today that he did not expect any serious opposition in the Legislature and expected his program to be adopted.

The seven Judges of the Court of Appeals, clad in their official robes, walked into the executive chamber today to pay official respects to their former colleague. Chief Judge Hiscock, acting as spokesman, told the Governor they felt certain his program would meet with success.

"In the consummation of so extensive a program," said the chief Judge, "there is bound to be incidental conflict. But we have an unswerving faith that you will be successful in the policies you have promulgated. We are certain that the people, no matter what has been your connection in political life, will find in you a faithful representative of all the people. You will protect their interests without making any plea for popularity. We are sure that they will give you their fullest cooperation. No eyes will look with more friendly interest on you and your Administration as Chief Executive of the State during the next two years than ours."

Governor Miller thanked the Judges briefly and told them it was his intention to serve the people to the best of his ability.

When the committee closed the day's work Mr. Ford had gained 995 votes in 779 precincts recounted out of 2,200.

POLICE CAPTAIN HELD ON GRAFTING CHARGE

Police Captain William A. Bailey of the West Thirtieth Street Station was indicted yesterday on the charge of accepting a gratuity in connection with his official duty, after ex-Governor Charles S. Whitman had placed several witnesses before the Grand Jury.

Captain Bailey is accused of accepting $500 on or about Aug. 12 of last year from William Pike, Assistant Manager of the Association of Fur Manufacturers at 303 Fifth Avenue, for putting more vigor into the police work in the fur district, in restraining picketing by the strikers and in protecting strike-breakers on their way to and from work.

"The said William A. Bailey, on or about Aug. 12, 1920, unlawfully and corruptly did feloniously receive of and from the said William Pike a gratuity and reward and a promise thereof and certain money, to-wit the sum of $500 (the asking and receiving and consenting and agreeing to receive the same by him, the said William A. Bailey, not being authorized by law), for doing an official act."

Captain Bailey has nothing else against his record. He entered the department in 1892, was made a Sergeant in 1896 and a Lieutenant and Captain on different dates in 1914. He was released yesterday by Judge Otto A. Rosalsky in bail of $2,500.

The usual order of suspension, in the case of an indicted policeman, was not issued, but an order was issued last night transferring Captain Bailey from the West Thirtieth Street station to the Headquarters Division. Captain Joseph A. Howard was transferred from the West Thirty-seventh Street station to the West Thirtieth Street station. Lieutenant William J. Capper assumed charge of the West Thirty-seventh Street station as an Acting Captain.

Report 19 Policemen Involved.

Ex-Governor Whitman said that the $500 transaction mentioned was only one of a number of similar transactions. Statements of fur manufacturers are said to have involved nineteen policemen in the acceptance of money as incitements to doing their duty. While the fur men alleged that they had to pay merely to get the police to do their duty, the leaders of the strike last August asserted that the manufacturers were getting excessive protection, that pickets were being arrested and clubbed without warrant and efforts being made by the police to break up the strike.

Mr. Whitman and his assistants yesterday got possession of the records of the West Thirtieth Street Station. A hasty examination of the police blotters showed them to be perfect cross-references to the books of certain fur manufacturers which had been seized. The books of one firm showed payments to a long list of individual policemen, the payments on one week amounting to $1,000. The police blotter showed that these policemen had been assigned to guard the firm whose books showed the payments.

The seizure of the blotters of other police stations is likely to follow yesterday's acquisition of the books of the West Thirtieth Street Station, for the purpose of discovering whether special assignments of policemen tally with other cases in which the police are alleged to have been hired to do their duty.

Say Other Protection Was Sold.

RIFLEMEN ON THE BRIDGES

FIFTH AV. AN ARMED CAMP

In a sudden and swift mobilization of its protective measures the Police Department at 8 o'clock last night placed under guard churches, the homes of prominent men, public buildings and large industrial plans. The precautionary movement of the police was the equal of any undertaken while the so-called radical "reign of terror" was in its heyday.

Under a verbal order issued at Police Headquarters at 7:45 o'clock, and seemingly not designed to come to the attention of the press, precinct commanders were instructed to detail squads to every point in their territory which might be the object of an attempt at violence by anarchists or their followers. In addition to these instructions, the Bomb Squad, commanded by Detective Sergeant James J. Gegan, was ordered out.

Guards on special assignment were at the Union Club, Fifth Avenue and Fifty-first Street, the scene of the recent Sinn Fein outburst; at the former residence of Andrew Carnegie, Fifth Avenue and Ninety-first Street; at St. Vincent Ferrer Church, Lexington Avenue and Sixty-fifth Street; the Roman Catholic Church of St. Jean Baptiste, Lexington Avenue and Seventy-sixth Street, and at the Yale Club, Vanderbilt Avenue and Forty-fifth Street.

Prompted by Federal Agents.

Officials at headquarters, maintaining the reserve obtaining there for months past, professed not to know why the sleuths detailed to radical activities had been dispatched for service en masse.

According to information available, however, it was understood that the extraordinary movement by the police had been prompted by the Federal authorities, presumably the local agents of the Bureau of Investigation of the Department of Justice. The inference given was that the police activity locally was linked to an alleged radical plot to raze Philadelphia, a widespread scheme announced in that city on Wednesday by Federal detectives.

Corroborating the information that the plans of the police had been set in motion by Federal stimulus was the fact that Chief William J. Flynn, in charge of the Department of Justice Intelligence Service, and a large staff of his operatives were out searching the city. Agents on duty in the Department of Justice office at 13 Park Row were close-mouthed concerning their chief's mission. "He's out on duty with his men" was the gist of their replies to persistent questioning.

Neither officials of the Police Department nor the directing heads of the Government forces in this city would divulge any word about revolutionary plans for New York. Despite the presence of the guards before the buildings, many of whom were called from their beats and hurried to their emergency posts, the officials maintained silence.

While the wording of the order flashed from Police Headquarters to the precincts of the five boroughs was not available, a suggestion of its sternness was conveyed in the instructions given the guards sent to the homes in one precinct.

"The instructions to the guards," said a policeman, "were that we were not to leave our fixed posts, even for a second. We were told to look carefully at all persons who came near us, and to question those who acted suspiciously or who carried parcels. The desk lieutenant said:

"'If you have to leave your post, call up the station house, and we'll send a man to relieve you.

"'Don't leave your post until your relief has come.'"

Cray in Charge of Police Plans.

The guards and all other measures of the protective plan were directed by Fourth Deputy Police Commissioner John J. Cray. He left headquarters in a high-powered police automobile at 8:30 o'clock, six plainclothes men accompanying him. His plan was to tour the city, visiting the station houses to see that all orders had been carried out and calling at the points guarded to see that the squads were on the job.

With the coming of the secret tip, Commissioner Cray put in effect stringent regulations at headquarters. Officers in uniform were posted at all of the building's entrances and details were assigned to patrol the corridors. All visitors to the building were halted and questioned about their business. Reporters endeavoring to gain admission to the room of the bomb squad were barred until they produced their credentials.

Commissioner John Daly appeared at headquarters and then hastened out to assume charge of the uniformed men acting as guards. As evidence of the seriousness of the information in the possession of the police, it was pointed out that this was the first appearance of Commissioner Daly in "street" police work since his promotion from Chief Inspector to a Deputy Commissionership.

One of the first precincts to get the warning was the Twenty-ninth, the East Fifty-first Street station. This territory takes in the Fifth and Park Avenue sections and contains the homes of more of the city's prominent people than any other police district. As soon as the word came to the desk lieutenant there he ordered his reserves out for the duty.

The first squad to go on duty took up post at St. Patrick's Cathedral, where, several years ago, an effort was made by Italian anarchists to explode an infernal machine. Policemen were assigned to posts before the big oaken doors of the main entrance in Fifth Avenue, while others were detailed to watch in East Fiftieth and Fifty-first Streets.

Two men were dispatched to the Union League Club at 1 East Thirty-ninth Street. The next point put under guard was the William K. Vanderbilt residence, Fifth Avenue and Fifty-second Street, and one block north a detail went on duty before St. Thomas's Church.

Guards also were furnished for the home of John D. Rockefeller at 5 West Fifty-fourth Street. The big transit power plant at Fifty-ninth Street and the East River was put under watch, while detectives were placed at strategic points in the Grand Central Terminal and the Pennsylvania Station to keep an eye on the throngs and watch out for any package bearers.

The task of maintaining a guard on the home of Supreme Court Justice Bartow S. Weeks, before whom Gitlow and other anarchists were tried, was assigned to men from the East Sixty-seventh Street Station, who were before the big apartment house at 570 Park Avenue. On the west side the home of former Assistant District Attorney Alexander I. Rorke, who lives at 150 West Eighty-seventh Street, was put under surveillance. Mr. Rorke prosecuted the cases against the convicted radicals, and while serving with District Attorney Swann made a specialty of anarchist cases.

The home of another New York prominent in searching into Red activities, Archibald Stevenson at 156 East Seventy-ninth Street, also was guarded. The residence of Charles M. Schwab, at Riverside Drive and Seventy-third Street, received police protection, too. Mr. Schwab was at home when the guard arrived.

Museums Also Guarded.

Details from the Arsenal Station received the task of guarding the reservoir in Central Park, and men from this precinct aided in the watch maintained over the Metropolitan Museum of Art, Fifth Avenue and Eighty-sixth Street, and the American Museum of Natural History, Central Park West and Seventy-seventh Street.

Downtown the police precautions were just as thorough. Squads were on duty at the Criminal Courts Building and at the Municipal Buildings. Three policemen were posted as wardens of the safety of the City Hall.

Special protective measures were in force in Wall Street and elsewhere in the financial district. A strong detail was on guard at the offices of J. P. Morgan & Co., Broad and Wall Streets, while at Mr. Morgan's home, 231 Madison Avenue, near Thirty-seventh Street, other policemen were stationed.

At the tall building of the New York Edison Company, Worth and Centre Streets, no uniformed protection was in evidence, but the doors of the building were locked and the company's own police force was on the job. They declared that their precautions were just those in effect every night.

Over in Brooklyn the home of Mayor Hylan in Bushwick Avenue was protected, as was the residence of Supreme Court Justice James C. Cropsey in the Parkville section. The big Edison power plant at the foot of Fourth Avenue in South Brooklyn was the object of a strong guard. This plant supplies most of the electric current used in Brooklyn, and for this reason the guard placed upon it was especially alert. The gas tanks of the Kings County Lighting Company, Thirteenth Avenue and Sixty-fifth Street, were protected.

Waterfront Protected.

To the detectives and reserves in the Twelfth Inspection District went the big task of watching along the long South Brooklyn waterfront. The big industrial plants located there, particularly in the Bush Terminal district, were protected, while another large force, recruited from the Tenth Inspection District, went on duty before homes and buildings in the Coney Island, Bath Beach and Fort Hamilton neighborhoods. Guarded here were the homes of Supreme Court Justice Reuben L. Haskell, District Attorney Harry E. Lewis of Kings County, and Supreme Court Justices J. Lewis Fawcett and Norman S. Dike.

Special heed was paid to protecting the river bridges. Picked details from the Bridge Precinct were sent out to strengthen the patrols on the Queensboro, Manhattan, Brooklyn and Williamsburg Bridges, while the crime wave's automobile riflemen and motorcycle flying squadrons were temporarily enlisted in the protective police scheme.

The discovery of the plans of Philadelphia radicals to open a bomb war in that city was made by agents attached to the staff of Walter C. Foster, directing the Federal detectives in that city. He declared he had received warnings that radicals had planned to plant bombs in the city's leading industrial establishments and strike at homes as a "demonstration in behalf of the unemployed of the city."

Switch in Bombing Plans.

He said that his original information had been that the demonstration was to be staged Wednesday night, but that supplementary to that, he heard of a switch in plans whereby the outrages were to occur tonight. He added that he had communicated the results of investigation to Federal agents in Washington and in this city, giving full details of the scope of the contemplated bombings.

"According to the information we received," he was quoted as saying, "the demonstration is planned as a protest against the unemployment of workingmen. And in pursuance of that protest we are told they plan to blow up the plants that now employ large numbers of men, particularly power plants and warehouses. The authorities in the other cities also are warned as to what we are told is the intention of the radicals, who in the past have been responsible for several bomb outrages in this city and elsewhere."

MIDNIGHT PARADE BLOCKED.

Demonstration Called Off, Says Philadelphia Chief, Denying Plot.

Special to The New York Times.

PHILADELPHIA, Jan. 13.—Superintendent of Police Mills denied today that he knew of radical plans for a night of bombing and terrorism in Philadelphia.

"The people of Philadelphia need not be afraid to go to bed tomorrow night," said the Superintendent. "There won't be any bomb outrages. The facts are these: A demonstration was planned for last night, but it was not by any means an anarchistic one. The plans called for a meeting at midnight of the unemployed, and a parade through the streets.

"We learned of the plan and took proper precautions. The principal action was to send extra details of reserve patrolmen to all station houses. Those who were planning the demonstration learned that and they called the demonstration off. There won't be any demonstration now."

BURGLAR TRAPPED BY HIS CIGARETTE

5 ROB CROWDED RESTAURANT

Drive Diners Into Kitchen and Escape With $12—Three Held in $4,000 Chocolate Theft.

Smoke from a burning cigarette placed inadvertently upon a celluloid-backed mirror led to the capture of a burglar in the apartment of Mrs. Joseph E. Ward, 155 West 117th Street, last night, after a fight between the escort of Mrs. Ward's daughter and the intruder, which was finally ended by the appearance of a former army lieutenant with a revolver. The burglar, who was of dapper appearance and wore an expensive fur-lined overcoat, gave his name at the West 123d Street station house as Charles Leonard, 31, of 28 West Sixty-first Street.

Mrs. Ward, who has several lodgers, went out during the evening to visit friends. Miss Edith Ward, her daughter, returned at 9:30 o'clock from a motion-picture theatre with N. Norman. Upon opening the door she smelled the odor of camphor and cigarette smoke, and then saw a dim figure in the darkened room occupied by Miss Helen Burnett Howell, a nurse at Mount Sinai Hospital.

"There's a man in here," Miss Ward called to Norman, who grappled with the burglar. Miss Ward screamed as Norman and the burglar rolled about the hallway. Her cries aroused David Cafen, another lodger. Cafen, formerly a First Lieutenant in the First Army Signal Corps, grabbed his service revolver and hastened to Norman's assistance. Then Leonard surrendered.

Class Pin Identified.

At the police station, a 1914 class pin, later identified by Miss Howell as her property, was found in Leonard's possession. He was said to have told detectives he had heard a telephone bell ringing in Mrs. Ward's apartment and entered in the belief that nobody was at home. A jimmy, used in forcing open the door, was also found in Leonard's possession. The burning cigarette ignited the celluloid backed mirror and caused a fire which scorched the top of the dresser. This fire was easily extinguished after Leonard's capture.

The hold-up by five robbers of a restaurant in the Bronx, and the arrest of three men in connection with the alleged theft of $4,000 worth of chocolate from a Brooklyn warehouse, in which one of the men was shot by a detective, were outstanding among many crimes in the city yesterday.

Shortly before noon, when the restaurant of Frank Krey, 536 Bergen Avenue, Bronx, was crowded, five men, who had occupied a table, tendered a check for $3.60 to pay for their food, then drew pistols and ordered Krey to put up his hands.

Several men at near-by tables jumped to their feet, but two of the gunmen drove them, with the other customers, to the kitchen. Then the robbers took $12 from the cash register and backed into the street. They slowly walked away in a group while Krey blew a police whistle. Ten minutes later a policeman arrived, but the gunmen had escaped.

When Detectives Mindheim and Rosenberg saw a large motor truck back up to the entrance of the Northwestern Candy Company, 55 Delancey Street, shortly after noon, they became suspicious of two men on the vehicle, who took fifty-eight cases into the cellar of the candy company. As the detectives approached the vehicle one of the men disappeared. They followed the second man into the cellar, where they found Israel Schmulowitz, the proprietor, arranging the cases in rows.

Truckman Flees and Is Shot.

When the detectives began to question the pair the man from the motor truck, who later said he was Samuel Napier, 34, of 1,054 Fortieth Street, Brooklyn, ran. The detectives pursued him to a building in Allen Street, where, they said, Napier threw a heavy metal barrel at Mindheim. Both detectives had drawn their pistols during the chase and as Mindheim avoided the barrel he fired a shot, which lodged in Napier's left wrist. Then they took Napier back to the candy company.

Schmulowitz said he did not know where the men got the 125 cases of chocolate found in the cellar and on the truck, but the detectives, after questioning Napier, said they were stolen from the warehouse of the Nemur Corporation at 14 Flint Street, Brooklyn.

James Oliver, 61, of 400 Pearl Street, was arrested later for complicity in the theft. Schmulowitz said the men asked permission to store the chocolate in his place, and he offered to purchase some of it. He was arrested on a charge of criminally receiving stolen property.

Magistrate McQuade yesterday held Thomas Waldorf, 16, a negro, of 85 Avenue B, in $500 bail for the action of the Grand Jury for violating the Sullivan law. Waldorf had a piece of iron pipe wrapped in insulation tape. He admitted he had planned a robbery and pleaded guilty.

Held as Slayers in Holdup.

Through the arrest Wednesday night of Frank Eacobacci, 21, of 301 East 149th Street, the Bronx, and Anthony Paolucci, 21, of 292 Glenn Avenue, West Brighton, Staten Island, detectives said they expected to clear up the killing of Walter Jackowski, 40, by holdup men in his restaurant, 2,886 Richmond Terrace, Staten Island, last Oct. 11. The two men were arrested in Stamford, Conn., and witnesses to the Jackowski slaying identified them as the bandits.

The Brooklyn Grand Jury handed up sixty indictments to Judge MacMahon against men arrested in connection with violent crimes in that borough. At the same time District Attorney Lewis announced a campaign against chauffeurs involved in hold-ups and burglaries.

Two burglars fought a pistol battle with Philip T. Rugger in his home, at 299 Le Grande Avenue, Metuchen, N. J., early yesterday, and after one of them felled him with a wagon spoke they escaped.

HAD TO EAT WITH THE DOG.

Young Wife Says Husband's Parents Were Pro-German and Beat Her.

That she was compelled to share her food with a dog, the food being placed on a plate on the floor, was one of the cruelties which Mrs. Emma J. Helm testified were practiced on her by the parents of her husband, Frederick B. Helm, in an action for the annulment of her marriage before Justice Faber in the Queens County Supreme Court yesterday. Justice Faber granted the application and directed that Helm should pay his wife $15 a week alimony for the support of herself and her sixteen months' old child.

The source of the trouble in the family, Mrs. Helm testified, was that the Helms were German sympathizers and they were cruel to her as soon as they learned that she had a brother in the American army. Mrs. Helm was married in October, 1918, when she was 16 years old. Being a minor she had to bring the action through a guardian. She said that her husband is a chauffeur and after their marriage they went to live with his parents in Woodhaven. Her husband, she said, beat her twenty times. He never gave her any money until the day she left his home in June, 1920, and he only gave her one dress and coat during their entire married life. Her father-in-law, she declared, attacked her one day while she was washing the baby's clothes and beat her with a bucket.

BANK CASHIER SUICIDE IN THE COURT HOUSE

Elmer J. Countryman Was Bankrupt and Accused of Forgery and Other Crimes.

Special to The New York Times.

DIXON, Ill., Jan. 13.—Elmer J. Countryman, petitioner in bankruptcy proceedings involving liabilities of $610,721 and charged in thirteen indictments voted yesterday with forgery, embezzlement and larceny, killed himself today with a revolver in the Lee County Court House.

Countryman, former cashier of the Union State Bank here and in 1916 unsuccessful candidate on the Progressive ticket for County Treasurer, had just concluded a conference with Mrs. Countryman and his attorney. Court was in session and Judge Harry Edwards was awaiting his appearance to enter a plea of guilty or not guilty to the charges.

His death, it is said, will cost creditors of the Union State Bank $30,000. The sum represents claims they will be unable to collect because Countryman was the only person who had knowledge of the transactions and could supply the evidence to collect them.

Countryman had lived in Dixon fifteen years. He was 48 years old.

CONNOLLY CRITICISES JUDGE

Borough President Maurice E. Connolly indulged in a sharp criticism of Justice James C. Van Siclen of the Supreme Court yesterday in commenting upon the recent decision of the Judge in making permanent an injunction restraining the Borough President from removing property of the Nichols Copper Company from River Avenue, in the Laurel Hill section of Long Island City, pending a trial before a jury as to whether the bed of River Avenue belongs to the city or to the Nichols Company.

On Nov. 29 last President Connolly led a gang of about one hundred laborers of the Highway Department to River Avenue and began moving copper and iron ore and other material belonging to the Nichols Company from the street. The company obtained an injunction.

"The Judge characterized this as a 'raid' and also said that it was 'spectacular,'" said President Connolly. "It was neither a raid nor was it spectacular, and it is unfortunate that a Justice should take this view of the action of a public official who was endeavoring to protect the citizens against a trespassing corporation. The Justice speaks of the rights of the corporation and the protection of the corporation's interests. It is unfortunate that he did not spend a little time talking about the rights of the public and the protection of the public's interests."

WANTS MISS BIGGE'S NOTES.

Major Miller Threatens Suit When Wife's Lawyer Refuses Demand.

Letters written by Miss Maude Bigge, daughter of General Sir Thomas Bigge of the English Army, to Major Harry C. "Cyclone" Miller, which were introduced as evidence in the Queens County Supreme Court in the separation action brought by Mrs. Edna Grace Miller of Richmond Hill, may become the subject of a replevin suit by Major Miller to obtain them. H. O. Wood, Mrs. Miller's attorney, said last night that Major Miller said he would bring the suit after his demand for the letters was refused. The letters, numbering fifty, are now held by Justice Leander B. Faber, who is considering the separation action.

Mrs. Miller first discovered a letter in her husband's pocket addressed to him care of his mother, who lives in Brooklyn. Without notifying her husband Mrs. Miller sent an order to the Post Office that all mail for her husband was to be delivered at his home in Richmond Hill, and she took possession of those which were introduced as evidence as they arrived. After Justice Faber has decided the case he will return the letters to Mrs. Miller's attorney.

DISCUSS CITY EDUCATION.

Evening Debate in Town Hall Given to School Problems.

Adult education in this city was discussed by speakers last night at the Town Hall, 113 West Forty-Third Street, which is holding a week's opening celebration. Former Ambassador Abram Elkus, who presided, read a congratulatory message to the citizens of the city from President-elect Harding. Judge Elkus dwelt on the work of the free schools and colleges in the past and said the problem now confronting the citizens was whether ways could be found whereby these colleges could be dispensd with and young men and women still receive a collegiate education, and if necessary, without fees. He stressed the need of furnishing adult education to the foreign born, who, he said, were eager to learn the English language and the ideals of this country.

Both Dr. Mezes and Dr. Davis of Hunter College, discussed the proposal to withdraw municipal support of Hunter and City Colleges.

"It really cannot be a serious proposal," Dr. Mezes said. "The proposal would defeat its own ends." Dr. Davis told of the work of Hunter College, and denied that City College served only the rich.

ABBEY THANKS AMERICANS.

Dean of Westminster Acknowledges Carnegie Endowment Gift.

The Carnegie Endowment for International Peace has received from Herbert E. Ryle, Dean of Westminster, a message of thanks for the gift of £10,000 toward the restoration of Westminster Abbey. The letter, which was made public yesterday by Dr. Nicholas Murray Butler, Chairman of the division of intercourse and education of the endowment, read, in part:

"The great American people has always had a warm affection for Westminster Abbey, and I rejoice to know that this inheritance from early centuries of English history is felt to be one of those most hallowed pledges of brotherhood which help to unite the two great nations in enduring harmony and good will."

Similar messages of acknowledgment are announced by the endowment from Rheims and Belgrade, where the endowment is erecting libraries to replace the structures destroyed by the German and Austrian armies.

MAJOR PUTNAM UPHELD.

Commerce Chamber Won't Apologize for Asking Him to Speak.

The Directors of the Flatbush Chamber of Commerce, at a meeting last night, passed a resolution supporting the position taken by Louis H. Pounds, President of the Chamber, against the rowdyism which marked the attempts of Major George Haven Putnam to speak in Erasmus Hall High School. The action of the Directors will be reported to a meeting of the Chamber next Tuesday.

After the second frustration of Major Putnam's effort, Mr. Pounds said that the noisy members of the audience came from outside Flatbush, that they were an "unthinking crowd" who came to create a disturbance and that they had been coached. The Directors declared in their resolution that they had nothing to apologize for in having invited Major Putnam to speak.

Mission Committee's 21st Birthday.

The Central Committee on the United Study of Foreign Missions, the first interdenominational organization for mission study in the United States, will celebrate its twenty-first birthday at 8 o'clock tonight at the Marble Collegiate Church, Fifth Avenue and Twenty-ninth Street. Henry W. Peabody of Boston, Chairman of the committee, will preside.

4 AGENTS, 3 OTHERS HELD IN RUM PLOT

GIRL AND TWO MEN INDICTED

Another case of alleged withdrawal of whisky on forged permits was uncovered yesterday by agents of the Special Intelligence Unit of the Internal Revenue Bureau, who made seven arrests, including Mannie H. Hessler of 118 West Twenty-eighth Street, a wholesale liquor dealer, two men on the staff of Daniel J. Chapin, Supervising Prohibition Agent, and two inspectors in the office of Prohibition Director Charles R. O'Connor. The officials were charged with accepting or agreeing to accept bribes.

Another development in the attempt of the Government agents to more rigidly enforce the prohibition laws was the indictment by the United States Grand Jury of Edward Donegan, Miss Regina Sassone and Sigmund ("Beansy") Rosenfeld, arrested two weeks ago in the Hotel McAlpin. Donegan and Miss Sassone, who was employed as a clerk in Mr. O'Connor's office, were charged with having engaged in a conspiracy to defraud the Government by the use of forged withdrawal permits. Rosenfeld was charged with having offered a bribe of $25,000 to a Government agent. No indictment was returned against Mrs. Mary C. Parkins, a former clerk in Mr. O'Connor's office, who was arrested at the same time.

Local Officials Become Active.

In explaining the new policy of the New York City police, Chief Inspector William J. Lahey officially confirmed the reports that the police had been directed to close all saloons, cabarets and cafes at 1 o'clock. It also was admitted at headquarters that the police had been directed to be particularly watchful for the illegal sale of liquor in saloons.

Pat Kyne, manager of Reisenweber's, Fifty-eighth Street and Eighth Avenue, again defied the police edict concerning the time at which restaurants with cabarets are required to close and kept open after 1 o'clock this morning. Mr. Kyne declared there was no law empowering the police to direct him to close. "I am not antagonistic to the police," he said, "but I am going to stand upon my rights."

Mr. Kyne was asked what he intended to do if the police entered the restaurant and declared it closed.

"I will step into the middle of the room and tell those eating not to leave," he said. "The law permits us to sell food and non-alcoholic drinks at any hour, and we will keep on doing so."

Enforcement of the order was intrusted to precinct captains instead of to inspectors. Thomas Healy's restaurant at Sixty-sixth Street and Columbus Avenue was closed at 1 o'clock, as did the Palais Royal, the Moulin Rouge, the Folies Bergere, the Montmarte, the Little Club and Maxim's, all run by Paul Salvin.

The arrests of Kessler and those alleged to have been associated with him took place in or outside the storehouse of the Essential Chemical Company, 69 Cook Street, Brooklyn. Those arrested, besides Kessler, included Samuel Cohen, his brother-in-law and associate in business; Philip Coffey, formerly a prohibition Inspector and now in the employ of Kessler; William H. Hurley of Seneca Falls, N. Y., and Frank Streppone, prohibition Inspectors, and J. J. Dunn and Samuel Eliperin, prohibition agents.

Coffey, who was said to be from Troy, N. Y., resigned from Mr. O'Connor's staff on June 30. Hurley was said to have formerly been District Attorney of Seneca County. Dunn had been in the employ of the Internal Revenue Bureau for seven years, and was transferred from the office of Collector William H. Edwards a year ago, when nation-wide prohibition first went into effect.

It was learned from the Government agents that this was only part of the whisky alleged to have been withdrawn illegally by Kessler and his employes. David V. Cahill, Assistant United States District Attorney, said Kessler contracted to purchase 1,000 cases of whisky from the Essential Chemical Company for $40,000 and had paid $25,000 on account. It is charged that this whisky was withdrawn on forged permits. Kessler is under indictment on a charge of attempting to bribe a Government agent, and it was said that his annual withdrawal permit was canceled at that time.

Five truckloads of whisky were said to have started from the Essential Chemical Company warehouse in the morning, while the special agents were watching outside. Previously the agents had witnessed the arrival of Prohibition Agents Dunn and Eliperin, Kessler and Coffey, and Prohibition Inspectors Hurley and Streppone in the order named. The waiting agents, who apparently had a man on the inside, learned that Kessler paid Inspectors Hurley and Streppone $100 each and offered $250 each to Agents Dunn and Eliperin.

Although the arrests were made in the forenoon, it was nearly 6 o'clock in the evening before Kessler, Cohen and Coffey were arraigned before United States Commissioner Samuel H. Hitchcock in Manhattan. George A. Donnellan, attorney for the three defendants, protested against their detention for so long a period without opportunity to consult counsel. Upon his insistence Commissioner Hitchcock reduced the amount of bail asked for by Assistant District Attorney Cahill and held Kessler in $2,500 bail, Cohen in $1,500 and Coffey in $1,000 bail for a hearing next Tuesday.

The indictments returned against Edward Donegan and Miss Sassone charge Miss Sassone with informing Donegan of the contents of telegrams received from distilleries and bonded warehouses inquiring concerning the validity of withdrawal permits. Donegan is charged with having replied to these telegrams in Director O'Connor's name. Specific overt acts charged are the answering of telegrams sent by E. H. Taylor & Sons and the Frankfort Distilling Company, both of Frankfort, Ky., on Dec. 29.

The message of Governor Miller, indicating a desire for a stricter enforcement of the prohibition law, was received with interest by dealers in liquor as well as by officials. It has been known for several months that the illicit traffickers in liquor have not expected their business to go on indefinitely and that many of them had arranged for a quick "clean-up" and had already gone out of business.

ROSS ATTACKS DRY BUREAUS.

Agents Crooked and Inefficient, He Says—Also Criticises Police.

Leroy W. Ross, United States District Attorney in Brooklyn, addressing the Rotary Club, at a luncheon in the Hotel Bossert yesterday, said his office, in its attempt to enforce prohibition "had to deal with an enforcement bureau to which many of the men were absolutely crooked, and a still larger number absolutely ineffecient."

Mr. Ross said the work was made difficult by the number of withdrawal permits issued in this State, amounting to 17,200 last year. This year, he said not more than 150 permits would be issued and the work of checking withdrawals would be comparatively simple.

"We have had to proceed without any co-operation upon the part of the police," said Mr. Ross, "and at no time has there been in this district more than twenty-five prohibition agents.

"We also have had to deal not only with indifference, but in thousands of cases with absolute hostility and active opposition by the very type of citizen who should be most interested in seeing law and order upheld."

SMITH GIRLS MEET TESTS.

Eighty-two per cent. of the group made A and 99 per cent. either A or B. The seniors made a median score of 155. Of the three members of the junior class elected to Phi Betta Kappa last year two who took the test were both in Group A, while more than half of the others who stood in A or B hold offices of importance in the student organizations.

TO FIGHT BLUE LAWS THROUGHOUT NATION

Sunday Rights Association Organized to Safeguard Personal Liberty.

MARTIN VOGEL CHAIRMAN

The Sunday Rights Association, an organization designed to oppose Sunday blue law legislation, was launched yesterday at a meeting in the Hotel Biltmore. With Martin Vogel, former Assistant Treasurer of the United States, as temporary Chairman, the association will conduct a nation-wide campaign to prevent curtailment of personal liberty on the Sabbath, and will leave the question of prohibition alone.

Announcement of another countrywide drive against the blue law agitation came when it was said a fight would be waged by the Anti-Blue Law League of America, headquarters at 302 Woodward Building, Washington. The second campaign will be extended "even to counties and small towns."

Mr. Vogel presided at the Biltmore meeting and others there were F. H. LaGuardia, President of the Board of Aldermen; John F. McCourt, Vice Chairman of the Aldermen; Dr. Royal S. Copeland, Health Commissioner; Elmore Leffingwell, Frank Smith, Chairman of the Educational Committee of the Knights of Columbus; Joseph A. Durkin of the Downtown Civic Association, Stanley Gunnison, President of Stanley Gunnison & Co., 30 Church Street; William O. Conway, lawyer, and V. E. Scott, who was elected Secretary of the association.

Among the purposes of the Sunday Rights Association are:

To advocate a religious observance of the Sabbath, holding that it is the duty of every man, woman and child in this country to attend church if they so desire and to occupy themselves during the remainder of the day in the lawful recreation best suited to afford them the most complete rest possible.

To protect Sunday from such restrictive legislation as shall work against its customary enjoyment as a day of rest and recreation by all the people of the United States.

To undertake to have stricken from the statute books of the various States of this country all Sunday legislation which improperly restricts personal liberty.

Mr. Vogel, in outlining the purpose of the meeting, declared that the launching of the movement against drastic regulation of the Sunday affairs of the people was comparable to the Declaration of Independence. Commissioner Copeland favored the idea on the ground that to deprive the people of outdoor enjoyment on Sunday would be to work against their health.

Heavy Snowstorm Hits Midwest.

KANSAS CITY, Jan. 13.—A heavy snowfall was reported today over Kansas, Missouri and Oklahoma, while rain, freezing as it fell, prevailed throughout Arkansas.

tection against burglars to firms willing to pay for it. It is alleged that policemen have been assigned to do nothing but watch the premises of one concern, when that concern had paid for special service. Still other methods of using the Police Department as a money-making private detective agency are likely to be disclosed, it was said.

Some of the methods of grafting developed in the last few years, according to the information of Mr. Whitman or his assistants, are these:

1. Exacting payment for ordinary police work, with the intimation that police protection will not be given unless specially paid for. This applies to hunting burglars, as well as handling strikers.
2. Selling unusual police protection against burglars and other criminals to those willing to pay specially for it.
3. Showing negligence in the recovery of stolen goods unless presents are forthcoming from the victim of the burglars.
4. Acting in collusion with private detective agencies. It is asserted that a favored agency, usually one in which an ex-policeman is interested, is frequently recommended by the police for employment. When so employed, it is alleged that regular members of the Police Department are assigned to do the work for which the private agency gets special fees. All the above relate to what is known as "honest graft" or "clean graft."

District Attorney Swann said yesterday that he had written a formal letter to Police Commissioner Enright asking for the services of Detective Al Thomas, former confidential man to Mr. Whitman. This is the fourth time Mr. Swann has made the request on Commissioner Enright, who had ignored it, in spite of Mayor Hylan's alleged promise to give the Grand Jury any six detectives it desired for use in the Whitman investigation.

or with the Chicago Opera Association or divide her season between the companies will be decided, it is said, when the Chicago company opens its season in New York Jan. 25.

There was much comment among New Yorkers concerned with grand opera last night over the news flashed from Chicago of the election of the first woman director, and that woman no less famous a singing actress than Mary Garden, as official head of the Chicago opera stars, who will begin their Eastern engagement of six weeks at the Manhattan Opera House a week from Monday night. It was at the Manhattan, in three of Oscar Hammersteins four seasons up to 1910, that Miss Garden, known till then only on the Paris stage, established her reputation here and elsewhere in America, the land of her childhood. She first appeared in New York on Nov. 25, 1907.

Miss Garden became most popular as an interpreter of exotic rôles in opera, notably in the 'Salome' of Wilde and Strauss, produced after it had been barred from the Metropolitan stage. Her early Manhattan performances in "Thais," "Louise," "Pelleas et Melisande" and "Jongleur de Notre Dame" gave prestige to the house, while it still was said that Tetrazzini in the old Italian favorites "brought in the money," occasionally helped out by Bressler-Gianoli in "Carmen" or Dalmore and Renaud in "Tales of Hoffmann."

Always a potent figure in the company in its later Philadelphia and Chicago migrations, Miss Garden appeared in the first visits of the "allied" troupe to the Metropolitan, and since then in the Chicago company's independent venture of the last three seasons at the Lexington. She had recently been announced to sing on the second night of the coming Manhattan engagement, on Jan. 25, in Fevrier's "Monna Vanna."

Mary Garden was born in Aberdeen, Scotland, Feb. 20, 1877, and came as a child six years old to this country with her parents, who lived for various periods in Chicopee, Mass., and Hartford, Conn., moving later to Philadelphia and to Chicago. She played a violin in public when 12 years old and appeared in amateur theatricals until a wealthy woman offered to assist her musical education in Europe.

In 1896, Miss Garden went to Paris, studying singing with Trabadello, Chevallier and Fugere. Her Marguerite in "Faust" has often been cited as a proof that her singing lessons were not in vain, though she refused to consider that her best asset ever was her voice. She made her operatic début as substitute for a Mlle. Rioton, suddenly indisposed, in the third act of Charpentier's "Louise" at the Opera Comique on April 13, 1900, and not only finished that evening but retained the star rôle for 100 consecutive nights.

declined specifically to discuss the brawl between Farrell and Hinton, which followed their arrival at Mattice from Moose Factory, nor would they say anything about the incidents on the trail. They simply stood pat on Kloor's formal statement that the whole affair was a petty squabble due to overwrought nerves. They also made it evident that they were sticking together, and were allowing Kloor to control them, at least outwardly, in all things.

In face of their persistent determination to ignore the disagreement between Farrell and Hinton, Farrell's punch to Hinton's jaw and the picture Hinton painted in the published letters to his wife which made him a hero and Farrell the "weak sister" of the journey through the woods, there are impressive intimations from persons who accompanied them at least part of the way back from Moose Factory that the whole story has not been told. Whether it ever will be told now, is, of course, a matter of conjecture, but it is evident from the attitude of all three that they regard Kloor's statement of renewed friendship from Mattice yesterday as adequate, and are willing to drop the whole thing if they are permitted to do so.

When Farrell stepped from the train today a telegram was handed to him. According to the man who delivered it it was from the Navy Department. Farrell tore open the envelope and quickly read the message, but did not disclose its contents.

Lieutenant Kloor, who wrote a 10,000 word narrative of the balloon adventure which the three hoped to sell for at least enough to pay for their trip, endeavored to dispose of his manuscript today by offering it to Canadian and American correspondents on the train, according to three of the correspondents. There were no bids and Kloor then announced he would turn it into a book.

PARADE AT ROCKAWAY IN HONOR OF AIRMEN

Balloonists to Have Luncheon Here—Statement of Mrs. Hinton Is Denied at Washington.

The Reception Committee at Rockaway completed its plans for welcoming the returning aeronauts at a meeting last night. Lieutenant A. E. Brewer, in charge of the naval division of the parade, brought word to the committee members that a telephone message had been received to the effect that the aviators would arrive over the Lehigh Valley Road at 10:36 this morning.

A committee of four, composed of T. C. McKenna, Chairman of the Entertainment Committee; Dave Eisenberg, Jacob Strauss and William H. Reynolds, will be at the Pennsylvania Station this morning to greet the airmen. Lieutenants Hinton, Kloor and Farrell will be escorted to the Pennsylvania Hotel for luncheon, leaving later on a special train in time to reach Hammels by 1:30 this afternoon, when the parade is scheduled to start.

The committee sent an invitation to President Wilson to participate in the homecoming celebration tendered the areonauts by the business men of the Rockaways. Yesterday the Chairman received the following reply from the White House:

> Washington, D. C., Jan. 12, 1921.
> The Rockaway Beach Board of Trade:
> Gentlemen—The President has asked me to thank you cordially for your letter of Jan. 11. While he deeply appreciates the courteous invitation which you extend to him, he deeply regrets that his state of health is such as to make it impossible for him to send his acceptance. He is very gratified by your kind thought of him.
>
> Sincerely,
> JOSEPH P. TUMULTY,
> Secretary to the President.

Houses and stores along the route the aviators will parade today were being decorated last night with flags and bunting, and school girls, it was said, were seeking flowers to give to the men as they passed.

Mrs. Addie Hinton, who was staying with friends in Brooklyn last night, told a TIMES reporter that her permission to release Lieutenant Hinton's letter to her had been granted by the Bureau of Operations of the Navy Department in Washington. Mrs. Hinton regretted that the source of her permission had been divulged, but said that since it had been made a matter of public record she decided it was better not to remain silent any longer on this subject. She added that the permission was in writing.

Secretary Daniels, when informed late last night that Mrs. Hinton had announced that permission to release Lieutenant Hinton's letter had been granted by the Bureau of Operations of the Navy Department in Washington, in writing, stated that he knew nothing about the matter. Mr. Daniels said that he himself had not given permission to Mrs. Hinton to release the letter, but that from her statements he did not doubt that she thought she had permission to give out the letter. Mr. Daniels said that he knew of no officers of the navy who had authority to grant such permission to Mrs. Hinton.

Admiral Robert E. Coontz, Chief of Operations of the Navy Department, early this morning informed THE NEW YORK TIMES Washington correspondent, in response to an inquiry, that he had not granted permission, in writing, or otherwise, to Mrs. Hinton for the publication of the letter which she had received from Lieutenant Hinton.

Mrs. Stephen A. Farrell said yesterday that she, her son Ernest and a party of friends would go to New York from her home in Brooklyn to greet Lieutenant Farrell. Her daughter Emily, who is recovering from scarlet fever, would not be able to make the trip, she said.

BIG LABOR ISSUES AWAIT HARDING

PLAN FIGHT ON 'OPEN SHOP'

SEE MENACE TO UNIONS

Reports Business and Financial Interests Seek to Destroy Them Believed to Be True.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 13.—Developments in the national capital and in various parts of the nation are bringing the conviction in some Government circles that the controversy between capital and labor will provide one of the big problems which the Harding Administration will be called upon to face after March 4.

The activities of the International Machinists' Union in asking the Interstate Commerce Commission to make an investigation of the railroad shop situation is but one incident in a broad program on the part of organized labor to hold the position won during the war. It has served the purpose at least of focusing public attention upon the fact that labor is preparing for a battle.

The controversy has reached the point where recognition has been given to it by the American Federation of Labor and is the matter of investigation and discussion. So important is the situation, in the eyes of leaders in the federation, that it is understood a meeting of officials of all international unions—there are nearly 200 such bodies—will be held at the Labor Temple in Washington after the middle of next month to discuss ways and means of fighting an "open shop" movement on the part of the employers which would threaten to weaken the present status of the unions.

A meeting of this kind would have few precedents in the history of the American Federation of Labor. A general meeting was held upon the declaration of war against Germany, at which labor's plans for the conflict were discussed and its support pledged to the United States, and such a call now would indicate a situation that was looked upon as of vital importance to organized labor.

Officials of labor unions here are unwilling to discuss their plans at this time, save in a general way. They are watching the situation throughout the country, and some of them at least see in the frequent announcements of reduced wages and reduced working forces a systematic effort on the part of a certain group of employers to break the power of labor.

The United States Steel Corporation, the General Electric Company, the Westinghouse Company and some of the railroads are among those most frequently heard mentioned in labor circles as among the concerns which are shaping plans for an open shop movement which it is held would so reduce the power of organized labor that it would be unable to make an effective stand for its rights.

The developments of the last few weeks, at least, have not served to bring labor and capital closer together. Labor officials have charged that certain industrial and financial interests are seeking to obtain the appointment of a man as Secretary of Labor who would be inimical to their interests; who would be opposed to collective bargaining and support the "open shop" theory in its most pronounced form.

With this conviction in their minds representatives of labor interests have frankly enough started a drive on President-elect Harding to obtain the appointment of a man who would be acceptable to them—preferably one of their number. The situation thus developed at Marion has served to emphasize the feeling which exists.

Just what plans the American Federation of Labor may contemplate in connection with a fight on the "open shop" is a matter of debate. It is probable that a policy of educating the public will be adopted, by which the facts and figures in regard to controversies between labor and capital will be presented from the viewpoint of organized labor.

Tentative plans in the minds of some labor officials are said to contemplate raising a fund which may run to $1,000,000 or more for the purpose of conducting labor's campaign.

It is the contention of some of the labor leaders that reports heard during the campaign that certain business and financial interests were going to "break" union labor were not unfounded, and that developments today show that certain interests are endeavoring to carry out such a program.

Dubuque Car Shop on 4-Day Week.

DUBUQUE, Iowa, Jan. 13.—Effective Monday, 700 employes of the car department of the Chicago, Milwaukee & St. Paul Railroad shops here will work on a four-day week schedule, it was announced today.

DISPUTE OVER RULE HALTS RAIL HEARING

Workers' Representative and Whiter Clash on Experience Clause—Take Up 75 Rules.

CHICAGO, Jan. 13.—Disputes over the interpretation of a carmen's rule interrupted the afternoon session of the Railroad Labor Board hearing today to such an extent that the chair was compelled to call the meeting to order. The discussion came during the testimony of E. T. Whiter in behalf of the railroads, which are asking for abrogation of the National agreement.

The discussion was precipitated when A. O. Wharton, employes' representative on the board, questioned Mr. Whiter regarding employment of car repairmen. Under the rule, to which the roads object, employes must have had four years' experience. Mr. Wharton brought out that men were employed on many roads who did not have that experience. Mr. Whiter said that men filling the requirements were not available.

P. M. Jewell, representing the employes, declared decisions of the Federal Director-General of Railroads permitted inexperienced men to be employed, but the rail men retaliated with examples of cases in which they were compelled to discharge men because their car experience was less than four years.

When the board adjourned today until Monday, to allow executive sessions the remainder of the week, Mr. Whiter had taken up opposition to 75 rules. There are 182 to be considered in the case of the shop crafts.

Mr. Whiter said he might be able to finish his case by the end of next week. Presentation of evidence on rules covering the remaining classes of employes, he said, would probably consume another two weeks.

GOVERNOR UPHOLDS TEACHERS' INCREASE

Opposes Rescinding Last Year's Increase—School Organizations Pledge Economy Support.

Special to The New York Times.

ALBANY, Jan. 13.—Governor Miller declared today for permanency of increased salaries for teachers as granted by the last Legislature. He asserted an endeavor on the part of the State to effect economy by refusing to continue teachers' salary increases would prove fatal.

"I am in favor of retaining the present standard," he said, "it would be a backward step to public education for the State to fail to approve last year's salary schedule."

He had not conferred with legislative leaders on the subject because he had taken it for granted "that the Legislature will continue the 1920 increase as a permanent one."

The Governor's statement followed a conference with Dr. John H. Finley, whose resignation as Commissioner of Education and President of the University of the State of New York becomes effective Jan. 15, and Frank B. Gilbert, who will become acting Commissioner. They discussed departmental budget requests and the Governor was assured that every curtailment possible would be made.

Representatives of school organizations from all over the State met in conference with Dr. Finley and Dr. Gilbert in the State Education Department in the afternoon. It was suggested that adult classes in Americanization be organized under local control and by local supervisors; that all teachers be employed by local authorities, and that the State, through its directors and specialists, aid and advise local authorities, superintendents, supervisors and teachers as to methods of Americanization. It was also suggested that State aid should be given to certain localities. In this way appropriations for adult education by the State could be reduced by an amount in excess of $150,000.

The conference adopted a formal resolution commending the Governor for his economy program and expressing willingness to aid him in carrying out educational policies tending to reduce expenditures.

MEXICO CITY, Jan. 14.—General Heliodoro Ferez with five officials who rebelled with General Murgia, have been captured after a short fight in the State of Hidalgo and were executed there this morning after a drum head court-martial. Murguia with his brother escaped in the dress of cattlemen.

The War Department says it will take severe measures in all attempts of revolt. All officers and ex-officers of the army captured will be executed after court-martial, and civilians who go with officers in a revolution will share the same fate.

EL PASO, Texas, Jan. 13.—The rebel general fled, pursued by federal troops after eight of his men had been killed and a number wounded.

OSSINING, N. Attillo was brought from Auburn Prison Dec. 31 last to be treated with radium, owned privately by Dr. Amos O. Squire, head prison physician. The cancer had spread too much, however, before he was treated.

THREE ARE KILLED IN IRISH AMBUSHES

DUBLIN, Jan. 13.—Shortly after 9 o'clock tonight an attempt was made to ambush a touring car containing auxiliary officers in Merrion Square, one of the fashionable residential districts of Dublin. Two bombs were thrown from a side street. One exploded and the other was afterwards found by the police. The car accelerated its speed, the occupents discharging their revolvers in the direction from which the bombs were flung. There were no casualties to the police and as far as is known the assailants also escaped.

Six persons, three girls, two men and a boy, were taken to Jervis Street hospital tonight suffering from wounds, all of which are said to have been sustained at O'Connell Bridge when a military lorry was engaged at this point in holding up motor traffic and examining permits. They seized a motorcycle and fixed it on the lorry, the rider apparently being without a permit. A London journalistic friend, who witnessed the scene, informs me that when the lorry was about to move off he saw one of the soldiers whip his rifle to his shoulder and fire. Turning around, my informant saw a boy lying on the pavement quite near him, and just beyond a young woman was prostrate, bleeding from the mouth. This woman has since died, while the boy is suffering from a severe scalp wound.

Only one shot was fired, but it appears to have wounded six persons, one fatally.

During the day the Crown forces have been particularly active in raiding tramcars and vehicular traffic, and pedestrians were being subjected to search.

While traveling from Ennis to Limerick this morning a police lorry was fired at from disused houses near Cratloe station, and a sergeant and a constable were killed.

Proclamations have been extensively posted in and around Longford, declaring the county included in the area of martial law. This probably is due to the recent murder of District Inspector McGrath there. The town of Longford is not included.

DUBLIN, Jan. 13.—A mysterious shooting affair occurred near the O'Connell bridge in Dublin this afternoon. A detachment of soldiers was stationed at this place, but it is declared that the soldiers did not fire.

Seven casualties resulted, one girl being killed, one boy probably mortally wounded and five other persons wounded. Witnesses say that a crowd had gathered to watch the soldiers stopping automobiles, and that it was when the military was leaving that a single shot was fired, which wrought the havoc.

How the discharge of one rifle could have caused so many casualties is not to be explained, but the shooting was witnessed by three British newspaper men, one of whom declares that he narrowly escaped the bullet. A civilian, James O'Reilly, asserts that he saw the shot fired from a lorry, but believes it to have been accidental.

"After the shot was fired," added O'Reilly, "I saw a Corporal in the lorry go up to each soldier and feel his rifle, apparently to ascertain whether the barrel was warm. I saw him nod when he felt the rifle of the second man on the left of the driver."

CORK, Jan. 13.—Police and military made a sensational discovery of arms today in the Blarney district, about five miles from Cork. A machine gun, several rifles and thousands of rounds of ammunition were among the seizures made. Five men were arrested and to these arrests the authorities attach much importance.

It stated on good authority that the machine gun was being removed by a girl from a house as a search party arrived. She had gone some distance with it when she was overtaken and arrested.

Ulster Constable Killed.

BELFAST, Jan. 13.—A postman from Crossmaglen, South Armagh, and an escort of police on bicycles, were fired on this morning from a vacant house at the roadside near Cullyhanna, where the postman was conveying the mails and old-age pension money. The postman and one constable were wounded, the postman seriously. The police returned the fire, and the fighting was kept up for some time.

A relief party of the Ulster special constabulary responded to a call for help and Constable William F. Gompston was shot and killed. He is the first man of the special Ulster force to be killed.

LIMERICK, Jan. 13.—Sixty of the prisoners who were placed on trial in connection with an attack on Dec. 27 on Crown forces who were approaching a place where a dance was being held near Bruff, County Limerick, were sentenced today by a field general court-martial to ten years' penal servitude. Five years in each case, however, has been remitted.

DE VALERA PUZZLED, BRITISH OBSERVERS SAY

The Government Seems Little Concerned About Him, Believing That Home Rule Will Win.

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

LONDON, Jan. 13.—Inquiry in authoritative circles shows that the Government is not likely to accede to Eamon de Valera's suggestion that documents attributed to him should be submitted to an investigation by American and British business men. In fact, it seems that the Government is not worrying much about de Valera at all. It regards the logic of events as entirely against him, and is quite content to permit them to develop along their natural lines.

This view is founded on the belief that de Valera has returned to Ireland a much disillusioned man, and that he found himself in a position of uncommon difficulty in the United States.

It is believed that he has learned one thing, that there is a great deal of noise about Ireland, but very little true concern about it, and that those who shout loudest do it merely to suit their own domestic political needs and are not in the least likely to do anything definite to give substance to their clamor.

Then, from Ireland, it was suggested to THE NEW YORK TIMES that de Valera cannot be comfortable there. He returns to find two things, a very active and violent set of extremists, who care no more for him than they did for John Redmond or John Dillon, and a growing wonder among moderate Sinn Feiners as to whether it is worth while going on. They can have their southern Parliament in a few weeks if they will accept it, and they have had in the last eighteen months to face the cold hard facts in a way they have not been asked to do for nearly a generation. They have been thinking hard, and Government supporters declare that they are on the verge of deciding that there is nothing to be gained by continuing the fight and at any moment de Valera may find his main supporters fade away.

But what can he do if he throws in his lot with the extremists? Mountjoy Jail would await him. If he begins to negotiate with Downing Street, the Royal Irish Constabulary might find it difficult to protect him. He is between the devil and the deep sea, and inquiries here suggest that the British authorities do not care much which he chooses. They believe that their policy is on the eve of success, although they will not prophesy as to when the climax will come. There are too many advantages within reach of the Irish if they will only stretch out their hands for them, they maintain, for them to be obdurate for much longer, and then the real day of hope for Ireland will have dawned.

STORY OF DE VALERA KILLED

Unconfirmed Report, Current Here, Is Scouted by Boland.

A rumor to the effect that Eamon de Valera had been shot and killed yesterday afternoon by a Sinn Feiner, for an alleged "betrayal of the Irish Republic," was current in Irish circles in this city last night. It was reported, though unverified, that a code cable message had been received by a man identified with the Irish cause here stating briefly that de Valera had been killed.

The message was received, it was said, by a member of the Friends of Irish Freedom in this city. This organization opposed de Valera while the latter was in this country.

"I don't believe it," said Harry Boland, Secretary to de Valera, when told of the report last night. "I'm sure there is nothing to it."

WOMAN ASKED TO HELP JAPANESE GAIN STATURE

Kentucky Breeder of Prize Jerseys Invited to Show How to Raise Milk Producers.

Special to The New York Times.

LOUISVILLE, Ky., Jan. 13.—The Japanese want to become taller and stronger. They have invited a Kentucky woman to help them. If she accepts, Mrs. Sue Thornton Henning of Shelbyville will sail for Japan next April. She is one of the leading live stock women of the State and is known all over the country.

The Nipponese believe that by drinking more milk the race will become hardier. They want Mrs. Henning to teach them how to produce the best Jersey cattle in the world. The offer was made by a personal representative of the Emperor of Japan, Mrs. Henning said yesterday, Issa Tanimura, who visited Allendale farm, owned by Mrs. Henning, at Shelbyville, to extend the invitation.

Tanimura was delegated by the Emperor to visit America and to study the milk production of this country. The Emperor plans to make extensive importations of milch cows, according to the information Mrs. Henning received.

She met the Japanese delegate at the annual meeting of the American Jersey Cattle Club in New York last July and invited him to visit her farm. When he sailed from America last August he took with him motion picture films showing farm life at Allendale. These will be shown throughout Japan.

"Milk and milch cattle are scarce in Japan," Mrs. Henning said yesterday, "and they want me to lecture to their women on the breeding and rearing of the best milch cows for practical purposes. The Emperor, who has a model dairy farm to which he gives his personal attention, is interested intensely in the project. I am considering the offer."

Tanimura is a graduate of Yale University and an honorary fellow of agriculture of Cornell University.

Mrs. Henning has been recognized as one of the most successful producers of prize Jersey cattle in America.

HELD IN $250,000 BOSTON BANK CASE

Kirk A. Landau, managing Vice President of the Pacat Corporation of 42 Broadway, was arrested yesterday by Deputy Sheriffs on a civil order by Supreme Court Justice Burr in a suit in which the defendant was accused of defrauding the Shawmut National Bank of Boston out of $250,000. He was taken to Ludlow Street jail because he could not give $75,000 bail. The Pacat concern went into bankruptcy in December.

The order of arrest was issued on an affidavit by John Bolinger, Vice President of the Shawmut National Bank, which said the Pacat Corporation was formed last August to deal in foreign exchange, and presented a sworn statement to a financial agency that it had $1,000,000 capital stock, of which $250,000 was paid in. The corporation got credit in this way.

The Boston bank gave a check for $115,000 to Landau for the Pacat corporation in connection with the purchase of Italian lire. On another transaction in German marks, the Boston bank paid $185,952 and for 1,000,000 francs the bank gave a check for $58,627.

The papers allege that only a small part of the exchange purchased by the Shawmut Bank was negotiated for by Landau in behalf of the Pacat corporation and that he conducted the operations knowing that the corporation was insolvent and could not carry them through. It is alleged that the creditors of the Pacat company will get not more than thirty cents on the dollar.

LANSING'S PEACE BOOK TO GIVE LEAGUE VIEW

Ex-Secretary's Impressions of the Paris Conference—Written From His Diary.

The approaching publication of ex-Secretary of State Robert L. Lansing's book on the Peace Conference was announced yesterday by Houghton, Mifflin & Co. It will appear on March 25.

"Mr. Lansing's book is called 'Peace Negotiations,'" said Frank Bruce, the company's office manager here.

"It is about 380 pages in length, and the chapters are headed according to the various issues discussed at Paris, 'The Shantung Question,' 'Self-Determination,' 'The Rights of Small Nations,' and so forth. Although compiled from the diary which Mr. Lansing kept at the Peace Conference, it makes no attempt at chronological sequence, but is a critical review of the proceedings."

Whether the book contains an attack upon the policies of President Wilson Mr. Bruce would not say. He intimated that it was a defense of the writer's viewpoint.

"The book will make interesting reading," he said, "and the public is certain to be surprised. From the fact that in the opening pages Mr. Lansing promises to show why his mind 'did not go along' with the President's you may draw your own conclusions."

The appearance of "Peace Negotiations" will have a two-fold interest. It will be the first break in the silence Mr. Lansing has maintained since his resignation. In this connection it has been recalled that William C. Bullitt on Sept. 12, 1919, quoted Mr. Lansing as saying that if the American people understood what the treaty meant they would be "dead against it." But Mr. Lansing has never commented publicly on the Bullitt statement. Just three weeks after President Wilson quits the White House Mr. Lansing's ideas of what happened and what should have happened at the Paris conference will be made public.

The review of the conference will be the first written by an actual participant.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 13.—While Mr. Lansing had refrained from discussing for publication the contents of his book on the Peace Conference, it is learned from other sources that it will be a remarkably interesting and important contribution to the literature of the war and America's share in the making of the peace. Mr. Lansing was a member of the American Peace Commission as well as Secretary of State at the time that he was in Paris, and it is understood that, as had been his practice for some years in Washington, he kept a daily diary. It is said that it was not his wish to publish the book so long as President Wilson was in the White House.

It is understood that the book will deal in part with relations between the ex-Secretary of State and President Wilson respecting matters in which there was a difference of opinion between them at Paris.

One friend of Mr. Lansing is authority for the statement that it will contain matter evidently intended as a vindication on the position of Mr. Lansing at Paris in matters in which he was opposed to or opposed by Mr. Wilson, with respect to the framing of the League of Nations and the Versailles Treaty.

INAUGURAL GOWNS CHEAPER

WASHINGTON, Jan. 13.—Abandonment of plans for an inaugural ball was reflected today in an advertisement in a local newspaper.

Calling attention in large display type to the fact that "The Inaugural Ball Has Been Called Off," an exclusive garment shop for women announced "the sale of dinner and dance gowns at one-third off."

"Brought about by the abandonment of the inaugural ball," the advertisement continued, "we are offering for immediate disposal, while the stocks are fresh and new, our entire elegant stock of all dance frocks, evening gowns, ball costumes, dinner dresses and evening wraps."

Want Porto Rican as Governor.

Felix Cordova Davila, Resident Commissioner of Porto Rico in this country, and Antonio R. Barcelo, President of the Porto Rican Senate, discussed Porto Rican affairs with Senator Harding today.

"We came," said Mr. Davila, "to urge upon the President-elect the appointment of a Porto Rican to be Governor of the island. We recognize that Porto Rico is American, and always will be. We feel that as the people of Porto Rico are American citizens there should be no discrimination as between continental and insular Americans.

"We would be pleased if the incoming President would consider Mr. Martin Drevieso for Governor. He was at one time acting Governor of the island and is now Secretary of State. He is a graduate of Cornell University, and has been connected as a judge with the American Administration of affairs in Santa Domingo.

Peter Norbeck of South Dakota, who was elected Senator in November and has just retired from the Governorship, called on Senator Harding today while on his way to Washington. He was accompanied by Willis C. Cook of Sioux Falls, committeeman for South Dakota and I. A. Coswell, committeeman for Minnesota. They discussed matters of interest to the Northwest in connection with the program of the incoming Administration.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 13.—President-elect Harding is taking great interest in the different tax proposals as a substitute for the excess profits tax, which he declared in his campaign, should be repealed. It is understood here that he desires to recommend in a definite way some new forms of taxation in his inaugural.

In order to learn something of the final sales tax bill sponsored by Representative Isaac Bacharach of the Ways and Means Committee, Mr. Harding has summoned the author of the bill to Marion. Mr. Bacharach left tonight, convinced that he can show Mr. Harding that this is the best form of taxation to take the place of the excess profits tax. His bill places a tax of 1 per cent. on final sales, and it is estimated that it will yield about $900,000,000 yearly.

MEET HARDING'S VIEWS ON CAPITOL CEREMONY

"Front Porch" Inauguration to Take Place on East Portico—Committee Recalls Invitations.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 13.—President-elect Harding's suggestion that his inauguration take place on the East Portico of the Capitol was ratified formally today by the joint Congressional committee in charge of the ceremonies. The "front porch" plan, members said, would be carried out literally and every possible dollar of expense eliminated. No spectators' stands, benches or even camp stools would be provided, they added.

Members of Congress, the Supreme Court and other officials will assemble on the Capitol portico. A small stand will be built on which Senator Harding will stand in full view of the assemblage expected, and a sound amplifying device will be installed over the President-elect's head so that all in the crowd may hear his inaugural address.

President Wilson signed the joint resolution today appropriating $50,000 for the Capitol expenses in connection with the inauguration, but under the decision of the Congressional committee the only part of it which will be used will be for adjusting canceled contracts for building a stand at the Capitol and for engraved invitations.

CORK MAYOR TELLS OF CITY'S TROUBLES

With Deportation Pending, He Accomplishes Mission by Testifying at Unofficial Inqury.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 13.—Lord Mayor O'Callaghan of Cork described today before the commission from the unofficial Committee of One Hundred investigating Irish conditions his efforts to function as Chief Executive of a city of 100,000 population while "on the run."

Officials of the City of Cork, the Lord Mayor said, found it impossible to devote their best efforts to administration of the city when they were in daily fear of arrest or assassination. The Lord Mayor said he had not slept in his own home for two years, and that in his absence his home had been raided eight times by the Crown forces. Visits to the City Hall, recently destroyed by fire, the Lord Mayor said, were few and far between, and the administration of public affairs was carried on wherever he happened to be living.

The Mayor, in appearing before the commission to present his testimony and thereby accomplish the object of his visit to the United States as a stowaway and without a passport, gave his recital of conditions in Ireland in a voice devoid of Irish accent, but too low to reach the outskirts of a large crowd that packed the hotel ballroom where the commission holds its sessions.

The Lord Mayor presented a number of instances of what he characterized as outrages on the people of Ireland, and concluded his day before the Commission with an attack on the American newspapers as British controlled, declaring that "outrages in Ireland" receive little publicity in the United States.

"The killing of a young man in Ireland, the injury of his sister and other indignities to his family," he said, "received five lines of publicity on the back page of one of your newspapers."

In addition to his verbal presentation to the Commission, O'Callaghan caused to be entered into the Commission's records thirty affidavits detailing killings, burnings, robberies, and tortures, which he asserted were committed against the Irish by British military and police.

PROTEST TO JAPAN ON LANGDON KILLING

serving as a machinist on board the battleship Ohio.

The Japanese Embassy gave out two cable dispatches from the Foreign Office regarding the shooting. One stated that a court-martial had been ordered to try the sentry who did the shooting. The other asserted that conflicting information had been received by the Government, which did not show the real facts.

The first telegram read:

"The public and Government of Japan are deeply concerned by this unhappy incident and the Commander in Chief of the Japanese army at Vladivostok did not delay to visit officially the Captain of the American cruiser Albany. At the same time the Minister of War expressed his deep sympathy for the victim in a message addressed to the Captain of the Albany.

"The sentry has been ordered to be court-martialed.

"The facts concerning the incident and who is to blame are not clear now and their ascertainment must await the results of the court-martial.

"The Japanese public and authorities express their deepest sympathy for the death of the chief engineer and are hoping this unhappy incident will not disturb the friendly sentiments of the American people."

The second cablegram to the Embassy was as follows:

"The information coming to the Government concerning this unfortunate incident is conflicting in some particulars, so that the Government does not know what are the real facts, but up to the present time the information received is as follows:

"At 4 o'clock on the morning of Jan. 8 this officer (Lieutenant Langdon) happened to pass through the street in front of the headquarters of the Eleventh Division. He was carrying a flash-light and was flashing it. The night was dark. The sentinel, being suspicious, three times ordered him to stop. He did not stop, so the sentinel followed him and a conversation, lasting some minutes, ensued, and unhappily neither seemed to understand the other. After that the shooting occurred."

WASHINGTON, Jan. 13 (Associated Press).—The following version of the shooting of Lieutenant Langdon was issued by the Japanese Embassy here today:

"The Japanese sentry stationed in front of the Japanese Staff Headquarters at 4:30 o'clock in the morning saw a man approaching who was using a searchlight, casting its rays upon the front of the staff building. He stopped the man and demanded to know if he was 'Russian or Americansky.' Not understanding the reply made by Langdon, the sentry sought to pull back the hood which was drawn over his face to inspect him. The officer resisted and drew a revolver, whereupon the sentry stepped back a couple of paces and presented his bayonet. The officer turned to proceed on his way. The sentry called to him in Japanese to stop, and when the order was disregarded he fired. Langdon turned upon the sentry and fired twice at him with his revolver, and then collapsed."

WILL URGE MILLER TO AID LOCKWOOD

Untermyer, Accompanied by Senator, Will Confer With Governor Today.

CHAIRMAN MORE HOPEFUL

He Will Demand Joint Hearing Before Senate and Assembly Committees Next Week.

Special to The New York Times.

ALBANY, Jan. 13.—Samuel Untermyer, chief counsel for the Lockwood Committee, arrived here tonight. With Senator Charles C. Lockwood of Kings, Chairman of the committee, Mr. Untermyer expects to confer with Governor Miller in the Executive Chamber tomorrow.

The lawyer, it is believed, will acquaint the Governor with the reasons which prompted the committee to ask the Legislature for a broader grant of power, as well as for extension of time to permit a searching inquiry into the financial methods of insurance companies and banks in their relation to the stringency in dwelling houses in New York City.

A resolution embodying this request was introduced by Senator Lockwood on the opening day of the legislative session and is now being held in the Senate Finance Committee, the subject of considerable opposition among men whose influence carries weight in the Senate and Assembly. Mr. Untermyer undoubtedly will ask the Governor to give his moral support to the efforts now being made by Senator Lockwood and others to obtain favorable action on the resolution.

Governor Miller said today that he had no appointment with Mr. Untermyer, but would be glad to receive him if he called. The Lockwood Committee inquisitor comes to the capital primarily to appear before the Court of Appeals tomorrow and argue against a stay of proceedings in the trial of Robert P. Brindell, President of the Building Trades Council, pending decision from the highest court on an appeal from an application for a change of venue which the lower courts denied.

What attitude Governor Miller will assume is not known. He has given no word to indicate his views. While no one here doubts that the Senate leader, Clayton R. Lusk, and Speaker Machold of the Assembly would lend a willing ear to any suggestions from the Governor, it is regarded as possible that he may decline to use his good offices on the ground that the Lockwood resolution is a subject of legislative concern exclusively.

Senator Lockwood said tonight that he was taking a somewhat more hopeful view of the outlook. A few days ago it appeared almost certain that the opposition emanating from insurance companies and banking interests and voiced by their spokesmen in the Republican State organization, as well as in the Legislature itself, would prove a decisive factor, and that if the Lockwood resolution was adopted it would be in an emasculated form which would leave the committee hobbled in so far as its investigation of banks and insurance companies is concerned.

When the lawmakers began to assemble yesterday for last night's session it became evident to Senator Lockwood and other members of his committee that while there was considerable opposition against giving them all they asked for their opponents appeared willing to compromise.

Suggestions were made that Senator Lockwood and his colleagues confer with members of the Senate Finance Committee and reach some basis on which both sides could get together. Another suggestion was that the committee should go ahead with the powers now vested in it and do what Mr. Untermyer thought proper. If blocked by the courts on the ground of exceeding its authority, the committee could then ask the Legislature for the necessary power.

The peril of the latter proposal was too obvious to Senator Lockwood and other members of the committee to result in any change of front on their part. It might take months to have the powers of the committee tested in court, and by the time a decision could be obtained the Legislature might have adjourned sine die.

The proposal for a conference with the Senate Finance Committee was rejected on the ground that a public hearing, not a private conference, was the method which appealed to the committee as the one most likely to make an effective impression. It is understood that formal demand for a joint hearing before the Senate Finance and the Assembly Ways and Means Committees will be made after both committees have organized for business next week.

The proposal for a legislative investigation of the Hylan Administration, embodied in the Robinson-Steinberg resolution and a resolution introduced by Senator Schuyler M. Meyer, has made no headway in the Legislature. There is said to be very little sentiment in favor of it among the lawmakers in either House.

OFFERS NEW SYSTEM TO CHECK IMMIGRATION

State Department Official Would Have the Consuls Abroad Control the Stream of Aliens.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 13.—A new plan for regulating immigration to the United States and differentiating desirables from undesirables at the source was presented to the Senate Immigration Committee today by Harry A. McBride, chief of the visé section of the State Department. He recommended the creation by the Government of a commission to have general supervision of immigration and to work in co-operation with the existing agencies of the State and Labor Departments.

The commission would direct immigrants to places in the United States where they were most needed. The problem of selection would be solved by using the visé system and having American Consuls abroad write the prospective immigrant's occupation, destination and other qualifications as a part of the passport visé.

ENVOYS SHOW RELIEF IMPERATIVE IN EUROPE

President Transmits Diplomats' Appeal to Senate—Hoover Says We Have Surplus Here.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 13.—Continuation of relief work in Europe is urged in telegrams from American diplomatic representative there, transmitted today to the Senate by President Wilson in response to a request for information regarding European distress.

Hugh Gibson, American Minister to Poland, said continuation of relief work in that country on the present scale was "absolutely necessary to avoid starvation." The Polish Government and people, he said, were "straining every resource," but were unable to provide "even a minimum for the maintenance of children."

The American Commissioner at Berlin said a large proportion of children in all German cities were "seriously underfed," and that the relief work should be continued to "save the life and preserve the health of an entire generation."

Commissioner Frazier, at Vienna, said 300,000 children there were being fed daily by the American Relief Administration, and that "great suffering" would follow cessation of the work. He added, however, that undue continuation of the relief work might lead to lack of effort by the inhabitants and that they should be informed that American activity was temporary only.

All of the reports agreed that the American relief work was assisting in the maintenance of public order and general improvement in European countries.

In transmitting the report the President said that more complete information would be furnished later.

BOSTON, Jan. 13.—Aid to the starving waifs of Europe was the object of a dinner tonight in Symphony Hall at which 1,000 persons socially prominent were present. After the dinner Herbert Hoover, Chairman of the Relief Council; Governor Cox, President W. H. P. Faunce of Brown University and Mayor Peters addressed an audience that paid fancy prices for balcony seats. It was announced that the dinner added $250,000 to the council funds.

The numbers and the plight of the hungry children were related by Mr. Hoover, who said: "We have been compelled to ask the American people to save this situation in the midst of a great economic depression in our own country. But great as our anxieties and difficulties are, I cannot survey the economic situation of the United States in its comparative prosperity without the conclusion that we still have the ability to extend at least this helping hand to Europe.

"We have in our warehouses and on our farms today eighteen months' food supply for the entire American people. If there is any hunger or any cold in the United States, it is due to the foolish functioning of our social, our economic or our political system.

P. R. R. STARTS LABOR PLAN.

Joint Body Is Named to Pass on Conditions.

COLUMBUS, Jan. 13.—The Pennsylvania Railroad's plan for averting breaks between the engine and train service employes and the company through the operation of joint committees was perfected here today by the organization of the "Joint Reviewing Committee of the Pennsylvania Railroad System," which has final jurisdiction.

This is said to be the first instance of an American railroad giving its employes equal power with the management in deciding questions affecting working conditions and welfare.

R. V. Massey of Philadelphia, Assistant General Manager of the Eastern region of the Pennsylvania Railroad System, was elected Chairman, and H. R. Karns of Pittsburgh, General Chairman of the Brotherhood of Locomotive Engineers for the Pennsylvania Lines, West, was chosen Vice Chairman of the committee.

Pittsburgh was selected as permanent headquarters of the committee where regular monthly meetings will be held.

The Reviewing Committee is composed of nine representatives of the employes and eight company representatives, but one of the employes' representatives drops out when a vote is taken. Not less than a two-thirds vote is necessary to decide any question presented.

HIDE IS SIXTH OF SHOE COST

Chicago Packer Says Labor and Merchandising Keep Up Prices.

MILWAUKEE, Jan. 13.—The cost of the hide out of which shoe leather is made is only about one-sixth of the retail price of a pair of men's shoes, according to L. D. H. Weld of Swift & Co., who today addressed the convention of the National Shoe Retailers' Association.

"In the past year hides have fallen in value until they now cost no more than before the war," said Mr. Weld. "One grade that sold for nearly 50 cents a pound a year ago brings only about 15 cents. Calf skins, out of which uppers are made, have fallen even more, from around $1 a pound to around 15 cents."

Mr. Weld said that shoe prices could not be reduced in proportion to the cost of hides, because wages and merchandising costs have not come down to any extent. He pointed out that tanners and shoe manufacturers have either closed their plants or are running them on part time, and that as a consequence the packers have a big surplus supply of hides on hand.

AUTO SEPARATES COUPLE.

Special to The New York Times.

WHITE PLAINS, N. Y., Jan. 13.—According to the testimony of Mrs. Lillian M. Brown of Mount Vernon, who got a decree of separation today from her husband, Herbert L. Brown, a real estate operator, after they had been married twenty-nine years, trouble began when he bought a new touring car.

She said she found the automobile standing in New Rochelle one night, and when she looked in she said she saw a woman's hat and a bathing suit. Then she got into the car and waited until her husband returned to it with a young woman. There was a scene and Brown never came home again.

Justice Young allowed Mrs. Brown $30 a week alimony.

His first report will be on material collected on the east and west coasts of South America, the beginning of marine work in the western South Pacific.

PREMIER HARD HIT IN DOVER ELECTION

"He can," it says, "scatter his charges recklessly knowing that at any rate he and his associates will never be faced with the task of doing the work of the Government they criticise. There is no doubt room in every department for some curtailment of the outgoings, but a recognition of the vastness of our necessary commitments is needed if we are to maintain the one sound policy of saving where we can and spending where we must. A majority such as the Prime Minister enjoys in the House of Commons is a standing temptation to profligate expenditure. It is well that the electors should happen to resist the temptation."

Many will turn to The Daily Chronicle, chief coalition organ, to read its explanation of the Dover setback, but beyond declaring in a leading article on another subject that no anti-waste campaign will make the Government deviate one iota from its policy of pushing on as quickly as possible with its housing schemes, it preserves editorial silence. Its Dover correspondent says that among the circumstances which told in Polson's favor were the great press campaign against Major Astor and his supporters, and the personal attack on Polson for which Major Astor was in no way responsible.

The Daily Mail says that the result should at least convince the Prime Minister that the campaign against waste is no mere stunt of a newspaper jazz band but an expression of enormous volume of public feeling throughout the country.

"The people have risen in revolt," it says, "is the moral of Dover. That constituency has given the Government the blow in the face which they so greatly need. Lloyd George now knows that no constituency is henceforth safe unless he immediately falls to work with the economy axe and acts instead of writing letters and talking."

The Daily Express says that if Dover is a shock to the Government it may also be a healthy tonic.

The Morning Post says it is a warning to the Government showing that public alarm and anxiety are steadily increasing.

"With all our admiration for the Prime Minister's many gifts and consummate skill," it adds, "we cannot but perceive that catastrophe waits for him in the financial policy of the Government and that disaster is rapidly becoming inevitable."

TO DISCARD CRAIG AS BUDGET MAKER

CONTROLLER WILL FIGHT

Under Proposed Plan Committee of Whole Would Prepare the Budget.

A plan to clip the powers of Controller Charles L. Craig in the preparation of the 1922 city budget was put through at an executive meeting yesterday of the Board of Estimate, with the Controller absent, and will come up for adoption at today's meeting, when a lively row is expected. The Mayor and other members have complained that, as Chairman of the Committee on Finance and Budget, the Controller has had too much power, with the result that the other members have been unable to obtain all the information they desired until the budget figures had practically been made up.

The new plan provides for the budget-making power being practically taken from the Finance and Budget Committee and lodged with the Committee of the Whole of the Board of Estimate, of which the Controller is a member, but with no more power or authority than the other members. The actual supervision of the budget preparation under the proposed scheme would be placed in the hands of Francis P. Bent, Supervisor of the Estimate Board, who is a close friend of the Mayor and a former business associate, and Joseph Haag, Secretary of the board.

Controller Craig is expected to be alone in his opposition to the new system, for the Mayor has lined up with him President LaGuardia of the Board of Alderman and all the Borough Presidents. While the Mayor sent around word that there would be a meeting of the Committee of the Whole yesterday, no intimation was conveyed to the Controller that anything unusual was to happen and supposing that only routine matters would be discussed he did not attend. Those present, besides the Mayor, were President LaGuardia, President Curran of Manhattan, President Riegelmann of Brooklyn; W. J. Flynn, representing President Bruckner of the Bronx; Frank H. Sullivan, representing President Connolly of Queens, and John E. Bowe, representing President Van Name of Richmond.

The Mayor explained the necessity of getting an early start on the budget and proposed that work begin the first week in March. Heretofore budget preparation has not been begun until June. He also dwelt upon the desirability of an early start, because of the immense amount of pruning that will have to be done, it being generally conceded that the 1922 budget will be by far the largest in the history of the city. Because of the municipal election this Fall the Mayor and the other Democratic members of the board are anxious to make a good showing before the taxpayers. The stress which Governor Miller laid upon the necessity of economy in the State Government also had its effect upon the Democratic members, especially in view of the approaching election.

The Mayor suggested that all the department heads be instructed to prepare an early survey of the needs of their departments so the Committee of the Whole could begin work early in March to make deductions. He proposed that the committee meet monthly all Summer.

The Mayor's suggestions were put in the form of a resolution and it was unanimously adopted. It is not expected that Controller Craig will give his consent to its adoption today, which will send the resolution over for another week. The Controller's friends said he would vigorously oppose any attempt to curtail his powers and would even try to line up some of the Borough Presidents on his side. Although representatives of three Borough Presidents voted for the Mayor's resolution in committee yesterday, it was explained that they did so in order to be on the safe side and that their action may be reversed when the Borough Presidents themselves sit in the board today.

PLANS NETWORK OF ROADS.

Hewitt Committee Submits Report on Linking Up State Highways.

Special to The New York Times.

ALBANY, Jan. 13.—Plans for a complete State highway system, designed to link up every road in the State, are incorporated in measures introduced in the Legislature by the Hewitt Legislative Highway Committee, which was appointed in 1919 to work out the scheme.

The committee, in a report on the proposed plan, estimates such a system would cost about $82,000,000. Already there has been $52,873,280 made available by the 1920 highway bond issue, Federal aid, State appropriations to meet Federal aid contributions, and the counties' share of the cost of construction of county highways. The deficit, $29,000,000, the committee says, could be provided either by direct highway appropriations, bond issues or allotments from future Federal aid money.

The proposed new system calls for 11,119 miles of road, of which 10,380 miles were authorized in 1917 and of which more than 8,000 miles are already built. There are some 700 miles of new roads to be provided as connecting links, and the committee report states that the system should be completed in six years.

The plan calls for eight through routes across the State from east to west and 21 from north to south, which would make possible 60 connecting roads with adjoining States and Canada.

It seems to be assured that from now on, beginning this year 1921, our country will observe every year

A NATIONAL THRIFT WEEK

Don't you think it is about time that we did decide to observe a NATIONAL THRIFT WEEK in honor of Benjamin Franklin?

You know he started to work at the age of 15 and worked for more than 69 years thereafter. He died in 1790 at the age of 84 years 3 months.

While he was always thrifty he was never stingy or selfish. Nobody need be stingy or selfish to practice thrift intelligently and profitably.

Benjamin Franklin's career never suffered because he was careful with money.

He made a great name for himself as printer, publisher, statesman, diplomat, philosopher, scientist, journalist, economist, philanthropist and humorist.

If Benjamin Franklin knew what was going on in this country today he would be very proud, even though it has taken 131 years to make us realize the necessity of learning the great lesson of Thrift as he practiced it.

* * *

PROCLAMATION:

THRIFT WEEK—STATE OF NEW YORK,
Executive Chamber.

WHEREAS, January Seventeenth is the birthday of Benjamin Franklin, a name associated with eminent services to the American people, and whose fame, in large measure, rests on his contributions to the philosophy of life and the virtues of Thrift, in recognition of his influence in those directions, the Seventeenth of January has been selected as the initial day in a week devoted to education in the duties of wise saving and wise spending, which are the essence of Thrift; and

WHEREAS, There is need to emphasize the many distinct forms of Thrift, in the economic program for THRIFT WEEK, the Young Men's Christian Association, the Benjamin Franklin Memorial Committee, and numerous co-operating organizations, have designated Monday, January Seventeenth, as National Thrift Day, or Bank Day; Tuesday, January Eighteenth, Budget Day; Wednesday, January Nineteenth, National Life Insurance Day; Thursday, January Twentieth, Own-Your-Own-Home Day; Friday, January Twenty-first, Make-A-Will Day; Saturday, January Twenty-second, Pay-Your-Bills-Promptly Day; Sunday, January Twenty-third, Share-With-Others Day, each day being dedicated to a special application of the Thrift idea; and

WHEREAS, Private Thrift and public economy are intimately related, individual Thrift being the basis of public economy and affording the inspiration of a prudent expenditure of public funds, a subject of growing importance,

NOW, THEREFORE, I, NATHAN L. MILLER, GOVERNOR OF THE STATE OF NEW YORK, recommend that the week beginning January Seventeenth and ending January Twenty-third be devoted in a special manner in the press, in the schools, educational associations, commercial organizations and industrial plants of this State, to the earnest inculcation of the sound virtues of individual Thrift and public economy.

Given under my hand and the privy seal of the State, at the Capitol in the City of Albany, this Tenth day of January, in the Year of Our Lord One Thousand Nine Hundred and Twenty-one.

(Signed) NATHAN L. MILLER
By the Governor.

February Sale of Furniture

The New Year Offers the Most Time, But None to Lose

The people of the United States, who with one mind and one heart united to "see the war finished," though it took hundreds of thousands of our men for soldiers and sailors, and billions of money, can just as easily determine to get together to demand and secure peace without further delays, if they will organize to do so.

What is the use of "dillydallying" about it, thereby mortgaging the prosperity of the future? Let the public sentiment of the country, soon to convene, speak promptly through the legislatures of each State to their representatives in Washington, insisting upon prompt, conclusive action upon terms of decisive peace as a New Year's gift to the business world of America.

With the clouds of uncertainty removed, 1921 will be a banner year for the nation.

(Signed)

BRINDELL SPURNED OFFER OF $1,000 'FEE'

Builder Tells Jury in Trial for Extortion He Paid $5,000 to Avert Strike.

UNTERMYER WINS A POINT

Court Rules in Favor of Admitting Evidence as to General Scheme of Labor Boss.

The trial of Robert P. Brindell on a charge of extortion before Supreme Court Justice McAvoy and a jury in the Extraordinary Term of the Supreme Court got under way quickly yesterday, and before the day ended Max Aronson, a cloak and suit manufacturer, who is the complaining witness, told in detail the circumstances under which he alleged he paid $5,000 to the head of the Building Trades Council.

In his opening address Samuel Untermyer, for the prosecution, said that he would show that Aronson's payment, made in order that a strike be called off on a building Aronson was erecting, was only a detail in a far-reaching and comprehensive scheme of the defendant to hold up the building trades for the purpose of extortion.

Martin Littleton, counsel for the labor leader, made vigorous objection to the prosecutor's statement and sought to have the case limited to the specific matter before the Court. The Court ruled that Mr. Untermyer might be permitted to show that the Aronson case was a detail of a general scheme that pervaded the building industry, and in which Brindell was a factor.

The ruling was regarded as the first victory for the prosecution, for it will permit going into all the evidence given against Brindell before the Lockwood Committee.

Mr. Littleton subjected Aronson to an extremely detailed cross-examination as to his movements on Sept. 29, 1920, when he swore he paid Brindell $5,000 so that the work on his building at 229-239 West Thirty-sixth Street might be continued after a strike had been called.

Brindell May Offer Alibi.

The line of cross-examination indicated that Brindell's defense might take the form of an alibi that he was not in his office at 12 St. Mark's Place at the time Aronson said he turned the money over to him and also constructive evidence to prove that the strike on Aronson's building was a legitimate one, caused by a dispute between rival unions of bricklayers' helpers.

In his direct examination, Aronson, who has been in the cloak and suit business for twenty-seven years, testified that on Sept. 27, 1920, the steel work was completed to the ninth or tenth floor, the concrete work to the sixth and the masonry to the third floor.

"Did anything happen on that day?" asked Mr. Untermyer.

"A strike," said Aronson, laconically.

He explained that Mr. Weiland, the boss mason of the Micwell Company, 503 Fifth Avenue, informed him that the hoisting engineer who directed the engine moving masons' materials to the upper floors had walked off. Aronson said Weiland told him Brindell wanted to see him.

"Come On, Boy," Said Brindell.

He took a taxicab to Brindell's office. This is the conversation Aronson said took place:

The Witness—Why did you stop my job?

Aronson—But everybody is putting up steel with non-union erectors.

Brindell—I said I would stop all those jobs.' Look at Levy's job. That stopped four months. Look at what it cost. What's it worth if you go on with the work?

Aronson—Mr. Brindell, I can't stop a single minute. I must get this building ready by Feb. 1. My lease expires and I have rented space to twelve tenants.

Brindell—You know what a strike means, the loss in rents, interest. I was there the other night and I looked over the job with Atwell. What is it worth to you?

Aronson—It's worth $1,000 to me.

Brindell—Come on, my boy, we are not talking $1,000.

Aronson—How much is it worth to you.

Brindell—I will stagger you if I name a sum.

Aronson consented to pay $2,000. Brindell wanted more. He promised $3,000. Finally Brindell asked for $6,000 and Aronson offered to give him $5,000.

Mr. Untermyer produced a check on the Lincoln Trust Company, dated Sep-29, 1920, and signed by Aronson Bros., Inc., Max Aronson, Treasurer. The witness identified the check and said he obtained a roll of $100 bills fastened by a slip of paper and a pin and then went to the Building Trades Council.

Labor Boss Ends Strike.

He found Brindell waiting outside his office. "He took me into his inside office," the witness continued, "closed the door and I gave him the money. He put it on the desk. I said, 'Aren't you afraid of holding money that way?' He said, 'I'm not afraid of anything.' I asked him if there will be another hold-up and he said no. 'But I'm going to show you what I can do for you,' he said. Then he called up the engineers union and asked for Pike, the delegate. He was not in and left word for him that the Thirty-sixth Street job was all right and to put the engineer back. The next day the engineer came back. The same men went back who worked on the job before and I had no more trouble."

He asked the witness whether he spoke of the $5,000 payment to any one besides the officials. "I advertised it to everybody in the building trades that I paid $5,000 in graft," the witness replied. "I told everybody who would listen to me."

There will be no session today because counsel are to be engaged before the Court of Appeals in Albany on a phase of the case. The trial will continue on Monday.

DOORN HOUSE AWAITS DEATH

DOORN, Holland, Jan. 13.—Former Emperor William of Germany and others at the House of Doorn, the residence of the former Emperor, are convinced that the death of former Empress Augusta Victoria is a matter of only a short time, and are resigned to the inevitable. Dr. Haehner, the physician attending the former Empress, said today that her condition was such that she might linger indefinitely, although it was becoming increasingly serious.

Every detail for the funeral of the former Empress has been worked out. A Doorn florist has been ordered to keep constantly a stock of flowers on hand, and one of the employes of the estate has been given a list containing the names of friends and royalties to whom telegrams are to be sent when the end comes.

Former Crown Prince Frederick Wilhelm arrived here today from Wieringen. He was unable to come during the Christmas holidays because the Island of Wieringen was icebound at that time.

FIRE ENGINE RAMS TROLLEY.

Three Firemen Severely Injured and Three Passengers Slightly Hurt.

A fire engine rammed a "one-man" trolley car at 142d Street and St. Ann's Avenue last night and knocked the car off the track. Three firemen were severely hurt and three passengers in the car were slightly injured.

Engine 60, driven by Fireman Arthur James, was going to a small fire in rubbish in a lot at 142d Street and Southern Boulevard. James attempted to dodge the car when it crossed ahead of him, but hit the rear end. He and Lieutenant Joseph McDonald, who was seated beside him, were cut by flying glass. Firemen Charles Fallon, Harry Suzhorn and Louis Crishtman, on the rear end, were thrown to the street. These three were taken to Lincoln Hospital. Fallon and Suzhorn suffered concussion of the brain, and Crishtman's right thigh was broken.

ELECTRICAL FIRMS SUFFER.

Berlin Producers and Customers Must Co-operate to Avert Panic.

BERLIN, Jan. 13.—Owing to the financial crisis among manufacturers and purchasers of electrical materials, caused by their low valuation, a large oversupply and the fact that a number of customers are on the edge of bankruptcy, it has become necessary for all producers, distributers and customers to co-operate to avoid a threatened panic, according to the annual report of the Siemen-Schuckert Electrical Company, issued today.

The company reports that it has been necessary to assist financially a number of the largest buyers of its products.

State Adjuster Guilty of Bribery.

Barnard Wayneck, 52, of 260 Mapes Avenue, the Bronx, a former adjuster of claims in the Bureau of Workmen's Compensation of the State Industrial Commission, was convicted of bribery yesterday by a jury in Judge Nott's part of General Sessions and remanded for sentence on Jan. 21. The charge was that Wayneck had got $900 of $1,800 allowed to Thomas Murphy for a broken arm.

Barred From Going on Bonds, Many Sign Indemnity Agreements, Witness Says.

AGENT'S METHOD EXPLAINED

Recovered $32,000 in Stolen Bonds Upon Prosecutor's Promise to Reduce Bail, Topper Asserts.

Many lawyers sign indemnity agreements to enable their clients to obtain bail bonds, although the rules of practice forbid them from giving bail for those they represent, Magistrate Simpson was told yesterday in the John Doe inquiry into the bailing system, by Joseph E. Topper, who provides a large number of bonds in criminal cases.

Although there is no rule prohibiting lawyers from signing indemnity agreements guaranteeing bonds issued by surety companies, and also confessions of judgment which are exacted before a bond can be procured, their action is a mere subterfuge to circumvent the rules governing their conduct, according to Assistant District Attorney Pecora, which is assisting in the inquiry. "It enables them to do indirectly what they are prohibited from doing directly," he said.

Topper told of recovering $32,000 in stolen bonds after an agreement with Assistant District Attorney Dooling that bail for the men Topper represented would be reduced if the bonds were returned.

Abe Lewis, Abe Horowitz and another man had been accused of stealing the bonds, and were held in $10,000 bail, Topper said. Horowitz was pretty sick in prison, he said, so he went to the District Attorney's office, asked if something couldn't be done for "the boy," and the agreement was made to reduce bail.

When asked how he went about getting the bonds, Topper said:

"I took the three 'dopes' over in my office and sat them down and told them what I wanted, and I got the bonds."

"Yes, but how did you know how to go about it, did Mr. Dooling tell you?"

"How would he know?" retorted Topper. "I'm not going to tell you all about that. I think you've asked me enough. I wouldn't tell you this much if Lewis wasn't dead. He got shot a couple of months ago by another gangster. They were full of dope and he said 'I dare you to shoot me,' and the other 'cokie' pulled out a gun and shot him. That's the only reason I am telling you this much."

It is only the faith he keeps with his clients for whom he obtains bonds which enables him to keep them where he can produce them, Topper said.

Topper has at present no connection with any surety company, although he had held powers of attorney from three.

He was shown a receipt which Abe Horowitz had signed, showing that $1,000 had been turned over to Topper as security for his bond. The receipt was written on stationery of the New Amsterdam Casualty Company and was signed with Topper's name over the typewritten name of the company. He insisted that he had nothing officially to do with the company and that the stationery had been given to him by Louis Topper, his brother, who is an agent for the company and who secured power of attorney from the company for three men who work in Joseph Topper's office.

"I know all about that receipt," said Topper. "That's the receipt you took off Abe Horowitz and he came over and told me about it. That wasn't his money anyway; $500 of it belonged to Abe Lewis, and he's dead."

"Is the $500 also stolen money?" asked Mr. McQuaide.

"No, so far as I know that money is clean," said Topper. "I saw Lewis take it out of the bank."

"Where is his bank?"

"I won't tell you," said Topper.

Topper said he had had thirty or forty forfeitures in the last year and a half, and about twenty-five of the fugitives had been brought back.

"Collateral doesn't count so much in this business, it's whether you can produce the defendant that counts," he said.

SEEK TO EXTRADITE COHN.

New York's Case Against Arnstein Aid Is Up Today.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 13.—Isadore (Nick) Cohn and Norman S. Bowles, alleged confederates with Jules (Nicky) Arnstein in the bringing of more than $700,000 worth of alleged stolen bonds of an original lot of $5,500,000 worth stolen in New York City into the District of Columbia, and Winfield D. Williams, inventor and mechanical engineer, will appear before Justice Gould tomorrow, in Criminal Court, in extradition proceedings instituted by the New York authorities.

These men were arrested after the trial of Arnstein and the other defendants. They are wanted in New York City to answer charges of theft growing out of the original alleged robbery.

Cohn was arrested on Dec. 22 after he had been "lured" to this city by a telegram. Bowles was arrested immediately after the Arnstein jury disagreed. Williams, who was a Government witness, was arrested a few days ago. All three have been at liberty under bond.

T. Morris Wampler, counsel for the trio, will contend that because of the method used in apprehending the men—their being involuntarily in this jurisdiction—they cannot be lawfully handed over to the New York authorities.

INDICTS 4 IN PEIRCE MURDER

Philadelphia Grand Jury Gets Three Alleged Confessions.

PHILADELPHIA, Jan. 13.—Peter D. Treadway, Marie "Boots" Rogers, Joseph "Archioe" Moss and Marion A. Elliott, who is now being sought in the West, were indicted by the Grand Jury today in connection with the killing of Henry T. Peirce, on Nov. 22. Alleged confessions of the three prisoners were presented to the Grand Jury by William Belshaw, chief of the murder squad.

In the confessions the girl and Moss assert they were not with Peirce at the time of the killing. Treadway, who says he and Elliott were in Peirce's apartment, charges that the latter struck Peirce and then choked him to death.

Woman Loses a Leg, Gets $45,000.

A verdict of $45,000 to a young woman for the loss of a leg in an elevator accident was returned by the jury before Supreme Court Justice Tierney yesterday and is one of the largest of the kind on record. The plaintiff was Miss Dorothy Brenner, 20 years old, of 8 West 119th Street, who was injured when an elevator fell at 215 Fourth Avenue last Summer. Miss Brenner, who was employed as a stenographer in the building, sued the Aguilar Realty Corporation, the owner, for $100,000. Her father, Benjamin Brenner, got $1,200 for the loss of her services in his suit for $10,000.

ACTORS' EQUITY SEEK BAN ON SHUBERTS

Charge Violation of 1919 Agreement and Ask Managers' Association to Drop Firm.

DECRY 'UNFAIR' COMPLAINTS

No Discrimination Against Equity, Says Lee Shubert—Managers May Appoint an Arbitrator.

Charging violation of the agreement entered into by the actors and the managers following the theatrical strike, the Actors' Equity Association yesterday requested the Producing Managers' Association to drop the firm of Lee & J. J. Shubert from the ranks of the organization. The evidence accompanying the formal demand will be considered this afternoon at a special meeting of the managers, and it is probable that an umpire will be appointed to pass upon the charges.

The complaint of the Equity, filed with a managers' committee at a special conference yesterday afternoon, charges Lee and J. J. Shubert, as a firm, with "unfair discrimination, failure to give contracts, failure to pay according to contract, and dismissal of actors who complain of such failure." Documents detailing individual cases, all purporting to support these charges, were handed over to the managers at the same time. In accordance with the 1919 agreement, the Equity asks that the Shuberts be dropped from the association if these charges are proved, as the 1919 agreement provides for the disciplining of producers in this way if they are found guilty of breaking the agreement.

Lee Shubert, following the filing of the charges, denied flatly that there had been any blanket discrimination against Equity members by his firm, and said that the evidence submitted had to do with "only six or seven dinky little cases," concerned mainly with chorus girls. In a large organization, he said, it was impossible to look after every small case personally, and in these circumstances small injustices may have crept in. He denied vigorously, however, that they indicated "a settled policy," as charged by the Equity.

Managers to Act Today.

Sam H. Harris, President of the Producing Managers' Association, at once called a special meeting for this afternoon, to be held in the rooms of the association at 231 West Forty-fifth Street. At this meeting representatives of practically every manager will be present, including the Shuberts, and the evidence supporting the charges will be presented in detail by Equity officials. Although a joint arbitration committee has been handling all disputes between actors and managers since the strike, there is no provision for a joint committee to consider blanket charges of this kind, and the managers themselves will judge the evidence. Mr. Harris said yesterday, however, that he favored the appointment of an impartial outsider to hand down a decision.

The letter to the managers was presented to Mr. Harris, Arthur Hopkins and George Nicolai, by Frank Gilmore, Executive Secretary of the Equity; Dorothy Bryant of the Equity Chorus Association, and representatives of the stagehands' and musicians' unions, both of which were parties to the agreement of 1919. The letter which accompanied the charges was as follows:

"With regret we submit herewith definite charges of flagrant and continued violation of the basic agreement between us of Sept. 6, 1919, by the Messrs. Lee and J. J. Shubert. These reveal, among other abuses, unfair discrimination, failure to give contracts, failure to pay according to contract and discharge of actors who complain of such failure, all fundamental matters.

"The settled policy of the Messrs. Shubert clearly evidenced by these violations is opposed to that of nine-tenths of your members, who live up to this agreement and with whom we have worked in harmony, and for this reason, and also because you are the guarantor of performance in good faith of each producing member and, therefore, cannot countenance such a policy, we request, upon confirmation of these charges, that all relations between you and the Messrs. Shubert be severed."

In another communication it was further stated:

"As you know, for some time after the making of the basic agreement, matters similar to those which we now refer to were made the basis of individual complaint and adjustment. We continued to do this until we became aware that these matters were not occasional and sporadic, but were part of what is clearly a settled Shubert policy. Then partly because on making complaints our members were immediately discharged and partly to wait until that policy was openly and definitely defined by the Messrs. Shubert and evidence of an overwhelming nature to this effect had been obtained, we have held these complaints in abeyance."

Some Specific Complaints.

Among the specific complaints it was charged that, in the cases of "Maytime," "The Passing Show of 1918," and "Cinderella on Broadway," the contracts submitted to the players called for nine performances weekly instead of eight, with Sunday performances in addition; that in some instances contracts were not given at all, and that, when a standard Equity contract was given, it was with a "rider" requiring the actor to give extra performances without charge. Charges of a somewhat similar nature were made in connection with "Sinbad," "Florodora," "The Passing Show of 1919," "The Gaieties of 1919," and "The Passing Show of 1921."

Alleged instances of discrimination against Equity members were also given, and it was said that many Equity members were required to deny their membership in the organization before they were engaged. This was denied by Mr. Shubert, who declared that a majority of the actors in his employ were Equity members. One of the Equity charges is that a Shubert company manager "had written orders from the office to get rid of actors insisting on Equity requirements."

Warmly Welcomed in Her First Role This Season at Metropolitan.

Claudia Muzio, cordially welcomed on her return to the Metropolitan last evening, made her first appearance of the season in the name part of "Aida." A matinee "Aida" is now announced for Thursday, Jan. 27, when the singers will be Muzio, Matzenauer, Crimi, Danise and Rothier. Tomorrow evening, a special "Tosca" will be sung by Easton, Chamlee and Scotti at the Brooklyn Academy, in lieu of the performance of "Elisir d'Amore" on Dec. 11 last, which was interrupted by the illness of Caruso.

MUSIC

By Richard Aldrich

Mr. Mengelberg Conducts Again.

For his second program with the National Symphony Orchestra Mr. Mengelberg played Mahler's First Symphony, and—quite unnecessarily, for with Tschaikovsky's violin concerto, the concert was considerably too long—Liszt's symphonic poem, "Les Preludes."

If the matter of necessity comes up, it might also be questioned why Mahler's Symphony had to be played at all. Mr. Stransky got ahead of the visiting conductor in recalling this work to the memories of New York about two weeks ago. New York had heard it played by the Philharmonic Society, under the direction of the composer himself, ten years or so ago. It never made a deep impression here.

Mr. Mengelberg conducted it with great ardor and with a determination, successfully achieved, to throw the strongest possible light upon every aspect of it, to make every effort stand out in the highest relief, and to cause every phrase and every section speak with all the eloquence that could be attributed to them. The result was one of the most excellent performances that the orchestra has achieved; excellent in most of the qualities of orchestral playing.

It did much for the symphony, but it could not carry conviction of its musical value. The greater brilliancy, stress and vehemence, the more skillfully conceived and executed reading than that recently heard here only made more evident the rather moderate musical value and interest of the work.

Notwithstanding its great length—something over an hour—this symphony is considerably easier to listen to and to enjoy than most of Mahler's later attempts of the same kind, and there is less of commonplace and less of the eclectic hospitality to other men's ideas than in them. The orchestra made a considerably better showing on this occasion than it did in Mr. Mengelberg's first concert.

Alexander Schmuller, a Russian violinist, was the soloist, making his first appearance in this country. He played Tschaikovsky's concerto very capably with a broad, penetrating tone, abundant dexterity and plenty of the brisk sentiment that belongs to it, and with some of the tempos rather broader than they are sometimes taken, not to the detriment of the effect. In passages of the more intricate sort his tone was apt to be neglected and to lose in quality, but the performance on the whole was one that deserved most of the liberal applause given it.

The Philharmonic Society.

The excellent idea occurred to Mr. Stransky to play at last night's concert of the Philharmonic Society Brahms's third symphony in F; an idea that seems to have shown great originality, since most other conductors in and out of New York are putting such stress on the first, second and fourth symphonies of the same master. And yet the third symphony is quite as well worth a hearing as the others. Mr. Stransky conducted the performance zealously and energetically.

Unfortunately, its qualities were not equal to the zeal and energy that he put into it; and the result came rather lamely forth. There was a singular muddiness and indecision in the inner voices of the orchestra throughout the performance, and especially in the first movement. Such performances are an education in Brahms in the wrong direction.

Three of Mr. Stransky's songs with orchestral accompaniment were sung by Mme. Matzenauer—"Thy Fragrant Flower," the verses by Hartleben, translated by H. E. Krehbiel; "To Solitude," verses by Sigmund Spaeth, and "Hymnus," verses by W. E. Henley; though it should be said that Henley's verses have been rather cavalierly treated by the composer and emerge in the song quite differently from their reading in print. Of these songs the first and last were entered on the program as new, and performed from manuscript.

None of the three seems to show so much originality and musical significance as the songs of the same kind by Mr. Stransky sung by Mme. Matzenauer some seasons ago. "To Solitude" is composed with a complicated orchestral accompaniment, elaborately polyphonic in its structure; it was the one that pleased the audience most. Mme. Matzenauer sang them all with rich sonorous voice, though not with the clearest enunciation of the English text. She sang also "Ocean, Thou Mighty Monster" from Weber's "Oberon," in which she has before been heard in concert.

The orchestral numbers included also Strauss's tone poem "Death and Transfiguration" and Dvorak's overture, "Carnival."

EDWARD MORRIS PLEASES.

Edward Morris, pioneer of last year's "American invasion" in London, where he earned golden opinions of Ernest Newman and others, if not the gold of current exchange, gave a home-coming recital at Aeolian Hall yesterday afternoon. He is a player of transparent truth, gifted with sensitive touch, a "sixth sense," indeed, for the hidden melody in things most familiar, such as two Schubert groups, Chopin's "Winter Wind" and A flat study, and even a closing Schulz-Evler "Blue Danube." Among modern descriptive pieces, a musical audience redemanded both George Boyle's "Spring Breeze" and Dirk Foch's cubist "Blacksmith."

It was in the earlier Schubert sonata, Op. 120, in A major, that Mr. Morris gave rare pleasure, restoring to the melodious work something analogous to perfume in a flower. He prefaced it with Schubert's "Impromptu," Op. 142, and two "Musical Moments," as well as his "Erl King" transcribed by Liszt.

NEW YORK, FRIDAY, JAN. 14, 1921.

THE GOVERNOR ON PROHIBITION.

Governor Miller's message on the enforcement of the Prohibition law reads less like an argument than a judicial decision. He goes to the fundamentals of the case. The supreme law of the land he states as it has been upheld and expounded by the Supreme Court, and then asks if New York is going to obey it and enforce it or not. The question answers itself. "We have nothing to do with the policy or the wisdom of the law." Those sworn to support the Constitution must take it as they find it. As a legal and moral truth, there is no more getting away from that than from the Day of Judgment.

The Governor is moved to address the Legislature mainly as an Executive set to maintain the majesty of the law. By its open flouting he is shocked, as he is by the scandalous corruption that has attended its enforcement—which, in this city, has notoriously meant non-enforcement. Governor Miller is also, as a former Judge naturally would be, disturbed by the presence on the New York statute books of laws wholly at variance with the Federal Constitution and the Volstead act. These laws are now null and void. They should be repealed, as the Governor urges. He has the incidental motive of desiring to get rid of the Excise Department. To do so is one of his plans for economy. By the repeal of the State Liquor law, now inoperative, the Excise Department would be abolished without further ado. No one should wish to see it retained merely as a form of outdoor relief for politicians.

From the chief positions in law and morals taken by the Governor's message there can be no dissent. But concerning some of his practical recommendations there will inevitably be doubts. He would have those parts of the Volstead law which are confessedly most difficult to enforce—not manufacture and transportation, but sale—enforced by "local officers." That means, in this city, by the police. The result cannot be looked forward to without concern—concern both for the enforcement of the law and the demoralization of the police. They already have more duties than they are able to discharge satisfactorily. What will happen when they are called upon for "concurrent" enforcement of a Federal statute? One of the causes of the comparative inefficiency of American police, as stated by Mr. Raymond B. Fosdick in his recent study of that subject, is that too many things are given them to do, especially in the way of enforcing "sumptuary laws." No such burdens are laid upon the police forces of European cities. To impose new ones of that kind upon our policemen will necessarily cause a feeling of trepidation.

Governor Miller concludes his message with the remark that "honest "enforcement of the law may lead to "its modification." If this is meant as a crumb of comfort for the advocates of beer and light wines, we fear that they will think of it as a very small crumb and very cold comfort. If the intention is to lay down a general principle, it would seem that the facts of American experience are against the Governor's view. It is easy to say: "The best way to bring "about the repeal of a bad law is to "enforce it up to the hilt." Unfortunately, it does not work that way. The usual thing is a hysterical "crusade" in enforcing laws affecting private morals, and then a subsidence of all effort, with the laws left on the books as dead letters. Moreover, we have in the case of the Prohibition law to deal with the fact that those to whom its enforcement is especially obnoxious have not the power to repeal it. Rigid enforcement of it may make them still more angry, but will not give them the voting strength to wipe it off the statute book or even to modify it seriously. The sight of a resentful City of New York will not make the country people take pity on it. It will, rather, move them to mirth and lead them to a stronger determination not to let up on the residents of the metropolis.

A CHARITY OVERSUBSCRIBED.

With a sense of special gratitude to its readers, The Times announces that the sum which it has been asking for the Neediest Cases in New York is now more than provided. To have gone "over the top" with such a charity at a time when gifts to many other worthy objects have sadly fallen off is a notable achievement. It is due to the generosity of those who have felt the silent appeal of the facts as they have been printed in our columns from day to day. It is peculiarly gratifying that this success has been attained without any personal solicitation by The Times and without the use of any spectacular methods. As the Director of the Association for Improving the Condition of the Poor says, there is "an educational value to the community" in the quiet conducting of such a charitable campaign, and the steady flow of funds, without clamor or sensation, in aid of the Neediest Cases.

That cause may now be regarded as a New York institution. It will hold out its hand again next Christmas, and that the need, even if greater, will then be met, the record of past years—especially that of this trying year—makes us confident. It was John Wesley, we believe, who said that the best "expository note" on a text for charity was a £5 note. For all that kind of expository notes on the Neediest Cases sent by its readers The Times returns heartiest thanks.

AUSTRIA IN RECEIVERSHIP.

Whether the Austrian Government has actually turned over the country to the Reparation Commission is not yet certain. It does seem clear that the Government has announced that after tomorrow it will be unable to go on, and that anybody who wants to try to set the business on its feet can do so. Professor Redlich is on his way here to try to interest Mr. Harding. Whatever luck he may have, the suggestion that the Austrian Section of the Reparation Commission may be asked to take charge of the bankrupt State is more plausible, for as long ago as last October the commission drew up a plan which looked to re-establishing Austria. In the meantime, it is not to be supposed that all functions of administration will cease. Probably they will go on as before, but President Hainisch and his Ministers will look to somebody else to find ways and means of payment.

What can be done? Union with Germany might have solved the problem two years ago, or at least have left the solution in other hands. But the French are still resolutely opposed to this step; a great many Austrians do not want it; and in any case it could do little immediate good. The question now before the world is how to make Austria self-supporting. It is difficult, but perhaps not impossible. The crisis was precipitated by the impossibility of meeting the State payroll. One reason for that is that nearly everybody is on the roll. In Vienna, at least, there is virtually nobody else to work for; State socialization has proceeded to impossible lengths. This seems to have been due less to Socialist theories than to ill-judged expedients intended to keep things going, but the result has been disastrous. Moreover, the food situation has been complicated by political disagreement. The Austrian Republic cannot feed itself, but the country districts, still Catholic and royalist, have been unwilling to feed Socialist Vienna at a loss. Only two months ago the Congress of Austrian Consumers' Co-operative Societies seemed to think that it could meet the food crisis much better than the State.

Austria is handicapped, of course, by a capital which is three or four times as large as it any longer has reason for being. So long as the city contained a wealthy Court, an extravagant nobility and the administrative offices of an empire of 28,000,000 people it furnished support for a large population and a swarm of non-essential industries. Now the Court is in exile; some of the nobles have changed their nationality and most of them are ruined; the territories formerly ruled from Vienna are now for the most part governed from Prague, Warsaw, Belgrade or Rome. Even the financial leadership of the Danube basin, which Vienna's political predominance attracted, is threatened, whenever international finance again becomes possible on the Danube, by the greater business ability of the Czechs. For the problem of Vienna no plausible solution has yet been suggested.

But Austria as a whole is not quite so desperately off. There are mines, many of them undeveloped or lately fallen into disuse, which can be made commercially profitable. There is an enormous amount of undeveloped water power which could operate great industries. There are considerable salt deposits and forests which, if properly worked, could bring in a large revenue. Austria cannot feed herself, but if put on her feet she could buy the food which would have to be imported. In other words, reconstruction seems to be possible without annexation to Germany. The work would not be easy. It could be done only by an extremely able administrator, intrusted with considerable authority, political and economic, over Austria itself, and backed by some influence capable of exerting pressure on neighboring countries. And he would have to have a great deal of money. Austria has failed to get on her own feet, partly through war weariness, partly through exhaustion and starvation, partly through inexperience and incompetence. The receiver would have to have money enough to harness the water power, to develop the mines, to reform the currency, and to feed Vienna while he was doing it. He would have to reduce the overhead charges of city and State by cutting down the administrative forces to the minimum; he would have to persuade the other Danube States that political antipathy need not preclude economic intercourse. This last requirement means that whoever may undertake the rehabilitation of Austria will have to have the backing either of the League of Nations or of the Reparation Commission. Restoration of trade in the Danube basin will be necessary before Austria can be put back in operation, or before any of her neighbors can really prosper; and unless something happens to the Horthy Government in Hungary it will be difficult to break down the frontier barriers. The medieval reactionaries in Budapest are more responsible than any one else for the Austrian collapse.

THE SENATORIAL SHIRTS.

The change in the Ministry, an old story in France, seems to have excited Paris far less than the fact that an unpatriotic shopkeeper overcharged Senator Medill McCormick for some shirts. True, at the present exchange rate 150 francs is only $8.82, not an exorbitant price for a shirt—particularly a shirt from the Rue de la Paix; still more for a Senatorial shirt; above all, for the shirt of Medill McCormick. Doubtless they were good shirts; they must have been. Ex pede Herculem; that is to say, by the shirt you can pick out the Senator. But whether the price was too high or not, the Senator thought it was too high. He said so to a friend, and Paris papers lament that "one of the most "important men who have lately "come here from America, one of "whose friendship we have need," has been unfavorably impressed.

To make it worse, a Paris paper publishes, and Berlin officials confirm, the story that Senator McCormick told members of the German Government that the Poles were an inefficient lot and that Germany ought to keep Upper Silesia. Perhaps this pronouncement on world politics may be traced back to a Warsaw hotel bill; smaller things than this have affected the destiny of nations.

ENGLAND'S TREATY WITH JAPAN.

That hatred of treaties which notoriously has possessed the Senate of the United States during the last quarter of a century is responsible for the failure of the arbitration agreement with Great Britain negotiated by the Taft Administration nine years ago. In the strict literal sense, the exemption of the United States from the terms of the Anglo-Japanese Treaty of Alliance by which each of those Powers agrees to come to the assistance of the other when either is "involved in war "for the defense of its territorial "rights or special interests" depends upon the unratified Treaty of Arbitration with Great Britain. Actually, as every man of common sense knows, the failure of the Arbitration Treaty exposes us to no danger of that nature. Permanent peace between Japan and the United States and between Great Britain and the United States depends upon the existing firm friendship between those Powers and ourselves, a safeguard more potent than any treaty.

Viscount Ishii dwells upon this point in his interview with the correspondent of The Evening Post in Paris, cabled to that newspaper yesterday. At the time he gave the interview, Viscount Ishii communicated to the correspondent the text of the treaty. The form in which the Anglo-Japanese Treaty was negotiated and agreed upon in 1905 led to some discussion of the question whether under its terms Great Britain would not be obliged to come to the aid of Japan in case of war between that country and the United States. When the treaty was renewed in 1911, the Arbitration Treaty between Great Britain and ourselves being then in process of negotiation, Japan herself suggested the inclusion of the article that would remove all doubt about the effect of the treaty upon the United States. This was Article IV., which reads as follows.

> Should either high contracting party conclude a treaty of general arbitration with a third party, it is agreed that nothing in this agreement shall entail upon such contracting party an obligation to go to war with the Power with whom such a treaty of arbitration is in force.

Viscount Ishii declares that if the treaty were to be renewed, and it now may be terminated upon one year's notice by either party, Japan would suggest that Article IV. be retained.

As the treaty stands, it would appear that the only conditions that would cause the application of the agreement for mutual support in war would be the attack either upon Japan or upon British India by Russia. Neither one of those events now falls within the realm of probability. Bolshevist emissaries are at work and have been at work in India, but any trouble the British Government may encounter there is more likely to arise from internal disturbance than from exterior aggression.

The resurrection of the Arbitration Treaty with Great Britain, now under a nine years' accumulation of dust, is not easily supposable. Our entry into the League of Nations would make that compact superfluous. The question is not whether we are going to join the League of Nations, but how long the futile putterings of the party soon to come into power with substitute associations, courts and codifications will defer our entry.

A CRISIS FOR MILLERAND.

The long predicted fall of Mr. Leygues's Ministry in France came just at the moment when it seemed least insecure. The Senate elections of last Sunday showed that France still had confidence in the Bloc National which dominates the Chamber of Deputies, but the Bloc National no longer has confidence in Leygues. It wants somebody who will be more uncompromising toward Germany and toward English forbearance for Germany in the next allied conference. That fact, whether regrettable or not, is clear enough. The chief interest just now lies in the fate of Mr. Millerand's attempt to continue to direct French policy from the hitherto inactive eminence of the Presidency.

For Leygues, made Premier when Millerand became President, has followed the policy of conciliating Lloyd George which Millerand maintained during his Premiership. Leygues in effect has been Millerand's deputy, and the policy which was repudiated is Millerand's policy. Apparently the President realized this and decided to lighten his balloon by throwing out Leygues as ballast; for dispatches from Paris suggest that the overwhelming majority against the Government was due in part to Millerand's own repudiation of his appointee. Leygues, according to early reports, was to be succeeded by a doubtless respectable but entirely unknown personage named Dumont, who was to continue to do the work which Millerand laid out for him.

But talk of Dumont, or anybody like Dumont, suddenly ceased. The Chamber seems inclined to give its confidence rather to one of the older leaders who have been Millerand's rivals; to Briand, perhaps more solidly supported than any of the others; to Viviani, who lately at Geneva brought himself back into prominence by the brilliant oratory that is one of his greatest assets; or to Poincaré, who represents the angry resentment against German evasion of the Treaty terms, and the determination that somehow Germany must be made to pay as much as she ought to pay, which is yet strong in the country and perhaps still stronger in the Chamber. And if any of these men succeeds in forming a Ministry, President Millerand must recede to that remote and leisured passivity which his office imposed alike on respectable functionaries such as Fallières and on active politicians like Poincaré.

THE ALBANY ARGUS.

Some years ago that "staunch old" Republican organ, The Worcester Spy, which "should have the eye of an Argus," its motto said, ceased to be. Today The Albany Argus will issue its last number. It first appeared on Jan. 26, 1813, a semiweekly. It became a daily in 1824. It has the respectable virtues of old age. It was a remembrancer of conditions in journalism and politics that have passed away. In the early years of the nineteenth century and long afterward the Albany newspapers were the mouthpieces of politicians. Thus The Register spoke for the Clintons, Aaron Burr and their associates and successors. Solomon Southwick, its editor from 1808, Sheriff of Albany in 1809, mixed politics, finance and journalism, was accused of corruption, opposed the re-election of Governor Tompkins, lost his influence and made a lot of enemies. The Argus represented the opposition to him.

Its first editor, or nominal editor, was Jesse Buel, whose previous thundering in the press had been done in The Ulster Plebeian, a name delightfully reminiscent of Jeffersonian simplicity. The great Democratic leaders wrote the editorial articles themselves whenever they had anything important to communicate to the faithful. From the moment of its birth The Argus was fed with Federal pap. In 1815 Buel became State Printer. For generations the State printing was the noble bone of contention between Democratic and Whig or Republican newspapers at Albany. Buel got rich enough to sell out in 1821 to Moses J. Cantine, Martin Van Buren's brother-in-law, and Isaac Q. Leake, who became State Printers, of course. The indispensability of politico-journalist close connections in the ideas of the time is amusingly shown in a letter written by the then Senator Van Buren, after Cantine's death:

> Under no circumstances ought any one to be appointed who is not a sound, practicable, and, above all, discreet Republican [Democrat]. Without a paper thus edited at Albany we may hang our harps on the willows.

Then Edwin Croswell of The Catskill Recorder became a political reporter and editorial writer on The Argus; and he was its editor after Jan. 1, 1824. Forgotten mostly now, he was long one of the busiest and most influential politician-journalists in the country. The paper soon took a commanding position as the voice of the so long renowned Albany Regency. Van Buren, Dix, Silas Wright, Marcy were among its contributors. The same men made politics and newspapers. The heart of the State palpitated over the great question of who should be State Printer. The subtle and powerful Thurlow Weed and his Albany Evening Journal were mightily active, and actively mighty. In the early '40s Croswell's election as State Printer over William Cullen Bryant of The Evening Post and Mr. Greeley split the Democratic Party into Hard Shells or conservatives and Soft Shells or radicals.

So great a moral issue couldn't but create passionate feeling. Mr. Croswell and a Soft Shell once fought in a public street. Mr. Croswell retired in 1847, but another Croswell conducted The Argus as a Hard Shell paper to the beginning of 1855. Mr. Marcy, then Secretary of State, wouldn't do anything for it and it had to be sold to the Soft Shells. It faded a little, till it was united with another Democratic organ, The Atlas, in 1856. A dozen years or so afterward it again received the cardinal boon of Albany journalism, the State printing. We can't follow its latter years or more than mention the once famous work on it from 1877 to 1884 of St. Clair McKelway, that industrious and super-prolific writer. The Argus represented a tradition and school of Democratic journalism that has mostly passed away. If it never set the Hudson on fire, its partisan orthodoxy could always be depended upon. Now that that sort of thing has mostly vanished, one can afford to be kind to it.

LITERATURE IN CONGRESS.

Senator Pat Harrison of Mississippi has an able sense of humor and a fine appreciation of literature. He is going to meet and beat the Tariff Emergency bill with a Literature Emergency amendment. He proposes to append to Mr. Fordney's monument of impromptu statesmanship the volume bill prepared by the House Committee on the Revision of the Laws. This handy little work contains the revised Federal Statutes, in some 1,400 pages and 3,000,000 words. All this will have to be read by the accomplished reading clerks of the Senate and, if necessary, of the House. That reading will take two weeks or more.

The time will not be wasted. No soberer, chaster and more educative reading course could be given in Congress. It will teach Congressmen their country's laws and reveal to them the beauties of the legal style, a needed corrective of the loose and exuberant language of debate and eulogy and "extension of remarks." It will cost the Government something for printing paper, but the few dollars thus spent will be nothing to the amount saved by the strangling of the Fordney bill to hamper foreign trade, to invite foreign commercial retaliation, to bleed American consumers and to reconcile the American farmer to being bled later by an old-fashioned tariff law made by its beneficiaries.

TOPICS OF THE TIMES.

Editors Do Have One Friend.

Among the remarkable persons brought to light in the selection of jurors before whom to try the Brindell case, and perhaps quite the most remarkable of them all—even more remarkable than the two who had never heard or read anything about Brindell or the Lockwood committee—was the man who said that he paid no attention to the news columns of the papers and read only the editorial articles.

That this would be a bad plan cannot be asserted offhand. Indeed, until more testimony or evidence is available as to the consequences in relation to the mind of him who pursues it, even moderately safe guesses cannot be made. At present, one only can know that the man who perhaps invented the plan and is its single practitioner was dismissed by the astonished court and went his lonely way, whether rejoicing or not does not appear from the record.

Possibly he it is who so often, in a letter sometimes cold and cruel and sometimes hot and fierce, has manifested his disagreement with an editorial utterance by ordering his subscription stopped or by saying that he never again would buy the offending paper. If so, he has been wont to sign different names at different times, for the signatures are not always the same, and this theory is made plausible by the fact that revolts by enraged or aggrieved readers have an appreciable effect on total circulation only in very rare and extreme cases. Usually they have none at all, and the ruin of the paper seemingly in the hope or expectation of him who stops his paper does not occur.

They Know They Are Not Ignored.

That editorial articles are read, and read carefully, by a great many people is known more than well by anybody who ever has been engaged for any length of time in their production. He has only to make even the slightest error in an ascertainable fact—to get a date wrong, to substitute one letter for another as a middle initial, to credit some achievement or to charge some evil deed to somebody undeserving or guiltless—and he will hear from it, and hear from it, in nine cases out of—well, in about nine—before twenty-four hours have passed.

What he writes that is correct or commendable is not the subject of epistolary recognition quite as often or quite as promptly, but that, too, happens frequently enough to prove, though other proof were lacking, that the editorial page does not go unread.

All this, however, has only indirect relation, and perhaps not that, to the strange case of the man who said that editorial articles formed the whole of his mental diet, at least so far as the newspapers were concerned. He remains alone and inexplicable. He is acting within his constitutional rights, of course, and is under no legal obligation to reveal his motives unless he chooses to do so; but, obliged or not, he might be kind and tell how it was that he contracted this strange habit and why he keeps it up. Is it in order that he may escape jury duty—always?

Another Park Threatened.

Economy, and especially economy in the expenditure of public money, is a plea that gets a deservedly favorable hearing, nowadays, with far less regard than in better and safer times to the incidental or indirect effects to follow the saving accomplished. Even yet, however, and with taxpayers as heavily burdened as they are at present, there is such a thing as false economy—an economy that costs more in one way than it is worth in another.

A clear case of extravagance disguised as economy is to be seen in the proposal to use the little playground in East 101st Street as the site of a new schoolhouse, instead of buying for it land now occupied by two tenements adjoining Public School 121 on 102d Street, as had been planned.

This would save the city some money and it would avoid a reduction of the city's scanty housing facilities to the extent that they are provided by the two tenements—both good arguments—but it would mean the loss of a playground that has been in constant use by hundreds of children ever since it was started twenty-five years ago by the Union Settlement. At first the children played there only by permission of the owners of the land, but later the settlement folk persuaded the city to buy it, and it has been of large though incalculable benefit to an otherwise badly congested neighborhood. Its loss would be severely felt by parents, as well as by the children for whom the streets would become the only place of exercise and recreation.

The City Club, the Community Service, the United Neighborhood Houses and other bodies, as well as the Union Settlement, are deeply interested in the preservation of this playground, and they strongly oppose covering it up, even with a schoolhouse. They speak with authority and should be heeded.

They Avoided an Easy Implication.

In the resolutions formulating the purpose of certain manufacturers to make and keep their shops "open" there is a sudden, curious and significant change from the singular to the plural—a change more significant, perhaps, than they either intended or realized. The paragraph in question reads:

> It is recognized as fundamental in this country that all law-abiding citizens or residents have the right to work when they please, for whom they please, and on whatever terms are mutually agreed upon between employe and employer, and without interference or discrimination upon the part of others.

Why "employé and employer" so soon after referring to "law-abiding citizens and residents"?

The reason that will suggest itself to "labor" is that "employés and employers" would have been too suggestive of "collective bargaining" and the "closed shop" so apt to follow or go therewith.

STRANGE IDEAS OF CANADA.

To the Editor of The New York Times:

Having spent many years in Canada, I cannot help being amused and sometimes not a little provoked by the ridiculous notions the average New Yorker entertains concerning that country. Apart from the well-informed minority, to whom this criticism does not apply, the general impression seems to be that, once across the American border, you are somewhere in the vicinity of the North Pole.

Let me illustrate: We were discussing the late adventures of the navy balloonists, and one of our number, having been informed that James Bay was about four hundred miles from the American border, say at the northern point of New York State, then asked how far it was from the pole, adding his own supposition that it was probably about the same distance. When I informed him that it was a matter of 2,500 miles or more he laughed outright and left me as if I had sworn black was white.

I wonder in what latitude this type think the American border line lies? Do they think the United States embraces all of the North American continent except a fringe around the Arctic Circle?

Now, I do not deny that it is cold in the Hudson Bay country. It is often 30 degrees below zero and more, but so is it in Ogdensburg, N. Y., now and then. And even so, 30 degrees below zero there is no worse than 15 degrees below here on the seacoast.

We were told that it was 10 degrees below zero when the balloonists landed. That would be like about 5 or 6 degrees above here.

If we would stop to think, we would realize that hungry, half-naked men do not wander through the woods four days and four nights and be little the worse for it, in Arctic regions.

Again, others reading that "the snow had no bottom to it" jumped to the conclusion that it was so deep there seemed to be no end to it, as we say of a lake beyond the length of our plumb line. Any one familiar with the terms of the woods knows that this does not apply to depths, but that the snow is "slushy," having no frozen foundation under it—further proof of the mild weather prevailing.

Do you know that the point where the balloonists landed is south of the most southerly point in Ireland, south even of the Straits of Dover? Do you know that there are points in Canada as far south as Central Spain and Portugal?

Now this is not intended to detract in any way from the exploits of these daring balloonists. They are the kind of brave men we need—men who dare for knowledge, not for conquest and spoliation, after the manner of our heroes of the past. But I cannot say as much for the officials who sent them north in the dead of winter and in a craft they could not control. But here I may be wrong, so will say no more.

I had a letter from a friend in Nova Scotia dated Dec. 20, 1920. My friend happened to mention the fact that the farmers throughout the country were still plowing their fields. Think of it, plowing in the Arctic at Christmas. How the seasons have changed!

TENDING THE FIRE.

I do not think you ever laid a log
Upon the fireplace within my sight
But that I turned and watched you, noticing
Your care that each brown log set just aright.

I do not think you ever came in quick
And asked, "Is this room warm?" house-father wise,
But that I glanced at you and saw the look
Of care and kindliness within your eyes.

I do not think that one such instant came,
Of all the many in our daily tasks,
But that our hearts kept watch and built it in,
Yet smiling, "Do you love me?" still I ask!

ART NOTES.

New York Water Color Club Exhibit—Notable Collections.

The New York Water Color Club opened its exhibition yesterday in the two renovated galleries of the Fine Arts Building with more than 300 pictures. Purity of color, a prevailing high key, much expertness in treatment and a minimum of frame all contribute to the gayety of the occasion. The growth of the sense of appropriateness in the use of the lighter mediums has kept most of the modern painters from the heavy color schemes, the loaded surfaces and the experiments with varnish that intruded themselves a few years ago, and the proportion of pictures in which the use of pure wash is accompanied by the energy and force once supposed to be incompatible with a wash drawing steadily increases.

Detailed notice of the exhibition must be postponed to a later date, but a first survey of the galleries reveals many good things. The two Lake Louise pictures by Sargent, which were given to Mr. Hecht by that artist in return for some of Mr. Hecht's own work, add greatly to the interest of the exhibition, not merely because they are Sargent's and full of his brilliant workmanship, but also because that brilliant workmanship quite fails to put to shame many of the less celebrated things in the galleries, although no one quite has equaled the subtle passages of color in the brisk silhouettes of the trees in the camp picture or the lovely gradations of tawny white in the canvas of the tent.

A few of the more arresting pictures are the portrait by George Luks with its milky skin of body color veiling the franker underpainting; a group of bright studies by Stuart Davis, rather conventional in composition and in the highest degree unconventional in characterization; George Elmer Browne's substantial "Fête de Sainte Anne" across the way from Ray Kinsman-Waters's piquant, vivacious and personal version of a Brittany street; Anna Fisher's "Blue Bowl" taking the Hudnut Prize, the little blue bowl playing a subordinate part in a composition dedicated to the artist's favorite large white crackle bowl and a bunch of flowers. Lucy Hurry's clever studies that may be block prints and may only imitate the block print technique; a group of superb little water colors by Rene Clarke, with all the virtues of the medium and much besides; another group of small studies by F. C. Frieseke débutantes in the water-color medium, and looking, in the casual fashion of the débutante, ever so much better than the fulfilled and sophisticated belles which have represented him hitherto in the exhibition rooms.

Three Notable Collections.

At the American Art Galleries are three collections, as diverse as possible in character, but united in quality. The old and modern paintings collected by Julius E. French, John G. Holmes, Helen C. Bostwick, Mrs. F. S. Smithers, Charles G. Roebling and others include examples of well known artists and uphold a generally high standard.

Among the old masters probably the most interesting is the extraordinary composition by Paul Potter, representing Noah disembarking on Mount Ararat. It was bought from the Holland Department of Fine Arts at the Columbian Exposition and has been thoroughly authenticated, but nothing could be less like the simple annals of the pasture familiar in Potter's art. There are beasts in plenty, goats and sheep and cattle, crossing a fragile bridge built in a rather careful modern fashion over some tumbling falls, and the cattle especially have the meticulous and stupid aspect of this over-esteemed painter; but the human figures are not subordinated. With their big heads, hard features and clumsy gestures, they make an amusing group at the left of the composition, with Noah, weary and relaxed, giving praise for the bright and pleasant day that smiles over the rugged landscape. It is a big picture, but some public gallery might well harbor it if only to prove the calibre of the artist whose fame hangs precariously upon his one masterpiece.

The Barbizon school is well represented. There is a Corot landscape with dancing nymphs; not the finest in its kind, as the composition lacks freedom, the nymphs making a somewhat stiff group in spite of the grace of their individual gestures. A splendid Troyon, vigorous and true in drawing and with the solidity and character of the best period, is "The Time of Milking." A beautiful small Daubigny and a spirited sketch by Rousseau might elude attention by their inconspicuous proportions. Among the French paintings of various schools are a number of fine Vollons, a Rosa Bonheur with more than her usual feeling of atmosphere and space, an ingratiating peasant child by Lhermitte, two admirable examples of Cazin and a small Fromentin of enchanting quality.

The Dutch school is dominated by a large picture of a shoal fisher by Josef Israels, one of the canvases in which the painter cast aside the gray mists of sentiment which develop his indoor subjects and yielded himself to the brusque influence of the sea. The salt spray and swirling waters that unite almost at the top of the composition with a wet and heavy sky are magnificently interpreted, and the figure of the fisherman is muscular and definite in drawing. The picture is one to enhance the fame of Israels where it has been weakest and to counteract the unhappy popularity of his least-inspiriting works.

In the lower gallery is the collection of tapestries, French and Flemish, of the 16th and 17th centuries. The time is the high tide of tapestry making if only technical excellence is considered. The pair of early Gobelin weavings illustrating King Louis XIV. as a young man, at play with his sweetheart Marie Mancini, come from the collection of a noble Belgian family, Mercy d'Argentau, and are in a remarkable state of preservation, the colors undimmed, the weaving of first excellence, and the cartoons bold and handsome.

A somewhat later Brussels weaving is, however, more architectural in design and carries out with greater appropriateness the idea of the tapestries as wall hangings, while the close intricate designs and flat planes of the sixteenth century pieces go far to balance their less splendid aspect as products of the weaver's skill.

The side galleries on the second floor are filled with the profusion of the Bowie collection of early American and Colonial furniture. The Bowie family is ancient and celebrated and the objects collected combine historical interests with an unusual beauty of workmanship and design. Among the more distinguished pieces are two beautiful card tables made by Duncan Phyfe, fine in proportion and simple in ornament, and a pair of mahogany dining tables of the Sheraton period and of American make, which have been used in one family since Revolutionary times. There are mirrors and clocks that will tempt the most exigent collectors, a set of Adam chairs and settees that belonged to the Empress Eugenie, a tip table of Santo Domingo mahogany upon which George Washington played cards when he visited Mr. Fenton on his way to and from Valley Forge, and many other objects of associative value. Putting aside historic interest and the claims of antiquity and "period," however, nothing in the collection is more desirable than the early American mahogany sofa made by Duncan Phyfe, pure in style, restrained in ornament, sound in workmanship, made for comfort and the satisfaction of a fastidious taste, casting a shadow over the productions of more celebrated designers.

CROWDER WARNS CUBA OF DANGERS

Elections Must Be Cleared Up or Paralysis of Legislative Power Will Come.

NOW WAITS ON THE COURTS

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

HAVANA, Jan. 13.—General Crowder's first public statement was issued tonight and is accepted as an indication that the first portion of his mission of inquiry into the recent Presidential election has been completed. He is now expected to turn his attention to the financial and economic situation.

The General bases his first announcement upon a letter sent in the name of President Menocal to the Central Electoral Board. This letter, dated Jan. 12, is believed to have been dispatched after the palace conference attended by General Miguel Gomez, recent candidate for President of the Liberals.

"As President Menocal has so forcefully stated in his admirable letter to the Central Electoral Board, the urgency of the present electoral situation lies in the fact that already, through the failure of the electoral boards and courts to function within the prescribed time limits, we have today an ad interim or provisional municipal administration in a majority of the municipal districts of Cuba. If these agencies continue to fail, Cuba in due course will be confronted with ad interim provincial and national administrations, and after the first Monday in April next with a total paralysis of the legislative power, due to the fact that on that date one-half of the seats of Congress will become vacant.

"The electoral boards have functioned and posted their provisional returns. What is lacking is the action of the Cuban judiciary on the contested election cases, of which there are a great number, involving practically all of the colleges of Oriente and Matanzas, a large number of the colleges of Santa Clara, including whole municipal districts, and a smaller number of colleges in other provinces. What has been accomplished thus far at the instance of the President is the patriotic co-operation of the Supreme Court and Central Electoral Board in the issue of proper instructions and regulations and the patriotic co-operation of political parties in the waiving of certain provisions of the legal procedure of Cuba, all of which means a most expeditious procedure for the courts in deciding the numerous appealed cases.

An Appeal to the Judiciary.

"The electoral code of Cuba makes a special appeal to the judiciary of Cuba in such a situation as now exists. It should be the attitude of every one to assume that the Cuban courts will meet that situation and discharge their full responsibility. They have a mandatory duty of decreeing the nullity of the elections in any college or colleges for any of the causes A to C, inclusive, mentioned in Article 242 of said code, and the authority to invalidate elections for other causes where it shall be established by proper proof that there has been suppression of the vote or a failure of the scrutiny and canvass through intimidation, force, fraud or other causes.

"I point to these provisions in order to remind all the contestants that the law as drawn gives them an ample remedy and to express my belief that the courts will be courageous and fair in the application of the law to the several appeals which have been taken, and, of course, this means courage to grant an appeal and as well the courage to deny one, in other words, fairness to both parties.

"The courts will not be at all obstructed by technicalities. Under the express provision of the law, defects of form no longer operate to exclude from the consideration of the courts relevant facts which are offered for their consideration. The evidence is to be admitted and its probative value left for the determination of the courts.

"Having taken this distinct step forward, we must now await the results before the six audiencias and the Supreme Court. Meanwhile I shall give my attention to other matters connected with my mission to Cuba."

Menocal Gives Time Limits.

President Menocal's letter to the Central Electoral Board said in part:

"It is evident that, given the time limitations prescribed by the electoral law to decide the appeals which have resulted with lamentable generality from the elections of last November, a difficult situation is being created which may bring about a failure to announce such decisions in time to allow of the elected candidate taking office, and as such situation may bring very great harm to the national life, allow me to invoke the patriotic aid of your board to the end that it may consider the observations and suggestions which in my judgment your high body might recommend and order. * * *

"The electoral boards and tribunals not having announced within the time prescribed the results of the election held Nov. 1, 1920, the municipal administration has become a provisional administration in the majority of the municipal districts. If the definite results are not proclaimed by the board and the courts by Feb. 24 of this year, the administrations of the six provinces will become also on this date provisional administrations. If the decisions are not reached and results proclaimed by the first Monday of the coming April, the date on which the members of Congress elected at the last election should take possession of their posts, the offices of half of the Congress will become vacant and the total paralysis of the legislative power will follow, and if on May 20, the date on which the President and Vice President of the Republic should be inaugurated, the national administration will also become provisional unless prior to that date the electoral colleges of the six provinces have met and have counted the votes and proclaimed the candidates elected.

"This situation alone is sufficiently grave, and considered in relation with the present financial crisis constitutes a menace to the national life which calls for extraordinary measures."

FOR MODIFIED MORATORIUM.

Cuban Senate Bill Provides for Payments by Instalments.

HAVANA, Jan. 13.—Continuation of the moratorium in Cuba on a modified basis for four months would be authorized under the terms of a bill adopted by the Senate here last night. The measure has the sanction of President Menocal, and is reported to be acceptable to Major Gen. Enoch Crowder, who is expected to take up Cuba's financial problems as soon as he has succeeded in straightening out the tangle resulting from the recent Presidential elections. The bill now goes to the House for consideration.

Under provisions of the measure, drafts, promissory notes and other commercial obligations contracted before Oct. 10, 1920, the date of the issuance of the first moratorium decree, and now due, or falling due before April 30 next, would be payable in four instalments. Fifteen per cent. would be paid before Jan. 31, 25 per cent. before Feb. 28, 25 per cent. before March 31 and 35 per cent. before April 30. FUND FOR NEEDIEST MAKES NEW RECORD

WILL AID ANOTHER FAMILY

Response to the Appeal Greater Than in Any Previous Year—Societies Tell of Benefits.

The full amount of $109,846.93 required by the 200 families appealed for in the Neediest Cases was reached and passed yesterday.

On Wednesday the total was still short by $898.96 of the amount sought. Yesterday morning a check for $898.96 bearing the signature of one of the best-known men in New York City was received. Additional gifts of $243.13 were received during the day making the total $110,090.06. This total is greater by $3,122.91 than the response a year ago, which was larger than that of any previous appeal.

To the Editor of The New York Times:

I have been watching with much interest THE NEW YORK TIMES appeal for the Neediest Cases among the poor. I see in your issue this morning that you are within $898.96 of the sum to complete the provision for one year for the 200 families for whom the appeal has been made. I enclose my check for that amount with the understanding that you will not publish my name and acknowledge it from A FRIEND.

The total of $243.13 more than the sum sought means that a 201st family will receive direct aid. The 200 families are selected because of the extremity of their sufferings from the thousands of families now penniless and destitute through no fault of their own.

Others Indirectly Aided.

Hundreds of other families are indirectly aided, because of the interest aroused in them by the appeal for the Neediest Cases and because of the increased relief which the charitable organizations are enabled to provide for other families after the 200 neediest of them are cared for. Scores of children in the Neediest Cases have been adopted after being introduced by the appeal to sympathetic readers who became their foster parents. Sometimes a stroke of good luck helps a family of the Neediest to its feet within a short time, making further charity for it unnecessary, with the result that others are more adequately relieved.

1915	31,819.92
1920	110,090.06

Jan. 13, 1921.

Dear Sir: There was real Christmas cheer and New Year's rejoicing among the nurses and visitors of our staff when word came from THE TIMES office that your appeal for the Hundred Neediest Cases had brought contributions to take care of the first hundred families whose stories were printed on Dec. 12. This rejoicing was soon shared by the twenty-seven families on that list who are under the care of our association, the anxious mothers and sick fathers who have had no assurance that their homes and children could be kept together until we could give them that assurance through the gift of the necessary funds.

Today you send a second welcome message, the word that the readers and friends of THE TIMES have overreached the generous total of last year's gifts and contributed a sum sufficient to provide for the second Hundred Neediest families. This message means happiness and comfort in another hundred homes during the whole year 1921, peace of mind for the mothers, good care and good health for the children, an opportunity during the twelve months for some of these families to become again self-supporting, and for the others to progress nearer to earning ability and self-dependence. Every cent of every contribution will go directly to some one of these families as material relief during the year, paying rent or buying food or coal or clothing.

It would be impossible to express in a letter all the far-reaching results of this appeal and its response. A year of normal progress for the children in 200 homes means a very substantial gain in the life and character of these future citizens. And not only are 200 homes and families maintained for a year—funds which might have been used in tiding over the emergencies in these homes are now available for still other families, many of whom can be helped out of temporary difficulties, during periods of illness and sudden misfortune.

Every one of our families among the Two Hundred would like their thanks to reach THE TIMES readers who have responded to the appeal either with money or with an expression of personal interest. And to THE TIMES itself we send our heartiest appreciation of its splendid Christmas campaign in behalf of New York's needy families.

Yours sincerely,
General Director.

State Association Grateful.

Homer Folks, Treasurer of the State Charities Aid Association, wrote as follows:

Jan. 13, 1921.

Dear Sir: We are deeply gratified to learn that the response to the holiday appeals for the "100 Neediest Cases" has now reached the goal of $109,846.93. To have secured contributions aggregating this total at a time when general conditions were so unfavorable and when heavy demands are still coming from all parts of the world, is further proof that citizens of New York City recognize the obligation to keep the home fires burning in the homes of their own needy poor no matter how many other demands are pressing, and is likewise an indication that they have confidence in THE NEW YORK TIMES which brings these exceptional cases to public notice.

For the contributions which have come to the needy cases especially under the care of the State Charities Aid Association we are deeply grateful, but we are even more thankful and gratified that the whole sum which THE NEW YORK TIMES set out to raise for the care of needy individuals and families under the care of various philanthropic and charitable organizations has been realized.

On behalf of the State Charities Aid Association I again thank you for your valuable public service in publishing these appeals and through THE TIMES express our gratitude to all those who have so generously responded to them. Sincerely yours,
HOMER FOLKS, Secretary.

Charity Society's Resolution.

The Central Council of the Charity Organization Society adopted the following resolution, which was sent to THE NEW YORK TIMES yesterday:

Whereas for nine years THE NEW YORK TIMES has annually at the Christmas season presented to its readers an appeal for needy families under the care of the Charity Organization Society and has made this appeal so effectively that the money contributed for families cared for by this society in 1920 amounted to $31,184.53,

Resolved, That the Charity Organization Society records its appreciation of the service rendered by THE NEW YORK TIMES to the needy families whose necessities have been relieved and to generous-minded persons in the city of New York and throughout the country to whom has been given an opportunity to give not only generously but wisely and effectively.

Others Have Been Inspired.

Lawson Purdy, Secretary of the Charity Organization Society, sent the following letter in addition to the resolution:

Jan. 13, 1921.

To the Editor of The New York Times:

Dear Sir: The service voluntarily rendered by THE TIMES in giving space day after day to what has come to be known as the "100 Neediest Cases," has inspired those who give regularly to the various charitable organizations, those who give irregularly, and those who had never given at all, as well as those engaged in social work.

Only such a service as THE TIMES has rendered setting forth in detail to the reading public the predicaments of these needy families could have brought about the triumphant result which THE TIMES has achieved this year when the giving public has been taxed almost to the limit of its endurance.

But those inspired most by this devotion of THE TIMES, of course, are the needy families themselves: trouble has taken these people unawares; in thousands of these families the breadwinner has suddenly died or become incapacitated; suffering beyond anything we know, in our better circumstances, has fallen on them and the only earthly hope they have lies in the practical help which their unknown friends have given them. Yours very truly,
LAWSON PURDY, Secretary.

Brooklyn Rejoices.

The following letter was sent on behalf of the Brooklyn Bureau of Charities:

Jan. 13, 1921.

To the Editor of The New York Times:

Heartiest congratulations on the splendid success achieved by you in raising the entire amount necessary to care during the coming year for 200 of the neediest families in New York. To have accomplished this result in this year of uncertainty means a far greater success than even the large figure involved would indicate. We had little doubt from the first that THE TIMES would reach its goal, knowing from past experience the generosity of TIMES readers in practically every section of the country.

The Brooklyn Bureau of Charities is grateful beyond words for the splendid assistance which has been given to families under our care. With an increased number of applicants coming to us because of unemployment, our funds this Winter will be stretched to the utmost in providing food and other living necessities. The money you have raised for us will cover in full for a year the needs of fifty of our most urgent cases, and we shall thus be enabled with our regular funds to help others who were not so fortunate as to be appealed for by us. Very sincerely yours,
THOMAS J. RILEY,
General Secretary.

R. M.—"Enclosed please find $10 for the Neediest Cases. Sorry to send it so late, but it is my second contribution, and I am most glad to be able to add this bit."

Impecunious Widow—"The small amount enclosed, though belated, may, I hope, bring some added comfort, preferably to an elderly person. I wish it were ten times as much, but it is all that can be spared."

HENRY REINHARDT, ART DEALER, DEAD

Henry Reinhardt, art dealer, head of Henry Reinhardt & Son, 606 Fifth Avenue, died yesterday at his apartment in the Ritz-Carlton after a month's illness of pneumonia. He was 62 years old and began his art career in Milwaukee when still a youth. In the course of forty-five years he established galleries in New York, Chicago and Paris as well as in his native city.

Among his chief interests was the development of art appreciation in the West, and to this end he helped organize several museums; notably the one at Toledo, for which he bought at auction for $20,000 the now famous landscape, "Moonlight" by the tragically fated Blakelock. It was Mr. Reinhardt, too, who arranged the loan exhibition of Blakelock's works to raise part of the fund for the painter's maintenance.

Mr. Reinhardt gathered what is said to be the finest collection of the works of George Inness, that which is now in the Art Institute of Chicago. During the war his Paris gallery was given over to the Red Cross for a medical library.

WILDE KNOCKED OUT BY HERMAN'S BLOWS

LONDON, Jan. 13 (Associated Press).—Pete Herman of New Orleans, former bantamweight champion of the world, tonight in Albert Hall decisively defeated Jimmie Wilde, long a British idol as flyweight champion.

The end came in the seventeenth round, when the referee interfered and stopped the bout to save the little Welshman from additional punishment.

Although in the last round Wilde had been three times knocked through the ropes, he was still coming back for more punishment when the referee caught him in his arms, ended the battle and gave the decision to the American lad. The fight had been advertised as being for the bantamweight championship of the world.

The men had agreed to weigh in at 118 pounds, but Herman was one and one-half pounds over the stipulated weight.

The first five rounds were in favor of Wilde. Then the advantage alternated until the fifteenth round, when Herman's blows began to tell on the Welshman.

Early in the seventeenth a right to the jaw sent Wilde through the ropes. This was twice repeated and the referee ended the contest.

Herman Is Aggressor.

Herman surprised the crowd by his boxing, which discounted Wilde's aggressiveness. The American fought a sportsmanlike contest throughout and was well received by the spectators. He will sail for home Saturday and says he hopes again to meet Joe Lynch, to whom he recently lost the world's championship in a bout in Madison Square Garden, New York.

Although defeated Wilde is still Great Britain's boxing hero, as he is considered to have saved tonight's program from being a complete fiasco by entering the ring against Herman, notwithstanding the inability of the American to make the stipulated weight fifteen minutes before the battle.

Ten thousand persons, including the Prince of Wales and other notables, witnessed the contest and evinced enthusiasm throughout the fight, especially in the fifteenth round, when there was a terrific battle on the ropes. Herman, with left to the ribs and right to the jaw, appeared to have Wilde nearly out, but the bell saved the Welshman.

Levinsky's Elbow Dislocated.

Battling Levinsky, the American light-heavyweight, was to have fought Bombardier Wells, the Englishman; but he injured his right arm in training yesterday, and the match had to be called off. An X-ray picture is said to have disclosed a dislocation of the right elbow. Levinsky and Wells were to have fought a twenty-round contest, and it is still hoped among the boxing enthusiasts that the injury of the American will mend sufficiently in two or three weeks to permit him to carry out his engagement.

After the bout tonight Herman said: "Wilde is the greatest boxer that I have ever seen. I was in better condition for this fight than I have ever been in before."

Burt Kenny, an American, and Spalla, an Italian, heavyweights, substituted for Levinsky and Wells. After having been warned several times, Kenny was disqualified in the sixth round for holding.

TO BOX IN TOURNAMENT.

American Contestants Named for International Bouts Here.

The United States Army and Navy boxers who will meet the British Army and Navy champions at the Commodore Hotel in the international tournament next Monday were announced yesterday after elimination contests at Grupp's Gymnasium.

Ralph Ritchie was the winner in the heavyweight class. Ritchie, who is attached to the naval station at Hampton Roads, Va., will box John Watson of the English navy. John Courtright of the Third Corps Area won in the light heavyweight class, and will represent the army. He will fight Captain E. V. Chandler of the English army. Ben Davis, also of the Third Corps Area, a full-blooded Choctaw Indian, will meet Hugh Brown of the English army. Both are light heavyweights.

KEARNS THINKS BOUT OFF.

LOS ANGELES, Cal., Jan. 13.—Jack Kearns, manager for Jack Dempsey, heavyweight champion, said today the match between Dempsey and Jess Willard in New York might be called off because of the recent ruling by the New York Boxing Commission fixing $15 as the highest admission fee to be charged at championship matches.

He said this meant that not more than $150,000 could be obtained if the bout was held at Madison Square Garden, the largest place available in New York at that time of the year.

"That sum is not enough to handle the match," said Kearns.

COLUMBIA WRESTLER HURT.

Broken Arm Will Keep Kirkland Off Mat Rest of Season.

Columbia's chances on the wrestling mat received a severe setback yesterday when it became known that S. Kirkland, star 158-pound grappler, had broken his arm in two places in a fall during practice, putting him out of the game for the remainder of the season.

Kirkland was one of the best bets that the Blue and White had to offer against Princeton tomorrow night in the New Yorkers' gymnasium. He was the captain of the wrestling team up on Morningside Heights last year and has been winning consistently so far this season.

TO PLAY INDOOR TENNIS.

Seventh Regiment and Heights Casino Racquet Teams Will Meet.

A team match at indoor tennis was arranged yesterday between the Seventh Regiment and the Heights Casino racket twirlers, to take place tomorrow and Sunday on the courts of the latter organization in Brooklyn. Five matches are to be played on the first day and four on the second, three of the encounters being at doubles.

The teams will be composed as follows:

Caddock on Way Here.

Tilden and Johnston Bow to Brookes and Wood at Doubles

MELBOURNE, Australia, Jan. 13.—In a tennis match at doubles here today Norman E. Brookes and Patrick O'Hara Wood, the Australians, beat William T. Tilden and William H. Johnston, the victorious American Davis Cup players, in doubles, 6—3, 7—5, 6—4. Captain Watson M. Washburn, America, beat Gerald F. Patterson of Australia at singles, 7—5, 6—3, and Tilden won from J. B. Hawkes, Australia, 6—3, 6—3.

EXPECT BIG THRONG TO SEE TITLE BOUT

The stage is all set for the great boxing exhibition tonight in Madison Square Garden to raise funds for devastated France. Benny Leonard, lightweight champion, who is to defend his title against Ritchie Mitchell of Milwaukee, is well within the weight limit of 135 pounds and is feeling fine, as is Mitchell also. The old Garden, all attired in the Stars and Stripes and the Tricolor, has a most cheerful appearance.

It is estimated that the receipts will amount to $175,000 and that the attendance will be about 14,000. Leonard will be $40,000 wealthier as the result of his battle with Mitchell, while the latter will have $20,000 more than he has this morning. Of course there always is the possibility that Leonard might lose his title, which is worth more than the $40,000 to him, and should Mitchell chance to score a knockout he would consider the $20,000 as least of his earnings.

The American Committee for Devastated France, composed of Otto B. Shulhof, Chairman; Miss Anne Morgan, Louis E. Stoddard and Colonel Arthur H. Woods, is happy at the prospects of being able to render valuable assistance to the cause, and the amount mentioned as probable is $100,000.

Miss Anne Morgan has received the following letter from General Pershing in response to a letter she had sent to him in connection with the affair tonight:

"Your very cordial note of Jan. 8, inviting me to an evening's entertainment next Friday at Madison Square Garden, is at hand and I thank you for remembering my great interest in athletics.

"The invitation is especially alluring, as the proceeds are to be used in continuing the splendid work that has been so far carried on by the American Committee for Devastated France.

"I was delighted to see your picture in the centre of an advertisement of a prizefight at Madison Square Garden and not the least of my gratification is that you are encouraging clean athletics by those young men.

"I sincerely trust that the results will be all that you expect and I have no doubt but that they will be.

"Wishing you again all of the happiness, prosperity and success you so richly deserve, I remain, as always,

"Yours very sincerely,

"JOHN J. PERSHING."

The main bout will start at 10 o'clock and will be a fifteen-round to a decision affair. The preliminaries start at half past 8 o'clock. The semi-final will bring together Bobby Michaels and Johnnie Reissler in a ten-round affair.

Yesterday afternoon several newspaper men from Milwaukee, home of Mitchell, visited Stillman's gymnasium, where Leonard trains, and, after watching him go through some light exercises, they asked the champion if he would step on the scales. Much to their surprise he agreed to do so, and when he did, tilted the bar at 133¾ pounds. Their surprise at the weight registered was even greater than their surprise that he agreed to weigh before them, and they inquired as to why he had taken off so much weight, to which he replied that he preferred to build up slowly to the required weight rather than to suddenly reduce.

CHASE ATTACKS BOXING.

Tells Governor Miller Sport Has Become Commercialized.

Special to The New York Times.

ALBANY, N. Y., Jan. 13.—Opponents of boxing began their fight today to secure repeal of the Walker Boxing law and ban what they term "commercialized boxing" from the State.

Canon William C. Chase of Brooklyn, a representative of the New York Civic League, called on Governor Miller. He told the Governor that professional boxing interests are practically swamping the State because of commercial benefit and that continuance of the Walker law would involve "disastrous results."

Governor Miller asked him if he favored the suggested proposal of placing all sports under one regulatory commission, with the resultant abolition of the State Boxing Commission and the Racing Commission.

"I would not," replied Mr. Chase. "Such a commission would serve only to hurt the sport, because it would be regulating it for commercial interests. The minute you make sport the object of commercialism you kill it."

The Governor has not yet determined the date for his proposed conference with the sporting writers of the State, at which he will ask their views on the conduct of all branches of sport.

PEARSALL WINS DECISION.

Defeats Darcy in Bout at City Athletic Club.

Amateur boxers gathered at the City Athletic Club last night and engaged in some lively bouts in the 108, 118, 130 and 135 pound classes. A. Pearsall of St. Anselm's Association showed clever work in the 130-pound class and had little trouble defeating B. Darcy of the East Side House.

The summary:

MORE BOXERS LICENSED.

Applications of Two Clubs Also Approved by Commission.

At a meeting of the New York State Boxing Commission, held yesterday afternoon, two licenses were granted to clubs. They are the Broadway Exhibition Association, Inc., of Brooklyn and the Port Henry Sporting Club, Inc., of Port Henry, N. Y. Seventeen managers, two referees, two judges, two physicians, a timekeeper, a trainer and thirty-six seconds also, were licensed in addition to seventy-three boxers.

Wolfert Defeats Lemmert at Pool.

Fred Wolfert defeated W. Lemmert yesterday by a score of 125 to 69 in the professional pocket billiard tournament at Lawlor's Academy, the winner making a long run of 32, while the loser's high run was 20. Lemmert had the lead of 70 to 50 at one stage, but miscalled a ball and forfeited a shot, losing a turn at the table. Wolfert then made his long run of 32 and both played safe, which reduced Lemmert's score to 69 and Wolfret ran out.

SQUASH TILT EASY FOR HARVARD CLUB

METROPOLITAN LEAGUE SQUASH TENNIS STANDING, CLASS A.

Club.	Won.	Lost.	P.C.
Harvard	4	1	.800
Columbia	3	2	.600
Yale	3	2	.600
Crescent A. C.	2	3	.400
Princeton	0	4	.000

Play was resumed yesterday, after a lapse of two weeks, in the Class A Metropolitan team championship tournament at squash tennis, and the triangular tie which has existed among the Harvard, Yale and Columbia clubs terminated, the Crimson players taking the lead by winning from Columbia while Yale went down to defeat at the hands of the Crescent Athletic Club racquet wielders.

The Harvard Club was represented by about as strong an aggregation as ever has been gathered, including three former champions, F. V. S. Hyde, E. S. Winston and J. W. Appel Jr., as well as a threetimes runner-up for championship honors in Anderson Dana, while the other three were among the best of those who play the game at the Harvard Club, where the encounter was staged.

The Columbia Club team lacked two bright, particulars stars, Jay Gould and Frank Kidde, but, as Harvard won all seven of her games the result would not have been materially changed even if the Columbia stars had been present, and there was a wealth of clever squash exhibited during the session.

Chief interest centred around the meetings between F. V. S. Hyde and E. W. Putnam, and Anderson Dana and M. I. Cornell. Incidentally, Appel and Winston of the Harvard team made their first appearance so far this season on the courts and both managed to win for the Crimson team. The Harvard players did not have a great deal of difficulty in winning though Putnam put up stiff opposition for Hyde in the second game, and Cornell did likewise in his second game against Dana.

The scores:

F. V. S. Hyde, Harvard, defeated E. W. Putnam, Columbia, 15—4, 18—13; Anderson Dana, Harvard, defeated M. I. Cornell, Columbia, 15—5, 18—16; W. P. Sanger, Harvard, defeated A. L. Marvin, Columbia, 15—4, 15—9; P. M. Morrison, Harvard, defeated J. N. Worcester, Columbia, 15—11, 15—3; A. H. Tomes, Harvard, defeated R. L. Streibeigh, Columbia, 15—9, 7—15, 15—8; E. S. Winston, Harvard, defeated L. E. Mahan, Columbia, 15—10, 15—13, and J. W. Appel Jr., Harvard, defeated F. S. Keeler, Columbia, 15—10, 15—9.

The other games of the tournament between Yale and the Crescent Athletic Club were played on the latter's courts in Brooklyn. The Half-Mooners proved to be the victors by a margin of four matches to two with one unfinished, there being no need of deciding it.

Andrew J. Baxter of the Crescent Athletic Club, and H. R. Stern of Yale had each won a game when the day's strenuous work on the courts terminated, the Half-Mooners having then won the necessary number of matches to settle the affair.

The scores:

Charles M. Bull, Crescent, defeated A. J. Cordier, Yale, 15—9, 15—12; R. E. Fink, Crescent, defeated Thomas Coward, Yale, 15—10, 12—15, 15—13; C. J. MacGuire, Yale, defeated C. W. Dingee, Crescent, 8—15, 15—9, 15—11; Kenneth T. McVaugh, Crescent, defeated Livingston Platt, Yale, 15—8, 15—3; Stuyvesant Wainwright, Yale, defeated M. M. Sterling, Crescent, 15—2, 15—4; James Doig, Crescent, defeated J. Walker III., 15—3, 15—10; Andrew Baxter Jr., Crescent, vs. H. R. Stern, Yale (uncompleted), 18—17, 15—18.

LAYTON GETS CUE LEAD.

Wins First Two Blocks in Three-Cushion Series With Maturo.

John Layton, yesterday at Kline's Academy, won the first two blocks of 50 points each at three cushions out of a total of 300 to be played, by defeating James Maturo to the tune of 100 to 84. The first block of 50 found Maturo close up with 46, and the game lasted for 58 innings. Layton had high runs of 6, 4 and 3, while Maturo had 5, 4 and 4.

The later game lasted for 47 innings, and at one time the two were tied at 34, but thereafter Maturo was only able to tally four while Layton ran out, and the first run he made after the tie was of 7, the high run of the game. His other high runs were 5, 4 and 4. Maturo's high runs were 5, 4 and 4. The series will be continued tonight.

NAURIGHT WINS WITH CUE.

Defeats Gardner in Three-Cushion Tourney by 30 to 26.

The final score was 30 to 26 and each player had a high run of four, the game lasting for fifty-two innings. It was nip and tuck right up to the finish, neither player having any appreciable advantage over the other. The scores were tied at 26 in the forty-eighth inning. Then, in the fiftieth, fifty-first and fifty-second, by consistent playing Nauright made one, one and two, which made the required thirty.

L. A. Servatius and M. Leak will meet tonight in the continuation of the tournament which si being conducted under the auspices of the National Association of Amateur Billiard Players.

LA RUE AND WATHEY WIN.

Defeat Shongood and Barton Respectively at Snooker.

Two games were played at Doyle's Broadway Billiard Academy last night in the amateur snooker championship which is being held by the A. A. B. A. George La Rue won from Charles Shongood in the first event, while William Wathey defeated George Barton in the closing affair. Both victories were considered surprising inasmuch as the two losers were supposed to be the stronger players.

La Rue never gave Shongood much of a chance in their match as he kept spreading the oil on every shot where there was more than an even chance of missing.

Barton's defeat was a facer, as he has lost his two starts, which practically knocks him out of it. The safety play of Billy Wathey was too much for his opponent.

The highest run of the evening was La Rue's when in the fifth inning of his match he knocked off twenty. The scores were: La Rue, 71; Shongood, 48; Wathey, 60; Barton, 48.

NO MATCH FOR BELGIAN.

Two Contestants Go Down Before Horemans's Cue by Big Scores.

Edouard Horemans crossed cues with C. P. Conway, formerly Class B champion, and M. P. McManiman yesterday at Thum's Billiard Academy, and the Belgian had little difficulty in winning both games. He defeated Conway to the tune of 400 to 61 and McManiman was only able to score 34 while the Belgian piled up his score of 400.

In the Conway game, which lasted eight innings, Horemans made high runs of 199 and 100, while in the other game he averaged 57 3-7 and had a high run of 206, which is the longest run ever made in Thum's rooms. During the game with McManiman and between the times Horemans's score was 68 and 230 he did not drive the length of the table once, and he only made seven cushion shots during the entire game, which afforded a wonderful display of clever massé shots.

One-Legged Wrestler Wins Place on Cornell Mat Team

ITHACA, N. Y., Jan. 13.—Although handicapped by the loss of one leg, A. W. Snedeker, a senior at Cornell University, has succeeded in making the varsity wrestling team and will take part in most of the Cornell bouts this year, unless objection is made by opponents of the Red and White. Snedeker, who comes from Staten Island, has been showing up well in the team tryouts, and Coach Walter O'Connell plans to use him in the 145-pound class in the Intercollegiate League and non-league matches. As a result and to forewarn their opponents, the Cornell Athletic Association has sent a letter to all teams which Cornell will meet this season, notifying them of the facts in Snedeker's case and asking them either for objections or permission to use the one-legged wrestler.

SOUTAR IS VICTOR AT COURT TENNIS

Defeats Glocker in Great Match of Open Title Tourney—Dufton Beats Moss.

Special to The New York Times.

PHILADELPHIA, Jan. 13.—The court tennis tournament for the open championship of the United States got under way today when two matches were played on the Racquet Club courts. In the morning match Rowland Dufton, of the Boston Tennis and Racquet Club, vanquished Joe Moss, a pupil of Fred Tompkins, the court tennis instructor at the Racquet Club, while Jock Soutar, the world racquet champion, disposed of Otto Glocker of Boston. The first match went five sets, while Soutar won three of the four sets played with Glocker.

Brilliant tennis marked both matches, particularly in the Soutar-Glocker affair, where there was some splendid play on the part of both. Owing to the limited accommodations, made necessary by the erection of a court tennis court, comparatively few were able to see the matches, but the onlookers were well repaid for their patience in remaining in the cold court while the matches were in play. No heat is allowed in the courts, and while all four players were bathed in perspiration, the onlookers were bundled in heavy coats and furs.

The matches were refereed by James Potter. Jay Gould, the amateur champion of the world, as well as the American open champion, was one of the interested spectators, and during the morning match he came to the rescue of Dufton, who was unfortunate enough to break all his bats.

WOULD ADD TO STEWARDS.

August Belmont Favors Increase in Jockey Club's Officials.

The Jockey Club held its annual meeting yesterday and besides electing officers and appointing committees, attended to such other routine business which always comes up at this session. The only departure from this was a resolution offered by Chairman August Belmont to be voted on at the next meeting, increasing the number of stewards of The Jockey Club from seven to nine members.

Mr. Belmont was re-elected Chairman of The Jockey Club while F. K. Sturgis was also retained as Vice President and H. K. Knapp as Secretary and Treasurer. F. R. Hitchcock, H. K. Knapp and J. E. Widener were reappointed as members of the License Committee.

CAPT. HERSHLER IS WINNER OF FEATURE

Special to The New York Times.

NEW ORLEANS, La., Jan. 13.—The Baton Rouge Purse, which served as the feature of a rather ordinary card at the Fair Grounds today, was won easily by W. R. Tolmie's Captain Hershler, which finished two lengths in front of Vice Chairman at the end of the mile and seventy yards' test, with The Wit bringing up third. There was a field of five starters. Captain Hershler had been sent to the post a 1 to 2 choice, so his victory was greeted with cheers.

A light rain began to fall just before the starting of the first race and the weather was disagreeable throughout the day. The intermittent rains made the track slippery, although the going remained fast, but this changed condition did not seem to have any adverse effect on form, for four of the favorites finished in front.

Jockey Ponce gave Captain Hershler a masterly ride in the feature event and never left the issue much in doubt. Amaze showed a flight of speed for the first half mile, but Ponce moved up close with his mount and took command when Amaze began to tire. From there to the end Captain Hershler was in command and held Vice Chairman safe, although the latter made a good effort in the stretch. The Wit was away well, but could not follow the early pace.

UMPIRES TO HAVE SHARES

Special to The New York Times.

CHICAGO, Jan. 13.—Having accomplished a long-felt want in the ratification of a new agreement on Wednesday, the baseball dignitaries busied themselves today with a mere informal meeting. Satisfied with an amicable adjustment, many of the magnates headed back to their respective homesteads early in the day. A few remained to gather the loose ends of some possible trades, and the new pact was started on its way with a discussion between Judge Kenesaw M. Landis, supreme dictator, and the Advisory Board, consisting of major and minor league representatives.

The conference of Landis and his colleagues did not result in anything startling. Revision of drafting rules was taken up, and this will take several days to complete. Slight alterations were made in the code governing world series, the most notable change being that the four umpires in the big games of the future will divide a sum equal to one winning and one losing player's share. In the past the arbiters have been paid a flat sum for their services, but this arrangement was not satisfactory to them.

15 Per Cent. for Commission.

It was also decided to increase the commission's assessment from the post-season battle. Under the old agreement the commission took 10 per cent. of the gross to help defray operating expenses. In the future the deduction will be 15 per cent. This increase may help a bit in meeting Landis's $42,000 salary and the $7,500 or $8,000 that will pay for the services of a Secretary-Treasurer to be selected by Landis.

Among the matters discussed by Landis and the Advisory Board, consisting of Presidents Johnson and Heydler of the American and National Leagues, respectively; President Sextion of the minor association, and Secretary John H. Farrell of the same body, were rules to promote the operation in carrying out provisions of the new agreement, procedure for settling differences between the majors and minors and plans for presentation of disputes arising between leagues of the same classification.

May Name Farrell.

Although Landis maintained discreet silence on the subject, it was whispered about that he would appoint John H. Farrell as Secretary. Farrell has acted as Secretary for the minor association for the last twenty years, so naturally is well versed in his line. Whether Landis has made Farrell a tentative offer is not known, but Farrell will not accept unless the salary as well as the term of office are satisfactory. He received $7,500 as Secretary of the minor body.

Among the major league owners still about town tonight, were those representing the New York, Pittsburgh, Boston, and St. Louis clubs. Reports had it that a four-cornered transaction was brewing, but there was no inkling as to the identity of the players involved. From one source it was whispered that if the deal goes through it will include Rogers Hornsby, the Cardinal star, or Rabbitt Maranville of the Braves, and possibly both.

McGraw recently offered $200,000 and four players for Hornsby and it was refused. Another bid of $300,000 and four men was made for the same player, and although Giant officials denied the offer the general supposition was that they had made it. Because of policy the Cardinals refused to consider a cash deal, but given the proper playing material they might be induced to part with their star infielder.

Should Hornsby go to the Giants, it is very probable that McGraw would force a deal for Maranville and then turn him over to the Cardinals as part of the transaction. Just how Pittsburgh might figure is not known.

During the day John K. Martin, President of the Southern Association, and J. Doak Roberts, President of the Texas League, got together and agreed to a post season series between the champions of their respective leagues. It was decided to play a series of best four in seven, the idea being to determine the championship of the South.

HEAD LIST FOR PASSES.

Burns and Young of Giants Drew Most Bases on Balls.

The miscellaneous records of the National League, swept up after the formal batting and fielding figures for the season have been compiled and corded into heaps, are made public this morning. These final records comprise bases on balls received, strikeouts, number of times put out while attempting to steal, and runs batted in. Their chief function is to stir the Winter League into a semblance of activity in its armchairs by the fireside, and a secondary mission is to keep a hungry man from his dinner while he tries to find something of deep significance in them to write about.

There is supposed to be a modicum of merit in getting a free pass to first, unless you happen to be a Babe Ruth, in which case you have a right to scowl over the pitcher's benevolence. A keen eye, exemplary patience and uncanny ability as a guesser are the desirable qualities which fatten the B. B. column in the box scores. Two Giants, George Burns and Ross Young, are the leading partakers of glory in this respect. Burns was passed seventy-six times in the season of 1920 and Young ambled seventy-five times. Paskert of the Cubs was the only rival trudger who came anywhere near these two, and he walked sixty-four times. Rogers Hornsby and Heinie Groh were next with sixty passes apiece.

George Kelly, the Giants' ample and able first baseman, shared with Hornsby the glow of self-approval which is the only prize awarded for batting in the most runs, each providing transportation over the plate for ninety-four runners. Eddie Roush of the Reds was right up there with the leaders in this respect, his crop of grateful runners reaching ninety. There follow in order, Duncan, Cincinnati, 83; Myers, Brooklyn, 80; Young, New York, 78; Frisch, New York, 77; Stock, St. Louis, 76; Robertson, Chicago, 75; Whitted, Pittsburgh, 74; Wheat, Brooklyn, 73, and Williams, Philadelphia, 72.

Kelly headed another list also, but it didn't get him a darned thing. In fact he only accepted the post because nobody else seemed to want it and George has a kind heart. This list was that of strikeouts, of which Kelly compiled the plentiful supply of ninety-two in the course of the pennant race. It wasn't necessary for him to be so emphatic about it, because there was no one close at his heels. Powell of the Braves and McHenry of the Cards were nearest, and they didn't give him a real fight. The former whiffed eighty-three times and the latter seventy-three times.

The rather dubious honor of leading the inglorious parade back to the bench of those caught out stealing rests with Southworth of the Pirates, who was nailed twenty-five times. Roush perished thus twenty-four times, Roberts twenty-three times and Burns twenty-two times.

BOSTON, Mass., Jan. 12.—Harvard's varsity hockey team roundly outplayed the Boston Athletic Association Amateur League champions at the New Arena tonight, the collegians winning 4 to 1. In the first period the veterans held Harvard to no score, but later slowed up, the Crimson scoring 3 goals in the second period. A few minutes before the end of the match Boston Athletic Association made its only goal when Murphy was on deck to stop a pass out from Downing and then shooting past Holmes, who, all evening, had played a very remarkable game in the Harvard cage.

Captain Bigelow made two of Harvard's goals, both on long shots. He also combined with Baker for another goal, while Buntin, playing as brilliantly as last week, made one of the scores. Both teams, however, played a game that was mainly individual.

HUGGINS SIGNS ROTH.

Yankee Manager Will Use Veteran to Aid With Pitchers.

Special to The New York Times.

CHICAGO, Jan. 13.—If Miller Huggins is unable to win an American League pennant next season with his Yankees it will not be because of a dearth of assistants. Announcement was made here tonight that the Yanks had taken on Frank Roth, the veteran catcher, to aid in whipping the New York pitchers into trim. Besides Roth, the Yanks will have Charley O'Leary, the one-time Tiger star, who was Huggins's chief aid last season. Frank Roth, who is a brother of Rob, also a Yankee, starred for the White Sox in the famous World Series of 1906 against the Cubs.

Special to The New York Times.

CAMBRIDGE, Mass., Jan. 13.—Harvard's varsity basketball team beat Middlebury at the Hemenway Gymnasium this afternoon, 35 to 25, after securing a six-point lead in the first half.

The shooting from the field by Tyson was a feature. Pallo, a newcomer, scored nine goals after fouls, besides counting four times from the floor. Harvard had the more rugged team, while Middlebury played better together. Of Tolbert and Fitts, the varsity football players, neither was very effective on attack, but each did a lot of good defensive work.

NAVY MAY ROW ON HUDSON.

World's Champion Crew Likely to Be Seen at Poughkeepsie.

Special to The New York Times.

ANNAPOLIS, Md., Jan. 13.—The fixing of the date for the Poughkeepsie regatta as June 22, more than a week earlier than had been expected, greatly increases the chance that the Naval Academy crew, winners of the world's championship at Antwerp last Summer, will enter the event.

Commander D. L. Howard, athletic officer at the Naval Academy, stated today that the midshipmen would be in the race if official permission can be obtained. This is regarded as certain unless the Summer cruise takes such a course that the oarsmen will be unable to join the squadron after the race.

Commander Howard also stated that the academy crews would enter the American Henley at Philadelphia on May 28 and that Syracuse would row on May 21 at Annapolis, though every effort had been made to have the race rowed on May 7. Harvard is expected to row at Annapolis on May 14. The Navy has no earlier races or prospects of any at this time.

COLUMBIA IN YALE'S TANK.

Teams Will Clash Tonight in Races and Water Polo.

MYLES TIERNEY DIES AT 79.

Myles Tierney, President of the Hudson Trust Company of Hoboken and Vice President of the Emigrant Industrial Savings Bank of this city, died yesterday of pneumonia in St. Vincent's Hospital after a long illness. He was born in Silver Lake, Pa., in 1841 and made his home in Montclair. Requiem mass will be said tomorrow morning at 10 o'clock at the Church of St. Francis Xavier in Sixteenth Street.

Long a willing giver of his services in work of community benefit, Mr. Tierney was one of the earliest members of the Tenement House Commission and of the Board of Trustees of Bellevue and Allied Hospitals. He was a devout Catholic, a frequent benefactor of that Church's charities, president of the Board of Managers of the New York Catholic Protectory, a former Trustee of St. Patrick's Cathedral, and a member of the Executive Committee of the Society of St. Vincent de Paul.

In addition to the business connections previously mentioned, Mr. Tierney was a Director of the Commercial Trust Company of New Jersey, a Trustee of the New York Trust Company, and a Vice President of the Hackensack Water Company. He is survived by Mrs. Tierney and two sons, Dr. Myles J. Tierney of 182 West Fifty-eighth Street and John C. Tierney of Oradell, N. J.

BOSTON, Jan. 13.—By order of Dr. George W. Morse, head of the new medical department of the Massachusetts Institute of Technology, members of the Faculty send all sneezers and coughers to the school clinic where they can be taken care of.

The order is the result of an epidemic of colds. Not only those who give audible evidence of the possession of a cold through a cough or a sneeze but those who show symptoms of any kind are to be made to call on Dr. Morse at once.

HOTELS THREATEN LOCKOUT

BOSTON, Jan. 13.—Hotel men of Massachusetts threatened today to declare a lockout on the public for one day a week if forced to give employes every seventh day off.

Speakers at a meeting of the Hotel Men's Association warned the Legislature not to pass a bill calling for a day of rest for hotel workers, asserting that the carrying out of such a measure would be virtually impossible and would be a grave injustice to hotel owners.

Navy Pays $10,000,000 for Reenlistments.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 13.—Approximately $10,000,000 would be saved annually by discontinuing bonuses to men who re-enlist in the navy, the House Naval Committee estimated today. Rear Admiral Washington, Chief of Navigation, urged the committee to continue the gratuity system, particularly for men in the service for four years or more. It costs the navy $84 a man to obtain recruits, or $114 if the pay of recruiting officers is included, Admiral Washington said.

Clothing Firm Denies Open-Shop Pact.

It was denied at the offices of the Amalgamated Clothing Workers of America yesterday that the firm of Henry Sonneborn & Co., Baltimore clothing manufacturers, had signed an agreement with the union by which the open shop is established at the Sonneborn plant. A telegram from the labor manager of the Sonneborn Company to Sidney Hillman, General President of the Amalgamated, confirmed the union's denial.

The

WITH the same superior performance it has been giving for 19 years, the Franklin welcomes comparisons from any standpoint that involves motoring value.

Its comfort, safety, ease of operation, dependability, economy and freedom from tire and cooling troubles are evidence of more than merely the quality of materials and workmanship in the car.

These performance results are convincing proof also of the correctness of Franklin principles. Further proof of both these facts are the averages of its owners:

20 miles to the gallon of gasoline
12,500 miles to the set of tires
50% slower yearly depreciation

OUR RUSSIAN POLICY OUTLINED BY DAVIS

AMERICANS FREE TO ENTER

NO HELP TO SOVIET ENEMIES

Says We Have Not Extended Financial or Other Assistance to Foes of the Bolsheviki.

What many regarded as an informal statement of policy by the United States toward Soviet Russia was set forth in a letter read yesterday afternoon before a meeting of the National Civic Federation in the Hotel Astor. The letter was addressed to Alton B. Parker, President of the Federation, in answer to questions propounded last Fall by the League of Free Nations to the Presidential candidates. Ex-Judge Parker had submitted the questions to the Secretary of State, and the reply came from the Acting Secretary, Norman H. Davis.

The letter takes up in detail passports, the right of American citizens to enter Russia, relief for that country and similar problems. It was read before a meeting called to consider "Should the United States Grant Recognition to Soviet Russia?" The letter follows:

Letter of Mr. Davis.

Department of State,
Washington, Jan. 8, 1921.

Sir:

I have before me your letter of Nov. 26, 1920, addressed to the Secretary of State, in which you call attention to certain criticisms of the Russian policy of the State Department made in a "widely published declaration," and in which you ask what ground there is, if any, for these statements and request specific answers to all of the points raised. I understand that the charges were made by the League of Free Nations Association in an open letter addressed to the Presidential candidates on Oct. 29 and widely published as an advertisement in the daily press, obviously in the hope of influencing the outcome of the election. Now that the votes have been cast and the results are known, I have no objection to replying specifically to the charges made in order to rectify the misapprehensions which this document suggests.

After a short introduction emphasizing the great importance of the Russian problem in the return to peace and the reconstruction problems that now face us, the letter propounds five questions. In form they start with certain statements of what is alleged to be the Russian policy of this Administration and uniformly end up with the question, "If elected, will you support this policy?" This question is a specious method of presentation, as the truth or falsehood of the assertions made as to the existing policy toward Russia is of supreme importance.

I.—First: Our recent policy, although never clearly stated, has been to refuse to permit relief to be sent to that vast portion of Russia which is under the control of the Soviet Government. Thousands of Russians, Bolshevist and non-Bolshevist, are suffering from lack of medical supplies, soap and the common necessities of life. No American has been officially permitted to feed a sick Russian child or to send medicine to a Russian hospital. If elected, will you support this policy?

Says Charge Is False.

The first sentence of this paragraph is unqualifiedly false; the second sentence is true; the third sentence is somewhat ambiguous, but false in its obvious intention. Since the War Trade Board regulations in regard to trade with Russia were amended, on July 8, 1920, it is not true that it has been our policy "to refuse to permit relief" to be sent to Soviet Russia. The only restriction maintained by this Government on export trade with Soviet Russia is the restriction on the export of munitions or commodities susceptible of immediate military use. For the shipment of commodities under this qualification it is necessary to apply for special export license. There is no restriction on the export to Russia of "medical supplies, soap and the common necessities of life." No special licenses are needed, none has been applied for. That relatively little of these commodities has been sent is due to purely commercial considerations. Two different organizations have been carrying on a noisy agitatiton in this matter and asserting that they have been prevented by this Government from sending medical supplies to Russia. They have been informed that no such obstacle exists to such shipments, but apparently they have no funds to send supplies or to pay for their transport.

The Department of State has taken an intense and continual interest in the possibility of arranging for large-scale relief work by strong and reputable organizations. The difficulties which have stood in the way of any accomplishments in this matter have been raised, not by this Government but by the Soviets, who cannot find in their theory of communism any excuse for private philanthropy. Representatives of the large relief organizations, with the knowledge and approval of the Department of State, have visited the central Soviet authorities in Moscow, in the hope of establishing a modus vivendi for such work, but with two exceptions have been met by rebuffs. In this matter the experience of this Government has been identical with that of European countries, both those which were associated with us in the war and the northern neutrals. The only relief work which the Soviet will tolerate is the direct gift of supplies to the Soviet Government, to be distributed by them as their own largesse. Quite aside from the question of whether this would be politically expedient, it is the opinion of almost all of those experienced in such work that it would be impossible to raise funds from private subscription on this basis.

Jews Undertook Relief.

The two exceptions to this have been, first, the Jewish Joint Distribution Committee, which, contrary to the opinion of their colleagues, have felt that it was possible to extend relief in Soviet Russia on the conditions drawn up by the Soviet authorities, and, second, the American Friends Service Committee (Quakers), which has been operating almost continuously in Russia on a small scale under British management.

The State Department has taken the position that it could not officially encourage the entry into Soviet territory of American relief workers so long as the Soviet authorities continue to hold as hostages American citizens who are not accused of any illegal activity, but its attitude toward relief workers has been identical with that toward private business enterprises. Any American citizen who wishes to enter Russia on his own responsibility and without a passport can do so without any let or hindrance from this Government. The "official" obstruction to feeding of sick Russian children of Americans has come out from this Government, but from the Soviets.

II. The second paragraph reads as follows:

"Second—Under a recent ruling, the State Department confiscates the passports of American citizens traveling to and from Russia, nor are Americans officially permitted to communicate with Russia. An American of Russian descent cannot communicate unhindered with his mother in Russit; cannot ascertain whether his relatives are living or dead; cannot, if they are in distress, bring them to the United States; cannot himself go to their aid. If elected, will you support this policy?"

The first sentence deals with the question of passports. In conformity with the order lifting the War Trade Board restrictions against trade with Soviet Russia, it has been the policy of this department to issue passports to Americans wishing to enter Soviet Russia, good for the countries of transit. The authors of this paragraph seem to have had no idea of the nature of a passport. It is merely a formal and engraved adaptation of an official letter of introduction. It is addressed to a friendly Government or Governments, and it would not be proper or appropriate for this Government to give a letter of introduction to the Soviet authorities.

There is no possibility of normal passport courtesies between Governments which are not in diplomatic relations.

Passports Are Returned.

A more recent order has instructed the diplomatic and consular officers in countries contiguous to Soviet Russia to take up the American passports of such Americans as wish to enter Soviet Russia, to be returned to them on their leaving Soviet territory, as the passports addressed to Governments with which we have diplomatic relations could be of no legitimate use to them in Soviet territory, where they would have no sense and would offer no protection. No hardship is imposed on the Americans wishing to enter Russia at their own risk, and the chance of the misuse of American passports is notably decreased.

The second sentence of this paragraph involves much the same considerations. Postal communications are based on a commercial contract and imply solvency on both sides. Postal communications with Soviet Russia could not be formally established without treaty negotiations. That this Government does not take such steps in order to facilitate postal communications cannot be justly construed as a refusal to permit communications. As a matter of fact, it is well known that letters do pass between the two territories.

An American of Russian descent wishing to communicate with his mother in Russia, while it is impossible for this Government at present actually to help him, is not hindered nor interfered with by it.

It is true that he would probably experience great difficulty in bringing his relatives to the United States. Some of the difficulties might be raised by the immigration authorities of this country or by the Secretary of State in the discharge of trust conferred upon him by the President to execute the so-called visé regulations, but past experience indicates that they would be small indeed compared to the difficulties raised by the Soviet authorities. There is the same attempt to mislead in the statement that he "cannot himself go to their aid." If he has the means to travel to the Soviet border and is admitted by the Soviet authorities, he will not be hindered by this Government.

III.—The third paragraph reads as follows:

Third—The United States helped in every way to secure the independence of the oppressed Baltic nations of Lithuania, Latvia and Esthonia, now republics. Secretary Colby's note of Aug. 10 proposed officially to restore Russian "territorial integrity," and with it Russian rule over these countries. Hundreds of thousands of Americans of Baltic nationality are vitally interested in this proposal. If elected, will you support this policy?

No Interference in Russia.

The statement that this Government "proposed officially to restore Russian 'territorial integrity' and with it Russian rule over these countries," is false. The last sentence, "Hundreds of thousands of Americans of Baltic nationality are vitally interested in this proposal," appears to have been intended either as a bribe or as a threat to the Presidential candidates.

There is no intention on the part of this Government "officially to restore" the former boundaries of the Russian Empire, nor to impose on any of the non-Russian territories the rule of the Great Russians. Russia today is in a condition of distress, and there is grave danger on all of her frontiers of aggression either directly by foreign States, or indirectly through the control of these border States. In several of these struggling border territories there is a difference of opinion as to which group has a right to speak for the "nationality" involved. It is the conviction of this Government that these thorny questions cannot now be solved in an ex parte manner. The Russian people are certainly interested in such decisions, and, consistent with its previous action, the Department of State in the note of August 10 again served notice that it could not be considered as endorsing territorial settlements affecting the welfare of the Russian people unless a government generally recognized as representing them were a party to the adjustment.

IV. The fourth paragraph reads as follows:

"Fourth—The United States has at various times helped armed intervention in Russia with money, men and munitions. It is not now disclosed whether our Government is at present doing so. Will you, if elected, make a plain disclosure of the commitments of the United States and a plain statement of what they involve?"

The first statement is true, but official announcement was made when the last of our troops was withdrawn from Russian territory, and this Government is not at present participating in any armed action against Soviet Russia, nor is it supporting with money, men or munitions any of the groups or parties which are in conflict with the Soviets. The insinuation in the last question that this Government is secretly committed to intervention in Russia is gratuitous. It has no basis whatsoever in fact, and the implied charge that such commitments exist is refuted by the well-known policy of opposition to intervention maintained for months preceding the decision of the Supreme War Council to send troops to Russia, by our effort to reduce the joint intervention to the smallest scope, and to hold to specifically defined and limited purposes. The recently published exchange of notes between this Government and Poland clearly expresses the policy of this Government. This question is an indication of the spirit in which this questionnaire was drawn, which is not at all to discover the truth as to whether or not this Government is secretly committed to such action, but so to phrase the question as to prejudge the replies.

I am, sir, your obedient servant,
NORMAN H. DAVIS,
Acting Secretary.

MILLERAND SEEKS A NEW PREMIER

BERLIN VIEW IS GLOOMY

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

PARIS, Jan. 13.—President Millerand made no choice of a new Premier today. He is expected to announce tomorrow his choice of a successor to M. Leygues, who fell yesterday.

The President of the republic spent the day interviewing political leaders and weighing their recommendations. It is understood he discovered that it would be a highly difficult task to get a vote of confidence for a figurehead Premier.

It was his plan to name a man he could control so that he could be the dominating figure in the Government, but the leaders of the Deputies told him that throughout France there was an insistent demand that Germany be made to pay. The people found themselves maintaining a big army in order that it might force Germany to hand over her indemnity, but no indemnity was forthcoming and it seemed to be getting further away.

In these circumstances it was thought, with all due respect to the President, that the man who was to conduct the indemnity negotiations in the crucial time between now and May 1 should be a man of the first rank.

During the day M. Millerand offered the Premiership to Raoul Peret, President of the Chamber. Peret told the President he thought former President Poincaré was the right man and that he did not think he himself should accept the post. Several party leaders also recommended Poincaré. It is understood that the former President has been approached, but is holding aloof.

The Matin tomorrow morning will give this explanation:

"There is much talk of M. Poincaré, but it is generally believed that it will not be possible for the former President of the Republic to accept the task of forming a Cabinet. That is because of the manner in which M. Poincaré regards the exercise of the Presidential power and its relations with the responsible chief of the Government."

A visit of former Premier Viviani to M. Millerand this afternoon immediately started a report that France's foremost orator had been asked to head the Government. If this is true his friends say he has not accepted. No less comment was caused by the summoning to the Elysée of former Premier Briand.

Charles Dumont seems out of the running because of the demand for a strong statesman to deal with Lloyd George. This drift of French opinion is well illustrated by a remark in the République Française today which says that no matter who is Premier it hopes Lloyd George will not again be the Foreign Minister of France.

This situation gives rise to the prediction tonight that Raoul Peret will change his mind and accept the Premiership, with Briand as Foreign Minister and Poincaré as Minister of Finance. This trio would then be charged with the task of negotiating with Lloyd George and with Germany. It would be a strong combination.

Berlin Gloomy Over French Crisis.

By Wireless to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

BERLIN, Jan. 13.—The German press is unanimously of the opinion that the resignation of the Leygues Cabinet means a still more aggressive policy against Germany, a more pertinacious attitude toward England, and a more imperialistic program generally by his successor, who, nobody here doubts, will be a radical Nationalist or a militarist.

Vorwärts characterizes the Leygues defeat as a reactionary victory and prophesies the worst for Germany. It fears that Britain will leave France a free hand for concessions in the East.

The Tagblatt says:

"To hide his weakness, Leygues sent Germany one disarmament note after another, robbing the fortresses of East Prussia of their last few miserable guns and worrying the life out of the German Minister of War. But in his last note he went a little too far, threatening Germany with reprisals and occupation in the name of the Entente.

"One would have thought that Leygues would first have gotten the consent of the other Allies, but it soon became apparent that he had not consulted England, America or Italy, and when these powers gave France to understand that they disapproved of the occupation of the Ruhr district there was a great disappointment among members of the so-called Parliament of Victory, which is composed mainly of persons who have little political experience. None has the qualities of a successful political leader, not even General de Castelnau, who may be possessed of high military merits, which, however, serve little in politics.

"Aristide Briand, the most ingenious, keeps in the background purposely, knowing that effective work is impossible with the present Parliament, and for the same reason Viviani may confine his activity to speeches at Geneva. Leygues will make room for some Chauvinist swashbuckler."

France's next Prime Minister, it is held here, will surely try to satisfy the French desire for revenge or reparation, even if Germany perish.

Counsel given by the English not to occupy the Ruhr district in case Bavaria continues to resist disarmament, but to occupy Munich, had a fine effect in Berlin. The occupation of the Ruhr district, it is argued, would have thrown all Germany into confusion and destroyed all the efforts for the resuscitation of industry. Besides, it would have been a punishment which the miners of the Ruhr district might have answered with open anarchy. The occupation of Munich, however, would have, it is held, a most wholesome influence on such village bosses as von Kahr and Escherich, who believe that they can spite the Federal German Government and at the same time hoodwink the combined statesmen of England, France, America and Italy.

People here marvel that the French disarmament notes hardly ever mention the organization of Escherich, abbreviated "Orgesch," which to most republicans appears to be Germany's worst danger. Only a few days ago Escherich himself bragged in a long article in a Berlin paper of the perfection of his organization and its great membership all over Germany, which he said was aided even by Cabinet members.

It is true that the Orgesch pretends to possess no arms and most of the searches have remained without result, but the writer is informed that in every case where searches were made the local Orgesch organizations had been previously notified by some friend connected with the authorities, whereupon the arms were buried or otherwise hidden.

The Federal Government is too weak to suppress the Orgesch, which is now believed to have a membership of nearly 2,000,000. The Orgesch pretends a determination to protect the Government against any attack of the Right or Left; but, it is asked, what can be expected of 2,000,000 men who are all confessed reactionaries?

The only way to exterminate this new militarist plague, it is urged, is to strike at the root in Munich, and for this reason the Republicans would welcome Entente occupation of the Bavarian Capital, which would demonstrate beyond a doubt to all Germany that the Allies are unwilling to tolerate the Wilhelm spirit, traditions and methods.

New U-Boat Has Revolving Tubes And Is Armored Against Depth Bombs

BERLIN, Jan. 13.—The German submarine engineers who built many of the largest U-boats during the war, and have continued their experiments since, have invented an armored cruiser type of submarine which, it is declared, will revolutionize naval warfare.

The inventors claim to have solved two important problems. They have provided protection from depth bombs, the submarine's dreaded enemy, and evolved new torpedo firing apparatus. The new submarines, they aver, will be enabled to fire torpedoes from any position, whereas existing submarines must manoeuvre into position, thereby losing time and inviting a shot from the enemy.

While the armoring will not save the new type from the effect of direct artillery hits, the inventors claim safety from depth charges, which the Germans believe enabled the British mercantile fleet to survive, despite the intensified submarine campaign, which was expected to bring England to her knees.

The new submersibles, however, are designed chiefly for coast defense, and German naval men assert that when these submarines are developed fully their use defensively would prevent any nation from making a landing upon another's coast.

My informant points out that such a submarine cruiser flotilla stationed at the Philippine Islands would be America's best safeguard against aggression and likewise that a small nation, such as Holland, would be able to save her colonies without any great naval program if she built armored submarines and stationed them there.

The inventors claim five advantages—increased protection against artillery, protection through armor against depth bombs, 100 per cent. increase in safety of operation, armored turrets containing four 8-inch guns for submarines of 5,000 tons displacement and revolving torpedo launching turrets.

It is declared that submarines of this type will have a cruising radius of 20,000 sea miles at twenty to thirty knots surface speed. The experiments are continuing.

FRENCH COURT BANS LABOR FEDERATION

FOUR LEADERS ARE FINED

Appeal Will Be Taken, and Secretary Says Union's Power Is Not at Mercy of Court.

By Wireless to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

PARIS, Jan. 13.—The next French Government must face an internal problem of first importance. The Eleventh Court of Correction ordered today the dissolution of the General Confederation of Labor, which corresponds to the American Federation of Labor. It is already announced that the labor leaders will lodge an appeal.

The dissolution was ordered because of the general railroad strike last May to force the Government to nationalize the railroads and sovietize the management. It was shown that this was the beginning of a program of nationalization and sovietision by the confederation, the next step being the taking over of the mines. It will be remembered that the strike failed, not more than 30 per cent. of the workers responding to the call, and that the Government summoned most of these into the army and sent them back to work and put the strike leaders in jail. The Minister of Justice then began action for the dissolution of the confederation on the ground that the law under which it existed specifically provided that it should not engage in a political undertaking.

The judgment written by M. Lemercier, President of Court, sets "fourth clearly its reasons." He says that the confederation had long boasted that it was above the law, and that since the war it had encouraged the doctrine of a fight of classes; that no government constituted by sovereign decision of the national will could tolerate in the same country another led by a minority of agitators whom it had been proven did not represent the majority members of the confederation. He said that the confederation had been plainly engaged in fomenting political revolution and that it was the duty of the regularly constituted Government to impose its will upon the confederation in the name of national unity.

The conclusion of the judgment said: "This unity is more than ever a necessity. It is essential that it be not compromised by a phantasmagoric of revolutionary ideals more or less deceiving and more or less in opposition to the fundamental laws which regulate life and society, and which impose upon all in the present circumstances the duty of joining the ranks to repair the ruins of war, to co-ordinate all energies and to unite all wills to replace in an immense effort of production the strength which we have lost."

The members of the Federal Bureau of Confederation, Journaux, Lapierre, du Moulin and Calverac, were sentenced to a nominal fine of 100 francs each and the confederation was ordered to dissolve, an expert being named to dispose of its property.

Following the announcement of the judgment Marcel Laurent, Secretary of the confederation, said that it was a political judgment. He said it was impossible to dissolve the confederation by court order because it was composed of 9,510 local unions, 52 industrial federations and 89 departmental unions. "Such power," he said, "isn't at the mercy of a court judgment."

WOMAN STIRS LONDON BAR.

First to Be Admitted as Law Student Takes High Honors.

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

LONDON, Jan. 13.—A ripple of excitement was caused in legal circles today when the results of the Hilary Term bar examination showed Miss Helena Normanton, the first women admitted as a law student in London, had taken a first in constitutional law and legal history, a second in Roman law and a second in criminal law and procedure.

In her first year as a member of the Middle Temple, it seems, she created precedent on precedent by taking three parts of the examination at one gulp instead of sipping at it three times, as is customary.

As the next step in her legal career Miss Normanton intends to take Hindu and Mohammedan law, and as a second and voluntary choice real property and conveyancing.

CONSTANTINE SAYS HE WON'T ABDICATE

ATHENS, Jan. 12.—King Constantine will not abdicate the throne, even if the allied nations should refuse to recognize his rights as Greek sovereign, he declared here yesterday.

"I will not abdicate," he asserted. "There is no reason to ignore my recall by the Greek people. Can anyone find many people of Greece who want me to go away? The French insist upon carrying out a campaign against me. But perhaps it is not so much against me as it is an excuse to get the Treaty of Sèvres revised and to force the Greeks out of Smyrna."

It now appears improbable that King Constantine will visit Smyrna, as he has so often planned, the reason given in official circles being that Smyrna is not yet a Greek State because the Treaty of Sèvres has not yet been ratified.

Discussing the projected visit of the King, Premier Rhallis said tonight: "We cannot do such a thing, nor can we even think of it."

In this connection it was pointed out that neither the late King Alexander nor former Premier Venizelos had ever put foot on the soil of Smyrna, because it had not formally been made a part of Greece.

War Minister Gounaris, who now is in Thrace, announced today that Constantine would soon make a visit to Thrace.

The British Minister, Lord Granville, entered protest with the Greek Government today over the action of a certain section of the Greek press in printing this morning editorials condoning the attempt to assassinate Venizelos made by two Greek officers in Paris last August, when the then Premier was attending to peace adjustment matters in the French capital.

The articles in question urged the Greek nation to stand behind the accused men and endeavor to obtain their acquittal, as, however indefensible political assassinations might be, these officers, it was argued, represented the Greek nation and felt they were ridding the country of a tyrant. The editorials added that proofs should be given the French jury which is to try the officers showing the alleged tyrannical character of the former Premier as justifying the shooting.

Professor Georgios Streit, former Minister of Foreign Affairs and confidential secretary of King Constantine during the King's exile in Switzerland, has arrived here. He states he is in Athens to see his family and will leave soon, to remain out of the city until the political situation is settled. He declares he will not return to the Chair of International Law at the University of Athens, which he formerly occupied.

MASCAGNI SUPPORTS UNION.

NAPLES, Jan. 13.—Pietro Mascagni, the composer, delivered a speech today at the inauguration of the new co-operative movement among the workers in theatres, intellectual as well as manual. Signor Mascagni laid emphasis upon the significance of the fusion movement, declaring that the gravity of the economic situation had induced brain workers to join manual laborers in factories to the common benefit.

He proposed the building of a people's theatre, for the production of opera and drama and for concerts.

Hungary to Send Apponyi Here.

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

LONDON, Jan. 13.—A Vienna dispatch received here today says that now that Professor Redlich is going to America for Austria, the Hungarian Government has decided to send the venerable Count Albert Apponyi to the United States to present Hungary's wishes. Count Apponyi is going to Paris and thence to New York.

CONSIDER LOAN TO SAVE AUSTRIA

FEAR PILLAGING OF VIENNA

Communists Demonstrate and an Armed Outbreak of Labor Is Threatened.

PARIS, Jan. 13 (Associated Press).—The Allies are understood to be considering another effort to save Austria by floating a loan equivalent to $250,000,000, as proposed by the Austrian section of the Reparation Commission. This sum, the experts estimate, will be sufficient to enable the country to put its industries to work and gradually become self-supporting.

France is in favor of this project, but is unable to furnish the funds herself.

The complete political collapse of Austria within a month is expected in official Austrian circles here.

"It is no longer a question of months," said Baron Eichoff, the Austrian Minister to France, today. "It is only a question of weeks, perhaps days."

Parties Shun Responsibility.

The prospective resignation of the Conservative Ministry of Chancellor Mayr, which is expected at any time, will leave the country, in the opinion of Austrians here, in a state of political chaos. No party is ready to assume responsibility for governing the nation without money even to pay the clerks in the different departments.

In reference to the trip of former Minister of Finance Redlich, who was formerly a professor in American schools, and who is going to the United States with a mission from the Austrian Government to make known the exact situation, little hope is entertained at the Legation here that aid will come in time to prevent a political catastrophe.

Baron Eichoff indicated that there was danger of a part of Austria at least falling into the hands of Germany, despite the provisions of the Treaty of Versailles.

"Without a Government capable of maintaining order, it will naturally become necessary for the Bavarians to protect the railway lines connecting the two countries," the Baron said, "and insure proper communication. This will involve the use of Bavarian police on the Austrian side of the line. What this may lead to is obvious."

Looting of Vienna Threatens.

The communist movement is not important for the moment, Baron Eichoff declared, but after a political collapse it would be impossible to tell what might happen. Vienna, he considered, would most likely fall into the hands of pillagers, adding that if the whole country was not overrun by hungry and turbulent elements it would be because Italy, Germany and Switzerland prevented such action.

Lieut. Col. W. B. Causey of Chicago, American relief officer in Vienna, is making an official report on conditions in Austria.

TENSION IN VIENNA AS BURDENS MULTIPLY

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

VIENNA, Jan. 13.—When the Austrian Parliament resumed its sittings today the members met in a very chastened mood. Hope of receiving immediate credits from the Entente, even if only for carrying on purposes, has sunk very low, and Parliament is only too conscious that the vicious circle of currency inflation and high prices is becoming daily more vicious.

A little trifle of somewhat more than 4,000,000,000 kronen for increased pay of State employes is the latest addition to the budget and further increased charges for State services and monopolies must be announced to meet the increased costs.

A commission is sitting to inquire into the possibility of lowering prices, but its proceedings are becoming a joke, so hopeless is the whole matter so long as Entente credit is withheld. Dissatisfaction with the high prices and taxation is becoming more apparent, and recently there has been trouble in connection with the statutory income tax deduction from the workers' wages. The communists are leading the protest against it, although the Social Democrats are throwing their strength on the side of the Government.

In Ringstrasseas I write communists are noisily demonstrating against the great hotels on that thoroughfare. One may sympathise with their protest against what is termed the hotel scandal, but the communists here are really too weak to attempt anything in the nature of a coup without foreign help, and that is too far removed for it to be actual. Hungarian reactionary troops in West Hungary are nearer Vienna's door than any Red army. The Viennese workers, too, are the despair of revolutionary leaders, as they have a habit of selling the rifles surreptitiously supplied to them and having a good time with the proceeds.

The Socialist Arbeiter Zeitung today has a leading article on the income tax question which betrays considerable nervousness. Tempers are wearing badly and unless Entente aid comes quickly Vienna may drift casually into something very unexpected and chaotic.

Communists Threaten Profiteers.

VIENNA, Jan. 13 (Associated Press).—Tension over the existing economic and political situation in the Austrian republic seems to be increasing. The doors of the big hotels in Vienna are shuttered at dusk because of communist demonstrations against them as symbols of profiteering, but as yet no big disorder has occurred.

Postal employes have announced that they have called a strike, the Socialist element demanding that these workers be organized as a labor union. The Conservatives refuse to say whether they will declare a strike against the strike of their co-workers. Mail collections have ceased and telephone and telegraph services will be suspended if matters are not settled.

Rhineland Commission Also Bars English Pacifist Sheets.

COBLENZ, Jan. 13.—The Inter-Allied Rhineland Commission has suppressed Der Reichswart, the weekly publication of Count Ernst von Reventlow, formerly chief editorial writer of the Tages Zeitung of Berlin, for three months.

It has also forbidden the sale in the occupied area of two brochures, entitled "The Horror on the Rhine," and the "Black Pest in Europe," published by an English pacifist.

Italian Treasury Has Surplus; October Showed Huge Deficit

ROW OVER RUSSIA AT CIVIC FEDERATION

More than a thousand members of the National Civic Federation, mostly women, were thrown into turmoil at the close of the meeting in the oHtel Astor yesterday by a sudden clash between James P. Holland, President of the New York State Federation of Labor, and Miss Helen Todd, suffrage leader and industrial investigator, who has been active in sending relief supplies to Russia. The identity of Miss Todd was known to but few members of the gathering, who denounced her action.

The resentment of Miss Todd was aroused by vigorous attacks on Soviet Russia, the government of which was described as a régime of bandits and thieves by several speakers, including William C. Redfield, formerly Secretary of Commerce; Mrs. Emmeline Pankhurst, English militant suffragist, and Mr. Holland, who said the American Federation of Labor had never advocated the recognition of Soviet Russia. The other speakers were Major Stanley Washburn, who presided, and Condé B. Pallen, Chairman of the Department on Study of Revolutionary Movements of the National Civic Federation.

Mr. Holland's denial that the American Federation of Labor had advocated the recognition of Soviet Russia was followed by his assertion that the Bolshevist movement in this country was principally due to parlor socialists, whom he described as "long haired fellows and short haired women." He further said that the movement would die "a natural death" if well-meaning people did not give radicals so much lee-way.

He was interrupted here by Miss Todd, who charged that he had not stated the facts when he said that the American Federation of Labor was opposed to recognition of Soviet Russia. She said that the Central Federated Union, composed of constituents of the Federation of Labor, had endorsed the recognition of the Soviet Government at its last meeting, a week ago.

The minutes of the meeting on the night of Jan. 6 of the Central Trades and Labor Council, formerly the Central Federated Union, show that a resolution favoring the resumption of trade relations with Russia was introduced by Timothy Healy, and following a vigorous fight defeated by a vote of 149 to 85. It was expressly stated in these resolutions that the action contemplated should not be construed as an indorsement of a proposal to recognize the Soviet Government so long as it was an outlaw among the nations of the world.

Miss Todd said that it was unfair for Mr. Holland to have made this denial when it was known that the Amalgamated Clothing Workers and the Masters, Mates and Pilots' Union had gone on record in favor of such a course. Neither of these organizations is affiliated with the American Federation of Labor.

Another interruption came when the Chairman proposed the adoption of resolutions opposing recognition of the Soviet Government, but in this case parliamentary rules were invoked effectively. Objection was raised by a young woman who said that she was Miss Lucy Brown, a speaker attached to the Platform Committee of the Republican Party during the last campaign. Nevertheless, the resolutions were adopted with only two or three dissenting votes, including Miss Brown's.

100,000 DUTCH IDLE IN INDUSTRIAL CRISIS

Amsterdam Jobless Demand State and City Support—Wide Unemployment Is Predicted.

AMSTERDAM, Jan. 13.—The Dutch industrial slump has reached serious proportions, according to the Telegraaf, in the Provincial Assembly of North Brabant, one of the chief manufacturing districts.

A member said he had been informed by the Ministry of Home Affairs that there were 100,000 unemployed now in Holland, and that soon 50 to 60 per cent. of the population would be dependent upon the State for support, and this would probably continue for three years.

There was a demonstration in Amsterdam today of several hundred unemployed, whose banners proclaimed that the State and city must support them. Recently some manufacturers, including a cocoa plant, put their employes on long holidays without pay.

FRENCH WANT OUR FLAG TO STAY ON RHINE

Say Presence of American Troops Has Great Moral Effect in Germany.

PARIS, Jan. 13 (Associated Press).—The reduction of the American forces on the Rhine from 15,000 to 8,000 has caused considerable comment in French official circles, although this action on the part of the United States was not unexpected. The decision of the War Department is considered a logical development of what French officials regard as the American plan to decrease its participation in European affairs to the very minimum.

The withdrawal of all the American troops in Germany would be looked upon by the French as very unfortunate. It is pointed out that the presence of a few thousand Americans on the Rhine has had and is continuing to have a great moral effect on Germany. As one of the officials expressed it, France does not care so much for the number of troops. What it wants is the American flag flying on the Rhine beside those of France and England.

ARMY FOR VILNA HELD BACK.

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

GENEVA, Jan. 13.—Departure of the army which the League of Nations was to have sent to Vilna for the purpose of policing the place during the plebiscite about whether Vilna shall be Lithuanian or Polish is for the time being canceled. For one reason a typhus epidemic is raging at Vilna, for another plebiscites cannot be held without voters and there are hardly any voters now at Vilna.

The Lithuanians left the city and its neighborhood when the Polish army arrived and Vilna, which before war had a population of fully 220,000, has now barely 50,000 left, and even the Polish army now in occupation is trying to find an excuse to leave the city, for it can neither feed itself nor the population.

WANT LIQUOR ON THE HIGH SEAS

THEIR PLANS ARE HELD UP

House Committee Gives No Encouragement, and Edmonds's Bill May Not Be Reported.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 13.—Representatives of the larger American steamship companies, appearing before the House Judiciary Committee today, urged the passage of Representative Edmonds's bill to permit vessels flying the American flag to sell intoxicating drinks beyond the three-mile limit. They declared that unless steamers carrying the American flag were placed on a parity with those of other nations there could be no trade for the American liners, and that many would be forced to change registry.

The dry forces, marshaled by Wayne B. Wheeler, counsel for the Anti-Saloon League, opposed any modification of the Volstead Enforcement act. They asserted that many Americans and citizens of other nations would select American steamers in order to avoid the drinking crowd, which is "objectionable" to many as ocean companions.

The House Judiciary Committee is predominantly dry, and indications are that the bill would not be reported to the House, and that no legislation aimed at any liberalization of the prohibition law will be sanctioned in this session or the following one. After the hearing Representative Dyer, Republican, told the ship owners—but not for the record—that "they did not have a chance."

E. A. Quarles, representing the United States Mail Steamship Company, said that his company had chartered fourteen vessels of the old North German Lloyd fleet, among them the George Washington and Mount Vernon, and that the plans contemplate the expenditure of about $10,000,000 for conditioning these vessels in case of purchase.

Wants to Know Position.

"We would be fit subjects for the psychopathic ward unless we knew in taking over these vessels, that we could compete on all fours with foreign countries and particularly Great Britain," he said. "One of these chartered vessels will soon make a trip to the Mediterranean and return. A law of Italy requires us to provide wine with meals on ships coming back. We cannot do that if prevented from carrying vinous, spiritous or malted liquors.

"The United States Shipping Board is depending on these steamship companies to put the American flag on the Atlantic. Unless this law is amended American vessels will soon have such a black eye that at no time will they be able successfully to fly the American flag on the Atlantic."

P. A. S. Franklin of the International Mercantile Marine testified along the same lines and insisted that American passenger vessels cannot be operated successfully unless they have the same privileges as vessels of other nations.

A. G. Smith of the New York-Cuban Mail Company said that already the American steamers were experiencing a loss of trade.

"Foreign vessels can come into the port of New York and sell liquors to the passengers while in port," said Mr. Smith. "We do not want to sell liquors within the three-mile zone, but if American passenger vessels are to compete with those of foreign flags the conditions under which they operate must be equal.

Points to Spanish and Italian Laws.

"Spain and Italy have laws requiring that wine be served with the meals furnished steerage passengers. Enforcement of the ruling of the Department of Justice would compel the American companies to withdraw from the field of immigrant travel. It would, of course, be impossible to comply with the laws of Spain and Italy under the ruling."

Mr. Smith explained that the Department of Justice had ruled that the prohibition amendment prevented American vessels serving liquors, but that as yet the Treasury Department had not placed the ruling into effect.

"But all extension of American passenger business is at a standstill because of the uncertainty," he concluded. "The American merchant marine must be placed on a parity with those of foreign nations. My country is about to recondition two large ships used during the war, but these will have to be transferred to foreign registry if the ruling is enforced."

Wayne B. Wheeler, general counsel for the Anti-Saloon League, told the committee that if such a law as the Edmonds measure is passed it would multiply the difficulties of law enforcement.

Wheeler Says Railroads Benefited.

Mr. Wheeler stated that the railroads made the same complaint against prohibition as the shipping men are now making, but that the benefits of prohibition had made up for everything that had been lost. He charged that the liquor interests in other countries "are doing their utmost to discredit this Government" because of the prohibition law. "They know they cannot compete with the United States if she remains sober," he declared, "therefore, their only hope is to discredit the law."

Industrial accidents in Philadelphia during six months in 1916, said Mr. Wheeler, numbered 131,377, of which 1,454 were fatal. In the same six months in 1919 with prohibition partially in force he said there were 80,063 industrial accidents, of which 1,238 were fatal.

"I call that into question," Mr. Wheeler replied. "I challenge you to present the facts that drunkenness has not decreased." Mr. Edmonds said that he would obtain the facts.

In conclusion Mr. Wheeler said the ship which gets the most traffic in the future will be the one that renders good service and carries the less liquor.

Edmonds Defends His Bill.

Mr. Edmonds gave statistics to show that the American registered vessels are already losing trade. He said that when the report was circulated that no liquor would be served on two Shipping Board vessels which the Munson Line put into service between New York and South America many of the reservations were canceled.

"You have got to consider in this case the national interests," said Mr. Edmonds, "and in this case it is to the national interest that these ships fly the American flag. If permitted to carry liquors on these ships there should be no harm done to the morals of the people of the United States. We have got to have these ships. We found out what it cost during the war not to have any vessels."

Mr. Edmonds said that whisky is flowing freely on some of the railroad trains. "No less than six men with bottles in their hip pockets offered me a drink on a train en route to Washington," he said.

Evidence of a downward tendency in the money market was more plainly visible yesterday than on any preceding day this month. It appeared to reflect (what is ordinarily expected at this time of year if New York money rates hold firm) the pressure of offerings from banks outside of New York City. Since time loans on Stock Exchange collateral cannot be rediscounted at the Federal Reserve, it was naturally that class of loans which felt the pressure. On such collateral, loans were made yesterday as low as 6 to 6½ per cent., which is ½ to 1 per cent. below the ruling rate of the day before and the lowest rate since 1919. Call money yielded slightly, even on the Stock Exchange, where it failed to reach the familiar 7 per cent. rate and loaned all day at 6 for the first time since November.

This interesting result of the counteraction of natural influences following a year of liquidation, as against the restraining influence exerted by the Reserve Banks, had no particular effect on the Stock Exchange; perhaps it had been automatically "discounted" in the recent advance of prices, whose other causes attracted more attention. A pretty large business was done, but the movement of prices was irregular and in the end declines predominated; amounting, however, to little more than reaction from recent rapid advances.

The Stock Exchange would undoubtedly reflect indications of a substantial recovery in general business. From some industries, notably the dry goods trade (which was one of the first to experience last year's sudden reaction), one is already hearing reports of better business. But even this is as yet only such quickening of the pulse as would hardly have been observed but for the suspended animation which preceded it. Experience, it is true, teaches that in America a trade revival will often be well under way while people are still asking anxiously if revival is probable; but we have hardly yet reached the time for that condition. Such weather signs as increasing iron production, railway earnings and Clearing House exchanges will usually foreshadow the distinct change for better things.

Yesterday's foreign exchange market caused much discussion from the fact that sterling, after a further initial decline of 1¼ cent from yesterday, reversed its movement and advanced 2¾ cents, closing at the highest. Rates on nearly all other foreign markets moved similarly; the exceptions being Argentina, where the rate declined rather sharply, and Austria, where a relapse in exchange yesterday surprised no one who has read the dispatches from Vienna; from whose dismal assurances one might imagine that the Austrian Government was not only insolvent but unable to find a receiver in whose hands to place itself. The picture is darkly painted and Vienna's position certainly typifies the worst that has been caused by the political and economic disruption of the defeated Central Powers. Probably, however, the very fact of the problem's seemingly hopeless aspects will hasten a genuine effort at its solution.

The French and English bank statements of a week ago covered the period in which preparations were being made for the year-end settlements, which explained why the London bank's reserve ratio rose only from 7 1-3 per cent. to 8⅞, while the French bank reported increase in outstanding circulation of 687,900,000 francs. The past week tells a different story. The Bank of England's reserve percentage has risen from 8⅞ to 12⅛, and the Bank of France reports 126,600,000 francs in notes retired. It remains to say, however, that the London reserve ratio is still 4⅝ per cent. below that of this week in 1920 and that the French bank's note issues are larger by 7,700,000,000 francs. In due course—possibly within six or eight weeks—the Bank of England's position should be so greatly strengthened that a lower bank rate will be seriously discussed; but the discussion will hardly come to anything unless our own Federal Reserve Bank rates also come down.

THURSDAY, JAN. 13, 1921.

Demand funds on the Stock Exchange ruled all day at 6 per cent. This is the first day that call money renewed as low as 6 per cent. since Nov. 30. In the outside market some call loans were made as low as 4½ per cent., with the range up to 6 per cent. In the time money market brokers again dropped their quotations, as on the previous day, one-half of 1 per cent., the range being 6@6½ per cent. for both classes. At the minimum rate, this is the lowest fixed period money since the latter part of November, 1919. A reflection of the ease in money on the Stock Exchange is found in the lower rates obtaining on bankers' acceptances, rates on prime eligibles and the private bankers' showing a recession compared with previous quotations. Commercial paper brokers report that so far there has been no lowering of the discount rate on merchants' bills. Prime names still discount at 7¾, with others at 8 per cent.

Rates on other European markets moved similarly, though Berlin and Madrid ended slightly below the day before. The rate on Vienna fell from .21½ cent per crown to .20, the low record. Poland declined from .17 to .16 cent per mark, Serbia from 2.80 cents to 2.73.

Montreal exchange was higher. Brazilian advanced from 15.375 cents to 15.50, but Argentine declined from 35¼ cents to 34¾.

An Expected Reaction.

Wall Street was prepared for just such a reaction as took place in the stock market yesterday. Short covering cannot go on indefinitely, and ultimately the point is reached where this interest is so much depleted that the cushion of protection against realizing sales lacks resiliency. In the opinion of many this was what happened yesterday; in short, that there was too much selling of long stock and too small a short interest to absorb the offerings without causing a price decline. But Wall Street was not blue over the display; rather there was some satisfaction that the headlong rush of short covering had been set at rest for the moment at least. As a result of the reaction it was generally considered that the market position had been improved even though there was not any extensive putting out of new short lines. Since the loan crowd has been a centre of attention recently there was some surprise when yesterday showed a quietude that was in sharp contrast to the situation of recent days. There was no great demand for stocks, which indicated a lack of disposition to follow prices down with further selling.

Realizing Sales.

It is always the case that there are those who catch the long position when the market turns and in the advance which has been in progress recently it is believed that a sizable account was built up on this side. It was the endeavor to realize profits which caused the weight of selling pressure yesterday, according to experienced observers in the Street. The signs have not been lacking that the market was tapering off on the upturn, and that a reaction was to be expected, and this naturally made for profit-taking. That the reaction was not more severe was probably due to the fact that there was still something of a short interest which was waiting to cover.

Crucible and Baldwin.

Those issues which were in the limelight because of spectacular short covering were the hardest hit. Crucible, for instance, which had been loaning at a premium for several days, dropped sharply when the support of covering was withdrawn, the loss for the day amounting to more than 7 points. Attention was also directed toward Baldwin, another of the speculative favorites subject to wide fluctuations. Here the drop was not so great, but weakness was none the less evident. It has been found in the past that playing either side in these issues was fraught with danger.

A Present.

When the renewal rate for call loans was dropped yesterday from 7 per cent., where it had been maintained since Dec. 1, when it was marked up to that rate, to 6 per cent., the lenders of call money presented the borrowers with a little matter of $19,335 or thereabouts. Assuming, as most people are willing to, that some $700,000,000 is involved in the daily renewal rate, the difference of 1 per cent. for one day would be the sum stated above.

Foreign Financing.

The much-discussed foreign financing is now expected to come to a head next week. Whether it will be France or Belgium which will come first remains to be seen. Bankers who ought to know the stage of negotiations are undecided as to which will be first, and yesterday it was said to be about a toss-up. However, it is agreed that it probably will be one of these two countries which will make the first appearance, with the others strung out along the line. The Norwegian financing, some now believe, may be handled in London and not touch New York. It is recalled that last year, when a Norwegian loan was floated, the original intention was to float the loan in the British capital, and at the last minute it was transferred here.

More Railroad Pensioners.

That the service with the railroad companies is recognized by them in the way of pensioning employes incapacitated after long service has been known for some years but recently the number of men being placed on the pension lists has attracted more than usual attention. Yesterday it became known that the Reading Company had retired thirty-six employes, five of them after fifty years of service, while the Pennsylvania Railroad has retired on pension five employes all of whom have seen more than fifty years of service with the company. When the cost of living increased so rapidly most of the roads took up the matter of increasing pensions to keep pace and in one or two instances such increases were granted. But few of the roads have been enjoying earnings sufficient to allow for such increases and they have not been made.

Railroad Merger Rumors.

Although the Interstate Commerce Commission has issued no report on the outline of a plan for the merging of American railroads into a number of ratemaking groups as provided for in the Transportation act, there has been a revival of rumors regarding individual railroad companies. These in most instances mention companies which are in good earning position and are not so far-fetched as stock market gossip usually is. Yesterday the Southern Pacific and Southern Railway combination was dusted off again and circulated in some of the commission houses. It is expected that consolidations will wait until the roads, the Interstate Commerce Commission and the United States Labor Board have settled the other problems which are considered as more pressing.

Railroad Earnings Outlook.

While the record of railway earnings for November shows a decrease in net as compared with the preceding month and the yield on the aggregate value of railroad property is far below that prescribed in the law, it is the consensus among railroad men that a way will be found to increase that yield. The outstanding item in railroad expense accounts is the payroll. Its increase was due to the war emergency and to the fact that the transportation system of the country had to be kept open. That the readjustment which is coming will be effected without much trouble is the opinion of conservatives, and with the fall in the cost of living, insufficient work and general business depression, railroad workers will admit that wage decreases are in order. When wages are cut and material and supply prices decline, the relation between expense and income will become more normal, and there are a number of railroad men who see promise in the future.

Tractions and Railroads.

A comparison of the traction company situation in the United States in 1916 and 1917 and the railroad situation today shows a good deal that is parallel. The street car companies then were trying to convince the regulating bodies in the various States that their expenses had increased all out of proportion to revenues, and were asking the commissions to provide relief with increases in fares. When many of the companies had reached the last ditch the regulating bodies stepped in and granted the relief asked, with the result that the financial condition of many of them is better now than it ever has been. That this may all be repeated in the case of the railroad problem is not considered at all improbable.

The Result of Economizing

The era of wild extravagance and inflation has passed.

While equities (stocks) may shrink in value, good mortgage bonds are already stronger and can be expected to increase in value.

DECLINE CONTINUES IN MONEY MARKET

Call Rates on Exchange Drop to 6 Per Cent.—Time Loans Quoted at 6½ Per Cent.

BANKERS' ACCEPTANCES OFF

Supply of Prime Bills Alone Limits Business—Demand for Bonds Also Brisk.

The money market continued to sag in several departments yesterday. Call money on the Stock Exchange renewed at 6 per cent. for the first time since Nov. 30, and at no time did the inside rate go above that figure. In the outside market call money went as low as 4½ per cent., but there was none of the 4 per cent. money which had been offered the previous day. After the 4½ per cent. rate was made, the outside market rose until at the end of the day the lowest offerings were on a parity with the Stock Exchange market at 6 per cent.

Time money quotations, which had been held at 6½ to 7 per cent. on Wednesday, were quoted down to 6½ per cent, and in the outside market loans for thirty days were made at 6 per cent. Also about $3,000,000 was reported loaned for four months at 6 per cent. Ten-day loans were again negotiated at 5½ per cent., and it was said that the volume of business was somewhat larger than on Wednesday.

Probably more significant than any of the above changes, however, was the lowering of the rate for prime bankers' acceptances to the basis of 5⅞ at 5¾ per cent. for ninety-day bills. This is a slight reduction from the preceding day's quotations and a fall of one-half of 1 per cent. from the rate quoted at the end of last week, when the first signs of the decline were noted. The market for bankers' acceptances is one of the slowest departments of the general money market to move, but at the same time it is less susceptible to control than the others.

The business in bankers' acceptances, incidentally, was limited only by the supply of prime bills. The demand far transcended the supply at all times during the day, and as fast as dealers came into possession of bills they found customers waiting to snap them up. One large dealer said he could have disposed of several millions of dollars' worth of additional bills if he could have got hold of them.

Accompanying the easing in general money rates was a very brisk demand for bonds and for short-term notes. This demand came from savings banks mainly, but some of the insurance companies participated on a much larger scale than usual, and one big insurance company purchased a fairly large block of railroad mortgage bonds, thereby making its reappearance in the market for such securities for the first time in nearly a year. Buying of short-term (six months to one year) securities was general. Many commercial banks made such purchases apparently in the belief that the high yields offered would prove attractive if money rates declined.

$3,600,000 Mississippi Power Issue.

The Mississippi Power Company, which owns and operates one of the biggest hydro-electric power plants in the world, has sold $3,600,000 fifteen-year 7 per cent. sinking fund gold debentures to a syndicate headed by Kidder, Peabody & Co. and Stone & Webster, according to an announcement made yesterday. The issue will be offered for public subscription soon.

DURANT STARTS NEW AUTO COMPANY

CAR TO COST UNDER $1,000

Assert Initial 500,000-Share Offer Is Oversubscribed—Factory to Be in Middle West.

William C. Durant, former head of the General Motors Corporation, which he founded, yesterday reappeared in the rôle of automobile manufacturer when it was announced that a charter had been filed at Albany for Durant Motors, Inc. The capital of the new company is $5,000,000, consisting of 1,000,000 shares of no par value. It is said that the initial offering of stock will be 500,000 shares, and that this has already been overscribed by friends and associates of Mr. Durant. Details as to plans were not in plentiful supply yesterday. It was learned, however, that it is proposed to erect or buy a factory in the Middle West for the manufacture of a four-cylinder automobile to sell for less than $1,000.

In a letter sent out recently by Mr. Durant to his friends the following statement as to the company was made:

"While I am not ready at this time to make an announcement, it will probably not surprise you to know that I am still an interested and firm believer in the motor industry, and that I am organizing a company controlled by myself and several of my good friends which will be in active operation Aug. 1. I cannot go into details regarding the corporation at this time other than to say it will bear the name of the Durant Motors Inc., with one kind of stock, with every subscriber to the initial offering upon exactly the same basis as to price, with no commissions, bonuses or reservations to myself or associates issued for experience, ability or performance. The Durant Motors Inc., will be incorporated under the laws of the State of New York with authorized capital of 1,000,000 shares of no par value, 500,000 shares constituting the initial offering."

The announcement of a new Durant corporation was received with something of surprise in the financial district yesterday since it was only a short time ago that it was said he would take a long vacation. A large portion of Mr. Durant's holdings totaling something over 3,000,000 shares, were taken over by the du Pont Securities Corporation and Mr. Durant was succeeded as President of General Motors by Pierre S. du Pont.

With word of the formation of Durant Motors Company came a further severance of relations between Mr. Durant and General Motors. He resigned yesterday from the Finance Committee and also as member and Chairman of the Executive Committee. F. W. Hohensee also resigned as Director, Vice President and as a member of the Executive Committee. The General Motors Executive Committee as now constituted consists of P. S. du Pont, Chairman; J. J. Rascob, J. A. Haskell and A. P. Sloan Jr. F. D. Brown was elected a member of the Finance Committee and C. F. Kettering was elected a Vice President. A. H. Swayne was elected a Director and a Vice President.

Northwestern Asks $3,000,000 Loan

WASHINGTON, Jan. 13.—The Chicago & Northwestern Railway Company asked the Interstate Commerce Commission today for a Government loan of $3,000,000 for ten years for the purchase of new equipment. The carrier offers equipment trust certificates amounting to $4,402,000 as security for the loan.

An offering of $12,000,000 fifteen-year 6½ per cent. equipment trust gold notes of the Grand Trunk Railway of Canada, now part of the Canadian National Railways, is being made today by Dillon, Read & Co., at a price of 95.40, to yield the investor 7 per cent. This is the first offering of Canadian National Railways securities since last November, when $25,000,000 twenty-year 7 per cent. bonds of the Grand Trunk were marketed by the same bankers. Prior to that, beginning in January of last year, these bankers had disposed of $59,500,000 of Canadian National Railways obligations.

The present equipment trusts, which are issue under the Philadelphia plan, cover $16,000,000 of railway equipment, on which a cash payment of $4,000,000 has been made. Semi-annual payments of $400,000, beginning Aug. 1, 1921, are to be made to purchase certificates at or under par, if obtainable. At the end of each six months any unexpended balance must be used at the direction of the company to purchase either certificates or Canadian Government obligations due before the maturity of the certificates.

Under the laws of Canada, the rentals payable under the lease of this equipment rank as a railway working expenditure and constitute a claim against earnings prior to both principal and interest of mortgage debt. The rolling stock which has been purchased and is now trusteed for the benefit of this equipment trust consists of thirty-five switching locomotives and 4,065 cars of various descriptions.

STOCK DIVIDEND DECLARED.

Wilson & Co. Say Packers Met Readjustment Before Other Industries.

The Directors of Wilson & Co., packers, have declared a stock dividend of 1¼ shares for each 100 shares of common stock in lieu of the customary quarterly cash payment of $1.25 a share which has been paid since the initial declaration on April 15, 1919. The stock dividend is payable March 1 to stock of record Jan. 27.

In commenting on the change of policy, Thomas E. Wilson, President of the company, referred to the unsettled conditions in the commercial and financial world and said:

"The packing industry has passed through the period of adjustments probably in advance of all other industries, and the indications are that these adjustments have now practically run their course."

The Fisher Body Ohio Company
Notice to Holders of the Common Stock

Fisher Body Corporation, now the holder of fifty-five per cent of the common stock of The Fisher Body Ohio Company, proposes to issue to holders of its own common stock five shares of new common stock having no par value for each share of present stock, and to increase the number of its shares by an amount sufficient to make the exchange hereinafter referred to. After such increase, Fisher Body Corporation will give for each share of common stock of The Fisher Body Ohio Company one share of the new common stock of Fisher Body Corporation, plus $2.50 in cash, such exchange to be effective only in the event that holders of at least 40,000 out of the 45,000 shares now held by persons other than Fisher Body Corporation surrender their stock for such exchange. The terms of the exchange, after full consideration, have been approved by the Board of Directors of The Fisher Body Ohio Company.

We also approve these terms and recommend the exchange to all holders of the common stock of The Fisher Body Ohio Company. In consideration of this exchange, the Fisher Body Corporation will guarantee—

1. Full payment on the preferred stock of The Fisher Body Ohio Company not later than July 1, 1922, of all accumulated dividends up to and including dividend payable January 1, 1921.
2. Current quarterly dividends upon the same stock as the same accrue up to and including the dividend payable July 1, 1922.

This guarantee has particular reference to the provisions of Article 8 of the Articles of Incorporation of The Fisher Body Ohio Company, wherein it is provided that voting power shall attach to the preferred stock in case the company "shall have defaulted

(a) in the payment of any two successive quarterly dividends on the preferred stock accruing and payable after January 1, 1921, or

(b) in the payment on or before July 1, 1922, of any preferred stock dividend accruing and payable on or before January 1, 1921."

As will be noted, the guarantee of the Fisher Body Corporation will extend beyond the limits of the provisions of Article 8 of the Articles of Incorporation, in respect to payment of dividends on the preferred stock.

Dividends on the common stock of the Fisher Body Corporation at the rate of $2.50 a share (annual rate of $10.00 a share), have been paid quarterly to holders of the present common stock of the corporation since February 1, 1920. The By-Laws of the Fisher Body Corporation as amended November 6, 1919, provide that—

> "For the period of five years, commencing October 1, 1919, not less than two-thirds of the net earnings of the Corporation in each fiscal year, after deducting taxes, interest and preferred stock dividends and sinking fund payments provided for by Article Third, paragraph (e) of the Certificate of Incorporation on the preferred stock, shall be paid in dividends to the holders of the common stock of the Corporation until the holders of said common stock shall have received in each fiscal year, or portion thereof during said period, dividends at the rate of not less than $10.00 per share per annum, and it shall be the duty of the Board of Directors to declare and pay dividends accordingly. This by-law shall not be amended or repealed except by the vote of the holders of a majority of the common stock of the Corporation outstanding."

You are urged to forward at once certificates representing the common stock of The Fisher Body Ohio Company to The First Trust office of The Union Trust Company, Cleveland, Ohio, who will, as depository, issue a receipt in proper form, and will hold the stock surrendered subject to our direction, to be delivered in consummation of the exchange or in the event that the exchange is not made prior to February 1, 1921, return the stock so surrendered. The right is reserved to postpone the date of exchange until not later than April 1, 1921.

COMMUNITY POWER

FROM the days when the farmers brought their grain to the village grist mill, communities have relied largely on one central unit for their power. The water wheels of yesterday have given way to the dynamos of the power plant of today, but the system of merchandising power has remained, in effect, the same.

The modern central station, is the heart of today's industry—turning our factory wheels, lighting our cities and homes, running our street cars and performing hundreds of other but no less important functions. Electricity has become the modern miracle worker.

With the ever expanding uses to which electricity is being put, and a continuation of the higher rates obtained during and since the war-period together with the tendency now in evidence toward lower operating costs, the bonds of companies providing these essential services offer exceptional security for investors.

In the judgment of all able and careful observers of financial conditions is the most direct route to future prosperity.

The exceptional opportunity open for the investor with ready money is passing. The stock market at present has the appearance of calmness after the storm and in our opinion now is the time for conservative accumulation.

We have compiled data on a number of stocks that are selling for only about half of their intrinsic values and in addition to dividend yields that average about 10 per cent. offer the possibility of substantial profit through appreciation in market value.

COTTON LIST BREAKS AFTER EARLY RALLY

Weakness in January Contract Pulls Others Down From Morning High Levels.

The cotton market started off very well yesterday, thanks to the unexpectedly strong showing of the Liverpool market, which had opened firm and then continued to advance to the close, with final quotations showing futures up 53 to 69 points and spots up 20 points on the day. The market here responded to this display of strength, and rose steadily and easily, going up 40 points for January, to 18 cents, and 32 to 40 points for the rest of the list before midday. During this time the market was very strong, even more so than the price movement would seem to indicate.

But in the afternoon the story was different. The high levels attracted selling, both for profit taking and for fresh shorts, and when the January contract broke badly there were reports around that the short interest in this month, an interest which has been no mean sustaining factor in the market, had been liquidated. On the decline, which lasted right to the close, January sold down to 17.15, off more than it had gained in the forenoon, and the rest of the market broke to prices which showed net losses of 22 to 30 points.

Most of the afternoon weakness was in the January contract. While the other months followed January down, it was almost entirely a sympathetic movement, and could hardly be called a general weakening. One report in circulation had it that the shorts would be able to cover their January requirements out of the cotton now headed here, and the official announcement that warehouse facilities have been provided for all of this cotton gave weight to the rumor.

Trade gossip was scarcer than usual. From the South came a report that the carryover at the end of the present cotton year is likely to be very large. One authority estimates it at upward of 7,000,000 bales, which probably is excessive. But the argument is based on the belief that the farmers will be able to carry their produce out of funds to be advanced by the War Finance Corporation and will not sell until prices get "right." This big carryover estimate is accompanied by the belief that the new acreage will be greatly reduced, the land being turned into truckage.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 13.—The grain trade can get along without the present marketing system provided Congress is ready to place the American farmer on a plane with the Russian peasant and the Argentine farmer, L. F. Gates, former President of the Chicago Board of Trade, said today before the House Agricultural Committee, which is considering bills to regulate future exchanges. The system makes for a wide market, increases the return to producers and prevents a monopoly, he asserted.

Enactment of the Tincher Regulation bill would increase the opportunity for manipulating the market, Mr. Gatess said. The Exchanges have themselves adopted safeguards against manipulating, he added.

Future trading had nothing to do with the decline in the grain market, the witness maintained, but the situation was due to the financial condition of Europe, refusal of the people generally to buy, increased freight rates and a desire for more direct marketing.

Speculation is necessary for the grain trade, Mr. Gates asseted, as it makes for a broad liquid market and furnishes a constant market for the producer until such time as the consumer needs a supply.

GILLILAND OIL EARNINGS.

The report of the Gilliland Oil Company for the year ending Oct. 31, 1920, shows gross earnings of $10,968,562 and net of $6,448,022 after all operating expenses and deductions for depreciation but before depletion charges and reserves for Federal taxes. The company has deducted $4,474,830, or the equivalent of $10 a share, on the common stock for depletion and has set aside $300,000 to cover Federal taxes for the year. Allowing for these deductions, the net profits for the year are $1,673,191. After allowing for preferred dividends, this is equivalent to over $3 a share on the common stock.

During the year the company produced a total of 5,461,109 barrels of oil, of which the company's interest amounted to 3,080,092 barrels. A large part of this production came from the Homer and Bull Bayou fields in Louisiana, the Cushing and Osage fields in Oklahoma and the Burkburnett field in Texas. On Oct. 31, 1920, the company had 345 oil wells and fourteen gas wells, while there were sixteen wells drilling, of which twelve were in Oklahoma and four in Louisiana. A total of 135 producing wells were brought in during the year while during the same period but ten dry holes were drilled.

There was added to investment account $8,096,725, of which the principal items were $3,340,427 for leaseholds, $1,614,337 for equipment, $1,138,423 for tank farms and pipe lines and $922,308 or casing head gasoline plants. The company's daily production as of Jan. 1, 1921, was in excess of 10,000 barrels, of which the company's interest was from 6,500 to 7,000 barrels.

BANKING FIRM CHANGES.

The banking firm of William A. Read & Co. has been dissolved and a new firm, to be known as Dillon, Read & Co., formed to carry on the business. Clarence Dillon, who has been active head of William A. Read & Co. since the death of William A. Read in April, 1916, is head of the new firm.

The former partners of William A. Read & Co., in addition to Mr. Dillon, will continue as partners in the new firm. They are R. L. Taylor, James H. Seaman, J. W. Horner Jr., James Dean, R. W. Martin and William A. Phillips. Mr. Taylor is resident partner at Philadelphia and Mr. Dean is head of the firm's Boston office.

Three additional partners have been admitted to the new firm. They are W. M. L. Fiske, who retired from William A. Read & Co. in January of last year on account of ill health, and E. J. Bermingham, who will be resident partners in charge of the Chicago office, and William A. Read Jr., eldest son of the late head of the firm. Young Mr. Read is a graduate of Harvard, class of 1918, and during the war was in the Naval Aviation Service.

This firm, through its various antecedents, dates back to about 1830. The original firm name was Carpenter & Vermilye. Some time before the Civil War the style was changed to Vermilye & Co., and it continued under that name until April 1, 1905, when it was dissolved and was succeeded by the two houses of Mackay & Co., and William A. Read & Co.

REACTION FOLLOWS EARLY GRAIN RISES

CHICAGO, Jan. 13.—While wheat advanced 2@2½ cents over the close of yesterday, with March selling up to $1.84¼, equalling the high of Nov. 9, and May sold at a new high on the crop, the market acted strained. There was free buying of May early, credited to a leading New York trader; but, as soon as the buying ceased, prices started downward, and the close was at the bottom, with net losses of 2¾@3¼ cents, March leading. Corn declined with wheat and on hedging pressure, and closed ⅜@⅝ cent lower, while oats were off ⅛@⅜ cent; rye, ¼@1¼ cent, and barley, ½ cent.

The reaction in wheat was not surprising, as the technical position has been greatly weakened as the result of an advance of 17 cents from the low point of last week, when March sold at $1.67½, while May advanced 14 cents from $1.61½. There was heavy profit taking from the start, the selling being persistent. Export demand has failed to follow the advance and premiums at the Gulf were off 1 cent today, with February quoted at 23 cents over March f. o. b. Sales were only 320,000 bushels, cleaning up orders that could not be worked the previous day.

No. 1 hard Winter, on track, sold here early at 15 cents over March, but was only 10½ cents over at the close, against 15 to 16 cents over the previous day. Exporters are working on a very narrow margin, as indicated by a bid of 22 cents over March, track, the Gulf, for thirty-day shipment, made during the day. Country offerings were not large, due to the break in premiums. Minneapolis mills were good buyers of March in that market and have taken around 300,000 bushels hard Winter in Kansas and Nebraska the last few days. Flour demand is somewhat better, and there is also more doing in other cereals for consumption, one mill selling cars of rolled oats, the first car lot orders in several months.

Country offerings of corn were fairly liberal, but not as large as earlier in the week. Exporters were keen bidders in the West early, taking around 525,000 bushels in all positions. Early, 12 cents over May, track, Baltimore, was paid for No. 3 mixed, but later the bids were reduced to 11½ cents over, the bulk of the grain being for shipment by Monday.

The trade is disposed to take seriously the bill introduced in Congress to limit speculative short selling to 200,000 bushels. The tax proposition is regarded as inconsequential, as the rules of the Board of Trade explicitly declare that all purchases and sales are made with intent to deliver the cash grain.

Sentiment after the close was considerably more bearish than of late, but no great decline is expected. There are numerous export orders for wheat that would be workable in case of a sharp decline, while in corn liberal amounts of bids were sold today, so that a great deal of support will probably develop around 74 cents for May.

The Argentine exportable surplus of wheat is now estimated at 120,000,000 bushels or half way between the highest and lowest private guesses of late. The crop is officially reported at 187,000,000 bushels, against 214,000,000 last year; while of oats, it is 60,000,000 bushels or 10,000,000 in excess of 1920. It is not expected that exports of wheat will be fully to the 120,000,000 bushels estimated, on account of exhaustion of reserves. Argentina was forced to buy wheat from the United States as the result of overexporting. No definite statement as to the super tax to be imposed is expected until after the Argentine Congress meets on the 17th.

Primary arrivals of wheat aggregated 1,102,000 bushels, against 753,000 a week ago and 784,000 last year. Shipments were 636,000 bushels; week ago, 602,000; last year, 593,000.

Arrivals of corn were 1,221,000 bushels, against 1,101,000 a week ago and 657,000 last year. Shipments were 619,000 bushels; week ago, 453,000; year ago, 525,000.

Think Roads Will Build Own Cars.

News that the Norfolk & Western Railroad has decided to build 1,000 coal cars with a capacity of 120 tons each, at a cost of approximately $3,000,000, was taken in some quarters yesterday as further proof that the railroads are going to do as much of their own equipment building as they can at advantageous prices. That the new cars are of special design, on the other hand, was pointed to as one probable reason for the company building them itself.

2 CHICAGO CONCERNS DROP CASH DIVIDENDS

FIRST SHOWS BIG GAIN

CHICAGO, Jan. 13.—Two large Chicago industrial companies announced today discontinuance of cash dividends. The Directors of Sears, Roebuck & Co., the mail order house, after a protracted session, announced that the current quarterly dividend of $2 a share on the common stock would be paid in scrip Feb. 5 to shareholders of record Jan. 3. The scrip is payable on or before Aug. 15, 1922, with interest at the rate of 6 per cent. Wilson & Co., packers, announced that its current quarterly dividend of $1.25 a share on the common stock would be paid in stock at the rate of one and one-half shares of stock on each 100 shares held, payable March 1 to shareholders of record Jan. 27.

"After allowing for adequate depreciation, net profits for 1920 are about $11,750,000," the Directors of Sears, Roebuck & Co. stated. "After payment of all dividends and expenses, surplus for the year will be about $7,500,000, showing a net addition for the year to previous surplus of about $4,000,000. In order to maintain cash resources the directors decided it would be more conservative to pay the February dividend in scrip.

"The company's stock of merchandise, although large, is safely adjusted and is of a nature which makes it readily salable. The obligations on open account are extremely small and outstanding contracts for goods to be delivered are almost nil. This will permit substantial reduction in inventory and, together with accruing profits, will materially reduce the amount owing for borrowed money."

"Pending a return of more settled conditions in the commercial and financial world, the Directors of Wilson & Co. decided to declare at this time in place of the usual cash dividend a stock dividend," Thomas E. Wilson, President of Wilson & Co., said.

"The packing industry has passed through the period of readjustment probably in advance of all other industries and the indications are that these adjustments have now virtually run their course."

MORE VAIL ESTATE CLAIMS.

Two Reaching $75,000 and One for $50,000 Are Filed in Vermont.

Special to The New York Times.

ST. JOHNSBURY, Vt., Jan. 13.—Several new claims were presented in Caledonia Court, Judge Harrie B. Chase of Brattleboro presiding, against the estate of the late Theodore N. Vail. Suit to recover $8,008.17 on contract for personal services was filed by John W. Titcomb of Albany, N. Y. A suit for $50,000 was presented by Alice Hupperty Neale of London, England, and an appeal from the award of $3,671.74 by the Commissioners of the estate.

The Eastern States Agricultural and Industrial Exposition of Springfield, Mass., filed two claims, aggregating $75,000, said to have been pledged by Mr. Vail to help finance the exposition. Only $7,150 had been allowed by the Commissioners. These cases will probably not be tried until the regular June term of court.

A hearing is set for Wednesday, Jan. 19, before Walter W. Wesley, Judge of Probate, when the attorneys of the International Products Company of Baltimore, Md., will seek to reopen the commission in order to present a claim for $193,375 against the estate for a subscription of stock it is alleged Mr. Vail agreed to underwrite.

The company asserts it had no knowledge of a time limit for presentation of its claim.

Boards of Trade Join in Opposing Soldier Bonus Levies.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 13.—Increased taxes on Stock and Produce Exchange transactions proposed in the Soldiers' Bonus bill were attacked today before the Senate Finance Committee by representatives of such Exchanges.

S. F. Streit, speaking for the New York Stock Exchange, said the bill's tax on security sales would "seriously restrict the free market for securities."

G. H. Canby, representing the Chicago, Minneapolis, St. Louis, Kansas City and Toledo Boards of Trade and the National Grain Dealers' Association, declared the tax suggested "multiplied the war tax now in effect on transactions by ten." "This increase," he said, "would restrict futures trading so much that the Government could not obtain as much revenue from its application as it does from the charge levied today."

Frederick C. Aldrich of the Chicago Board of Trade voiced similar objections, and many spokesmen for other mercantile and commodity exchanges also opposed the levies.

Would Halt Deferring of British Debt

WASHINGTON, Jan. 13.—Declaring that it is currently reported that the present Administration will, prior to March 4, "assume authority to further defer liquidation" of the present debt of Great Britain to the United States, Senator LaFollette, Republican, of Wisconsin, introduced in the Senate today a joint resolution, requesting the Secretaries of State and Treasury to "take no action concerning the indebtedness and interest payments thereon" until Congress has approved the action. The resolution was referred to the Finance Committee.

Farmers Want Clayton Law to Stand

WASHINGTON, Jan. 13.—Protest against railroads purchasing supplies from companies in which they are interested was made today, before the Senate Interstate Commerce Committee, by representatives of farmers' organizations. Smith W. Brookart of the Iowa Farmers' Union said President Wilson's veto of the bill to suspend provisions of the Clayton law dealing with this subject should be sustained. Consolidation of all railroad lines, including Pullman and express services, into one system with "unified control" was advocated by the witness.

Manhattan Shirt Earnings Fall.

The report of the Manhattan Shirt Company for the year ended Nov. 29, 1920, which was issued yesterday, showed a surplus after charges and taxes amounting to $574,096. After preferred dividends were deducted this was equivalent to $2.31 a share earned on the $5,000,000 common stock of $25 par value. In the preceding year $5.06 a share was earned on the common.

New Stock Exchange Memberships.

The following memberships in the New York Stock Exchange were posted for transfer yesterday: Robert P. Cregar, deceased, to Henry E. Meyerdirk for $89,000; Elias C. Benedict, deceased, to Bert V. Smith, $90,000; and Rudolph Neeser to Andrew J. Tierney for $90,000. A. Edward Ellis and Edwin D. Morgan were elected to membership.

TO REOPEN TOBACCO MARKETS ON MONDAY

LEXINGTON, Ky., Jan. 13.—Loose leaf tobacco warehouse men throughout the burley district were released tonight from promises to keep their markets closed, and warehouses which have been shut down for a week because prices offered were unsatisfactory to growers are expected to open Monday.

Decision to allow opening of the markets was reached at a meeting here attended by forty-two of the seventy warehouse owners in the district, held in connection with meetings of growers and bankers, endeavoring to obtain a satisfactory price for the 1920 crop. The vote was 30 to 12 for opening.

Growers representatives, in a prior meeting had authorized formation of an organization for holding the 1920 crop until April 15 and cutting out the 1921 crop entirely. A committee of one man from each tobacco growing county in Kentucky, Ohio and Indiana, and from four Tennessee counties, was appointed to work out the plan of organization.

A committee named last week to confer with officials of the large tobacco companies reported that buyers for three of the four largest manufacturers stated that 25 per cent. of the present crop was of such low grade that it was useless to American manufacturers. They said that these men had assured them that they would do all in their power to "make a market satisfactory to the growers and all concerned."

CAR USERS TOLD HOW TO SAVE GAS

Engineer Says 30 Per Cent. of Waste Is Due to Faulty Carburetor Adjustment.

Some important suggestions regarding the saving of gasoline by motorists were made yesterday at the fuel session conference of the Society of Automotive Engineers. C. F. Kettering, a former president, in reviewing the results of tests of automobile exhaust gases recently made by chemists of the United States Bureau of Mines to solve the ventilating problem in the Hudson River vehicular tunnel said that it was shown that the majority of motor vehicles are operated on rich mixtures suitable for maximum power but very wasteful from the standpoint of gasoline economy. Fully 30 per cent. of every gallon of gasoline is wasted through faulty carburetor adjustment, causing imperfect combustion. Mr. Kettering said that users of cars ought to realize the necessity of saving gasoline from the use of lean mixtures and suggested the installation of a small sampling tube in the exhaust pipe of motors, especially in trucks and taxicabs, from which proper carburetor adjustments might be determined. The average motor car carburetor, he pointed out, is set for Winter use and no change is made for warmer weather.

Several hundred engineers and representatives from the Western factories who are in New York for the automobile show attended the annual dinner of the society last night at the Hotel Astor and heard R. E. M. Cowie, Vice President of the American Railway Express Company, urge greater simplicity in the design of motor vehicles.

"Cut off all the nonessentials," said Mr. Cowie; "take the motor apart and eliminate every part not absolutely necessary, and then put together a vehicle that will be simple and efficient. Automobile design has been too much influenced by the sale standpoint and including what the designer thinks will sell the car to women buyers. Cut off the freak handles, simplify the dashboard and remember that, aside from the special few who want high-grade, fancy jobs, you are selling transportation."

The attendance at the automobile show in the Grand Central Palace is steadily increasing as the week draws to a close, and Samuel A. Miles, the manager, said yesterday that the crowd in the building on Wednesday night exceeded the hitherto record-breaking figures of the corresponding show night a year ago.

A chassis and four cars in attractive design form the Hupmobile exhibit. The four-door sedan presents some new features this year, including a car warmer, which transfers heat from the exhaust pipe to the tonneau.

The Liberty exhibit has a new model coupé for four passengers. The top lines, almost straight, give a dashing appearance, and the straightened top permits of more symmetrical side windows.

An optimistic view of future conditions in the industry was the keynote of the luncheon tendered yesterday at the Hotel Commodore by the officers of the Hup Motor Car Corporation to its dealers throughout the country. President Charles D. Hastings said that the present show had already given evidence that the worst of the readjustment period had passed.

A large delegation from the Studebaker force attended the company's annual dinner last night at the Hotel Astor. H. A. E. Biggs, Vice President, acted as toastmaster, and the chief address was made by President A. R. Erskine.

PROFIT IS 12,433,280.48 YEN.

Japanese Mail Steamship Co., Ltd., Makes Half-Yearly Report.

The sixty-first report of the Nippon Yusen Kaisha (the Japanese Mail Steamship Company, Limited), which has just been received, shows a net profit of 12,433,280.48 yen for the half year ended Sept. 30, 1920, after providing for fleet depreciation, insurance and repairs. Of this 3,044,331.90 yen was carried forward.

The Directors of the company, through Hempel Kondo, Chairman, proposed that the surplus be appropriated as follows: Legal reserve fund, 470,000 yen; Directors and Auditors' fees, 435,000 yen; dividend (10 per cent., per annum), 2,900,000 yen and 20 per cent. extra dividend, 5,800,000 yen. This would leave a balance of 2,828,280.48 yen to be carried forward to the next account.

Prices Clipped at London Wool Sale.

LONDON, Jan. 13.—At the wool auction sales today, 11,214 bales were offered. Of the free wool put up there was a fair clearance at 15 to 20 per cent. decline.

$105,000 Railroad Equipment Co.

DOVER, Del., Jan. 13.—A charter was filed at the State Department here today for the American International Railway and Equipment Corporation, with a capital of $105,000,000. The company is authorized to deal in railroad and railway equipment. The names given in the incorporation papers as those of the incorporators are of a firm of local professional incorporating agents.

New Guaranty Trust London Office.

A new branch office will be opened by the Guaranty Trust Company in Alexandra House, Kingsway, London, according to an announcement made yesterday. The company received the authorization for such a branch from the State Banking Department yesterday. The new branch, which will probably begin business in March, will be the third London office of the Guaranty Trust Company, the others being located at 32 Lombard Street, E. C., and 50 Pall Mall.

SAYS TARIFFS ASKED MEAN PROFITEERING

WANTS 50 CENTS A BUSHEL

WASHINGTON, Jan. 13.—Senator McCumber, Republican, of North Dakota, a member of the Senate Finance Committee, told the committee today he would demand 50 cents per bushel duty on wheat in the proposed emergency tariff legislation. It is understood that he is so determined upon his amendment that even if the committee rejects it he will insist upon it in the Senate. This, it is said, would cause long discussion and delay.

In contrast with this Representative Young, Republican, and also of North Dakota, served notice on manufacturers appearing before the Ways and Means Committee later in the day that he would strenuously oppose import duties ranging from 100 per cent. to 400 per cent. above the Payne-Aldrich tariff, which he charged would amount to licensing them to continue profiteering.

Mr. Young told them that he was "getting tired" of manufacturers asking for prohibitive tariff rates and telling how German competition was cutting into their trade. "What has hurt a lot of these industries," he said, "is the definite decision of the consuming public to submit no longer to war prices."

Wants End of War Prices.

"The war is over and the consuming public is asking why those prices also are not gone. If we grant the rates most of these interests are seeking we will simply be licensing a continuation of profiteering, filling the pockets of the manufacturer, who gets the protection, with the involuntary contributions of the consumer."

Senator McCumber declared that the thirty cent per bushel tariff on wheat now included in the bill would not be sufficient protection for the American producer, especially against the "flood" of Canadian wheat, of which he said there still remains 150,000,000 bushels for export.

With the exception of zinc producers who appeared to ask for a two cent duty on imported zinc ore, and a two and three-quarter cent duty on zinc metal, the Finance Committee did not consider further tariff questions today. Instead it took up taxation as affected by the soldier bonus.

Oppose Further Taxes on Exchanges.

The Presidents of the New York and Chicago Stock Exchanges appeared as witnesses in opposition to the proposal to place a tax on stock and bond sale transactions as a means of providing revenue made necessary by the provisions of the Fordney five-plan soldier bonus bill.

Samuel F. Streit, who represented the New York Exchange, said that exchanges are not opposing nor are they advocating the enactment of soldier aid legislation. Their opposition, he asserted, was to the proposal to increase the tax on stock exchange sales and transactions. Pointing out that Federal and State taxes were already paid by traders in the New York Stock Exchange, he said that the State of New York alone received $10,600,000 in taxes from the New York Exchange. In response to a question by Senator Calder of New York, he said Federal taxation was about the same amount.

President Frederick C. Aldrich of the Chicago Exchange said the contemplated taxation would "curtail stock exchange transactions to such a serious extent as to virtually eliminate them, and disrupt the business of the country."

C. H. Canby of Chicago opposed the proposed tax on sales and transactions on sales on produce exchanges. He was representing the produce exchanges of Chicago, Minneapolis, St. Louis, Kansas City, Toledo and the National Grain Dealers' Association. Mr. Canby said the tax would multiply the taxation that traders already had to pay.

"Future transactions," he said, "would be restricted and the whole system would work out to curtail rather than increase Government revenues."

NATIONAL BISCUIT NETS $13 A SHARE

Report for 1920 Shows Earnings of $5,543,120 on the $29,236,000 Common Stock.

The report of the National Biscuit Company for last year shows net earnings, after taxes, amounting to $5,543,120. This was the equivalent of $13.02 a share on the $29,236,000 common stock as compared with $12.36 a share in the preceding year.

The balance sheet of the company at the end of last year showed plants and the like carried at $60,487,638, compared with $55,955,020 in 1919, cash amounting to $3,105,459, compared with $2,164,971, while there was a decrease in the amount of United States Government bonds and notes to $2,538,155 from $4,787,084 in the preceding year.

On the liability side reserves were increased to $4,100,000 from $3,200,000 in the preceding year, such reserves including $1,400,000 set aside for taxes and $2,700,000 for insurance and carton factory reserves.

"The only indebtedness of the company is for raw materials and other incidental items incurred so recently that the accounts could not be audited and paid before the close of the year.

"Work was started in June on a new warehouse and manufacturing building at Marseilles, Ill., which will be completed early next Spring and will insure for many years to come permanence of the company's supply of cartons and paper boxes."

Canadian Farmers to Pool Wheat.

J. R. Murray, Assistant General Manager of the United Grain Growers' Company, who explained the plan, urged that the farmers themselves conduct the marketing of their product and not entrust it to outsiders.

FREDERICK G. MATHER WEDS

Announcement is made in the marriage notices of today's Times of the wedding on Wednesday of Frederick Gregory Mather, a retired journalist and author of Stamford, Conn., and Miss Lillian Thompson, also of that city, which took place quietly at the Cathedral of St. John the Divine, the Rev. Dr. Howard Chandler Robbins, Dean of the Cathedral, officiating.

Mr. Mather is widely known for his historical writings and is President of the Stamford Historical Society. He was born in August, 1844, and studied law in Cleveland before entering a newspaper career. For five years, starting in 1874, he was editor in chief of the Binghamton (N. Y.) Republican, and later he was an editorial writer on The Albany Evening Journal and Albany correspondent of various newspapers.

He is the author of "Refugees of 1776 from Long Island to Connecticut" and "New York in the War of 1812."

This was his third marriage. His bride, who is fourteen years younger, is the daughter of the late M. J. and Julia S. Thompson.

MISS HELEN CURTIN, BRIDE.

The wedding of McPherson Holt of Chicago, a son of Mrs. Charles Holt, and Miss Helen Curtin, the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. J. Clark Curtin of 2 West Sixty-second Street, New York, and Faraway Farm, Peru, Berkshire County, Massachusetts, was solemnized at 4:30 o'clock yesterday afternoon in the chantry of St. Bartholomew's Church by Dean Robbins of the Cathedral of St. John the Divine.

Miss Curtin, who walked with her father, wore her mother's wedding gown of white faille, with a chiffon veil, and carried calla lilies and ivy. The bride's only ornament was a long antique silver chain, from which suspended an enameled Greek cross. She was attended by Mrs. Enos W. Curtin, her sister-in-law, in pale green, the train faced with blue, and the bridesmaids, the Misses Olivia Erdman and Isabella and Marion Holt, were in green chiffon, with trains faced in blue. None of them wore hats and all carried mistletoe and English ivy.

Hunter—Gale.

The marriage is announced of Miss Charlotte Dryden Gale of Roanoke, Va., and Paul Perry Hunter of Richlands, which took place last Thursday afternoon at the home of Mrs. Henry Gaw Stevenson in Germantown, Pa., the Rev. Dr. E. E. Sibole officiating. Mr. and Mrs. Hunter are at the Vanderbilt.

The bride is the daughter of the late Joseph A. Gale, chief surgeon of the Norfolk & Western Railroad. She is a sister of Dr. S. S. Gale. Mr. Hunter is the son of John W. Hunter of Johnson City, Tenn., and controls a chain of stores in Virginia. During the war he served overseas with a field hospital in the Eighty-fourth Division.

TO HONOR JACOB H. SCHIFF.

Services Will Mark End of Jewish Fund Tour.

Special to The New York Times.

CINCINNATI, Jan. 13.—With the arrival in Cincinnati yesterday of the Jewish "Flying Squadron," the transcontinental tour made by the squadron to raise a $3,500,000 fund for religious and educational purposes among Jewish people came to a close.

The end of the tour will be celebrated by a three days' holiday, beginning today, for all Jewish people. Special services will be held throughout the land in commemoration of the late Jacob Schiff, who made large contributions to all Jewish funds.

The tour included 150 of the largest cities in the country. Members of the committee said a total of $2,500,000 had been pledged. The squadron was headed by Manny Strauss of Cincinnati, director of the campaign, and Dr. Nathan Krass of New York.

Services for the late Mr. Schiff will be held on Saturday afternoon at 3 o'clock at the Hebrew Union College, and a united service of all Cincinnati synagogues will be held on Sunday morning, at which Dr. Krass will deliver "a message from a transcontinental tourist." Following this service a testimonial dinner will be given for the squadron by members of the Union of American Hebrew Congregations.

WON'T DROP POLITICS.

Union League Club to Take Its Part in Public Affairs.

The Union League Club decided at a meeting last night to continue to take an active part in political affairs. It had been reported that the club had decided to abandon active political work, but its Committee on Political Reform, of which William D. Guthrie is Chairman, recommended that it be instructed at its annual meeting "whether to continue interpreting its powers and duties so as to authorize it to investigate and report upon all questions affecting public affairs and political policies coming within the scope of the objects of the club." This suggestion was unanimously adopted.

The resolutions adopted by the club in 1890 admitting only Republicans to membership were reaffirmed. New officers for the ensuing year were elected. They included James R. Sheffield, President; Gates W. McGarrah, Bertram H. Borden, William C. Breed and William D. Guthrie, Vice Presidents; Harry A. Cushing, Secretary, and Henry J. Cochran, Treasurer.

PROTEST FORDNEY TARIFF.

Soap and vegetable oil manufacturers representing the Vegetable Oil Association of New York City, the American Specialties Manufacturers' Association and the Foreign Commerce Association of the Pacific Coast met here yesterday to protest against the Emergency Tariff bill now before Congress.

C. Rogers Brown of Seattle, who represented the Foreign Commerce Association of the Pacific Coast, said in his address:

"The Fordney Emergency Tariff bill is a boomerang. The farmer should be informed that all legitimate business is his friend and neighbor. Promoters and means of foreign trade must be used and encouraged by the farmer if the value of his crops is going to be maintained at good levels and if he is going to be protected against strong competition in foreign markets where the surplus of all crops is sold."

Says Bank Robbers Confessed.

NEW BRUNSWICK, N. J., Jan. 13.—Henry Lloyd Bitzberger and Jerome B. Chaffee, arrested in New York in connection with the robbery of the First National Bank at Milltown, are said to have confessed today. Detective Ferd A. David said the men admitted they aided Frank Voorhees and Walter Watson, who have already been sent to State Prison. They will be arraigned tomorrow. Bitzberger escaped from the West Fifty-fourth Street Jail in New York, but was recaptured at Providence, R. I.

COAL MEN RESENT CALDER'S CHARGES

SAYS CHANCE WAS DENIED

Unjustified Impressions of Profiteering and Influence on Officials Have Been Created, He Asserts.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 13.—J. D. A. Morrow, Vice President of the National Coal Association, today wrote and made public a letter to Senator William M. Calder, Chairman of the Committee on Reconstruction, saying that opportunity had been denied the association to offer evidence before the Calder committee in reply to charges and insinuations against officers and members of the organization. He then replies to some of the complaints.

"Because the National Coal Association," Mr. Morrow says, "during the last fiscal year, after the failure of the Congressional appropriation, paid the salaries of four clerks in the United States Geological Survey in order to carry on the compilation of coal statistics, and because some Illinois operators objected last July to a slight change in the form of report for the State of Illinois, which had been adopted by the survey a few weeks previous, it was widely assumed and even charged that the National Coal Association or its members improperly influenced the coal statistics of the United States Government. The charges have been made regardless of the fact that the payments to these four clerks were made with the knowledge and approval of the Director of the United States Geological Survey and with the knowledge of the Senate Sub-Committee of Appropriations, which considered the matter, and that the whole matter was also fully explained to the Frelinghuysen committee last Summer.

"As a result of incomplete and inconclusive evidence before your committee the Watkins Coal Company of New York and Pennsylvania has been publicly charged with making a profit of $6 a ton on coal which went to the War Department. Your committee was promptly advised by the Watkins Coal Company that none of this coal came from its own mines, and that it actually received a gross commission of less than 25 cents a ton on this coal. The officials of the Watkins Coal Company demanded an immediate opportunity to appear before your committee and state these facts for the record. Although this baseless charge of profiteering against the Watkins Coal Company has been widely circulated to the serious injury of that company, and so far as known stands uncorrected in your record, these officials have never been given an opportunity to appear before your committee."

Mr. Morrow then expresses a wish to withdraw a request for further appearance before the committee.

DR. H. M. SMITH EXPLAINS FISH STOCK SALE STORY

Use of His Letter to Sell East Fisheries Securities Unauthorized, He Says.

The East Coast Fisheries Company, which went into the hands of a receiver in November, together with the East Coast Fisheries Products Company, an affiliated enterprise, after the $10,000,000 stock of the first company had been sold and many sales of the $50,000,000 stock of the second company had been made, was endorsed by Dr. Hugh M. Smith, United States Commissioner of Fisheries, as "a safe investment," promising "handsome returns," according to charges made in Fishing Gazette, the official organ of the fishing industry.

Dear Sir—Please accept my apology for delaying my reply to your recent letter regarding the East Coast Fisheries Company. I have been out of town.

"I have had occasion to examine the plans and note the prospects of this company, and have become satisfied that it is in position to do a very large and remunerative business. No more favorable time could have been chosen for launching a new fishery company, for the country is fish hungry, and the demand for fish food far exceeds the supply and will continue to do so. It is my opinion that the stock of this company is a safe investment, and I do not see how it can fail to yield handsome returns.

"Very truly yours,
"(S.) H. M. SMITH."

"Dr. Smith," says Fishing Gazette, "has been in the Bureau of Fisheries for over thirty-four years and as Commissioner since 1913."

WASHINGTON, Jan. 13.—Dr. Hugh M. Smith, United States Commissioner of Fisheries, tonight said:

"A few years ago, when the company was first organized, somebody whose name I do not now recall, wrote me a personal letter asking for my personal opinion regarding the prospects of this company. In reply, I wrote, on my home stationery, and not in any official capacity, a clearly personal letter intended for purely personal consumption, my opinion in the matter.

"I have recently learned that this letter was used for some sort of stock-promotion purposes. Such a use of this letter was not intended and was wholly unauthorized by me as well as unwarranted. I was much interested in seeing the establishment of this company, as I was interested in seeing the establishment of other companies at the beginning of the war, hoping that they would add to the food supply of the nation through increase of the catch of fish from the sea.

"What I wrote in my personal letter was merely my best personal opinion, given at a time when I thought the company would be successful. My understanding was that the company planned to create a large fishery fleet with every modern mechanical facility for catching sea fish."

SUE HOTEL FOR BATH DEATH

Family of Philadelphia Banker Scalded in Chatham Asks $100,000.

A suit for $100,000 was filed in the Supreme Court yesterday because of the death of Robert P. Cregar, a Philadelphia banker and representative of his firm on the floor of the New York Stock Exchange, who died on Feb. 8 last as the result of being scalded in a bathtub at the Hotel Chatham.

The complaint filed by his estate against the Chatham Hotel Corporation alleged that when Mr. Cregar turned on the shower over the bathtub hot water and steam descended and he was shocked, scalded, burned and mortally injured, dying the next day. The hotel is accused of negligence in failing to have a safety device to regulate the temperature of the water. Mr. Cregar left a widow and adopted son, in whose behalf the suit is brought.

Sentence Stolen Goods Receivers.

The conviction last February of Joseph Rosenblatt and Samuel Davidson on a charge of receiving stolen merchandise valued at $40,000 was affirmed yesterday by the United States Circuit Court. Each of the defendants was sentenced to six years' imprisonment in the Atlanta Penitentiary.

DR. T. C. HALL JOINS GERMAN UNIVERSITY

GOETTINGEN, Hanover, Jan. 13.—Dr. Thomas C. Hall, a playmate of the late Colonel Theodore Roosevelt and a fellow-student of President Wilson, was today named Extraordinary Professor of Philosophy in Göttingen University. Marburg University has conferred on Dr. Hall the degree of Doctor of Theology.

Dr. Hall, who at the outbreak of the war was on the Faculty of Union Theological Seminary, attracted much attention at that time as a stanch proponent of the German cause and as an acrimonious enemy of the Allies, particularly England. In the Spring of 1915 Dr. Hall left Union Seminary on an indefinite leave of absence and went to Germany, where he remained.

Dr. Hall, who is 62 years of age, was born in Ireland, and came here when a boy. His father was the Rev. Dr. John Hall, long a prominent Presbyterian clergyman here. After his graduation from Princeton in 1879 he went to Göttingen for advanced study. There in 1881 he married Miss Jennie E. L. Bartling, a German. Shortly before the opening of the war Dr. Hall was decorated by the Kaiser with the Order of the Crown, Third Class.

When Dr. Hall left this country for Germany, in 1915, he was said to have gone to do relief work in the prison camps in Germany. After the entrance of the United States into the war Dr. Hall's name was frequently brought into investigations of German propaganda. During the trial of the case against Captain Franz von Rintelen, German naval officer; David Lamar and six other Americans accused of conspiracy against the neutrality laws of the United States, Hall was mentioned as the man through whom Lamar met von Rintelen and as one of those with whom financial arrangements for propaganda activities were discussed.

COMMERCIAL PAPER.

Yesterday—7¾ to 8 per cent. for the best names.

Wednesday—7¾ to 8 per cent. for the best names.

Bleached Goods Very Active.

So active has been the demand for bleached goods in this market since the beginning of the month that the quantities available at the prices made on Jan. 3 are rapidly being exhausted. This has already been the case with one of the best known brands, which has been advanced half a cent a yard by the agency through which it is sold. An executive of another commission house said yesterday that they were enjoying a better call for their brands than at any time since early last Spring, and it was intimated that the goods would either be withdrawn or placed "at value" in the near future.

Gray Goods Sales Large.

Active selling of gray goods continued in the local market yesterday. Eastern mills sold 39-inch 80 squares for nearby delivery at 11½ cents, and buyers also paid 7½ cents for Eastern 38½-inch 60-48s. Sales of Southern printcloths included 39-inch 68-72s at 9¾ cents and 38½-inch 64-60s at 8½ cents. The latter construction, however, appeared to be well cleaned up at the price given. In the sheetings end of the market trades were made in 4.70s and 5.50s at 7¼ and 6½ cents, respectively. Fine-yarn goods and specialties also had an active day, business in the latter including large sales of 39-inch 64-104, 4.20-yard sateens at 13½ cents.

Home Dressmaking Hit.

Retail buyers of dress goods have taken into account the drive that garment manufacturers are making for business with lower prices and greater values and the effect of this on home dressmaking which had such a spurt when ready-to-wear prices were inflated. Consequently, the operations of these buyers are becoming more cautious until it is seen just how conditions are likely to develop. Over-the-counter sales of dress goods were unusually large when women were making their own clothes in preference to paying the prices asked for ready-made garments, but a drop is now thought likely with the re-entrance of good values in ready-to-wear.

Says Big Stores Spoil It.

Out of the Middle West has come the charge that the stores in the big cities are hampering the "four seasons a year" movement which the various organizations of the millinery trade have been working for some time to obtain. This is the charge, in the form of a letter from an Iowa milliner to the Retail Millinery Association of America: "Get the big cities to stop selling flowered hats in December and January, as they are doing now. They are not living up to the 'four seasons' that you are trying so hard to put in. If you get the larger cities, we milliners in small towns will be only too glad to follow."

Banks Seek to Make Loans.

Bank credit is not so difficult to obtain as it was before the holidays, according to those intrusted with financial arrangements in the dry goods trade. In fact, lately there have been offers from banks desirous of putting out some of their surplus funds. Certain lines of merchandise are still avoided where conditions are known to be not of the best, but at the same time loans refused to others only a short time ago are now solicited. It is understood that the new liquidity of bank funds is also a condition to be found among the manufacturers themselves who, after the special effort they made to reduce their merchandise stocks to cash, have even a surplus of capital.

Easier for Road Salesmen.

As the improved condition in the ready-to-wear market as well as in dry goods generally becomes known in retail centres throughout the country, road salesmen are expected to find orders easier to obtain. In fact, during the last week there is reported to have been an improvement with respect to road orders. This is not so often the case, it is said, in small communities, but holds good principally for the larger distributing points, where information is more quickly available and where some effort has been put into reducing stocks to make room for newer and cheaper merchandise. The small retailer, it seems, still shows a disposition to "hang on" for something near the usual profit.

Making Commissions Work.

A leading out of town store has not been content to install the commission form of payment, but has also made provision to see that the system works. Three salesmanship directors have, therefore, been employed to make the rounds of the store and see to it that the earning of commissions is constantly kept before the store force. When the amount of commission paid to an individual looks small, an inquiry is made to see what is the cause and if the means of reaching a greater earning power cannot be suggested. In this way commissions have been made a live issue with the salespeople, and not merely the subject of one or two formal announcements to which little attention is paid.

Fewer Association Agreements.

Trade organizations will find it more difficult from now on, according to an association executive, to get members to accept agreements affecting their business. He said that association work along broad lines will continue to get support but that, in matters connected with the individual interests of members the support lent during the last two or three years is likely to be lacking. The case of a firm that will give up its membership in one association because a price guarantee arrangement tied its hands was cited as an instance of the reaction that might be expected. "During the war," he said, "business houses as well as individuals grew accustomed to acting in concert, but we are now entering a period where the individual wants full freedom of action."

Raw Silk Prices Firmer.

Renewed demand from this country, which resulted in good-sized sales early in the week, has stiffened the Yokohama raw silk market considerably. Because of this, sellers are no longer offering any silk at less than the 1,500 yen pegging price. Cables received by H. L. Gwalter & Co. of this city report that Canton is very active, with prices advancing. Special reelings for the American trade are particularly good. Shanghai also tells of better business, with stronger prices for some grades. Japanese manufacturers are reported to be buying tussah silks freely there. Milan reflects the improved condition of the other markets. Locally the demand continues to broaden, and there is every indication that stocks in manufacturers' hands are very light.

Balbriggans Revised Again.

Prices for balbriggan underwear for men, for Spring delivery, have been revised again by certain up-State knitting concerns. Starting out several months ago with an original price to the jobbing trade of $4 a dozen for seperate garments, the concerns in question have gradually marked them down until a quotation of $3 a dozen has been reached. On men's union suits the newest price is $5.75 a dozen. It was said in the local market yesterday that the new prices had not brought with them any rush of business, but that following the meeting of the knit goods jobbers in this city next week, an active demand would probably be seen. It was further said that the new prices would leave little profit for the manufacturers, despite the lower costs of production that have come about since the lines in question were priced originally.

Ties Up 13 More Government Ships.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 13.—Orders withdrawing from service thirteen Government ships for tie-up at Hampton Roads, Philadelphia, in the Gulf and on the Pacific Coast, were made public today by the Shipping Board. The two largest vessels are the West Cadron and the West Calera, both 8,800-ton steamers, to be tied up on the Pacific Coast.

Education in Telephone Exchange.

Mrs. Mary Gehlman of 421 West Forty-fifth Street, mother of Ella Gehlman, 16 years old, was fined $3 by Magistrate Harris in the Municipal Term Court yesterday because Ella failed to attend the continuation school. The mother said that her daughter was a telephone operator, employed by the New York Telephone Company, and she had been told that the telephone company provided the girls with magazines and novels, and that they rested practically all day. This she thought was sufficient education for her daughter.

SKYSCRAPER FOR EUROPE.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 13.—A skyscraper, the first of its kind in Europe, with a tower nearly 500 feet high, is to be built in Paris, according to a supplementary report received by the Bureau of Foreign and Domestic Commerce from Paris relative to the plans of the Paris Marche du Monde. The report says that, due to the support accorded the project by the various countries, the Board of Directors have decided to alter original plans and erect a taller structure.

The new plans call for ten stories instead of six and a skyscraper tower comprising thirty-five floors. This tower will be about sixty feet square, and will be the first ever erected in Europe. It will be devoted to offices for tenants who do not wish to display goods.

TREND IS TOWARD BUSINESS REALTY

WAS VALUED AT $350,000

Business properties for both occupancy and investment continue to be the one strong and stable feature of the real estate market.

A couple of months ago the trading was confined principally to apartment houses and private dwellings suitable for alteration into small apartments. This class of alteration work has been somewhat overdone in Manhattan, which has checked the sales, while the high-class apartments are being held in firm hands.

The demand for business property, however, is not only well sustained but is on the increase and yesterday's market was no exception to the rule.

In the downtown financial district Harry Miller, a cotton broker, purchased from the Faline Realty Corporation the six-story store and loft building at 11-13 Stone Street, on a plot 44 by 88 by irregular, adjoining the New York Produce Exchange building.

The property yields an annual rental of $60,000 and was held at $350,000. The buyer will occupy a portion of the premises for his business. Spotts & Starr, negotiated the transaction.

Resale on Walker Street.

Send Surplus Produce Direct to Unions in Philadelphia.

PHILADELPHIA, Jan. 13.—Farmers hundred of miles from Philadelphia have started a movement to aid the thousands of unemployed textile workers of the Kensington Mill district here.

The farmers became interested in labor during the Presidential election, when they were active in the Farmer-Labor Party. After the election they transferred their interest to the workers in Philadelphia, and have been sending barrels of fruit and produce here out of their surplus of farm products.

The distribution is through committees of union men, who know the needs of members of their own locals. The barrels of produce have been sent to the Women's Trade Union League, which has been made the distributing centre. Later it is hoped to open a special commissary department in Kensington where those workers who are out of jobs and need help in supplying the family table can get fruit and vegetables fresh from the fields.

DEMAND MORE SCHOOLS.

Greenwich Residents Form Organization to Remedy Overcrowding.

Special to The New York Times.

GREENWICH, Conn., Jan. 13.—The deplorable and overcrowded conditions existing in Greenwich public schools, where corridors and basements, poorly ventilated and lighted, are being used as class rooms, have aroused wealthy and prominent residents of Riverside, a suburb in the eastern section of the town. Many of the children living there have to walk nearly two miles to attend school.

A meeting was held in the town hall last night at which a public educational association was formed to attain more adequate school facilities and to develop the highest standard of public education, school government and recreation. It is planned to start a campaign to raise at least a million dollars for new schools.

ASK CITY TO CLEAR WASTE.

Downtown Business Men Willing to Contribute Share of Cost.

A meeting of merchants and downtown business men, members of the Downtown League, met with city officials at a luncheon at Stewart's in Park Place yesterday, to discuss the plan for ashes and trade waste removal which will come up before the Board of Estimate today.

It was urged that the present system of removal by contractors, which costs about $4,000,000 a year could be done more economically by the city. It was proposed by Controller Craig that the difficulty might be solved by assessing business men and merchants a minimum charge for the removal of their trade waste, and the suggestion met with the approval of the league members.

The city has protested against the league's plan that the city remove waste and ashes from business sections on the ground that to provide the necessary equipment would cost $1,141,900. The league agrees with this estimate but in a resolution adopted yesterday said:

"This sum would mean that the work would be properly done as against $3,000,000 to $4,000,000 now paid out for a system that is unsatisfactory, and causing filth to accumulate and great delay and loss to property owners and business houses."

Conditions of Sale.

No bid less than $25,000 will be accepted, and no bid will be received from any bidder who shall not have deposited with the Trustee as a pledge that he will make good his bid in case of its acceptance the sum of $5,000.00 in cash or certified check on a bank or trust company of the State of Pennsylvania. The deposit made by any unsuccessful bidder will be returned when the property is stricken out and the deposit received from the successful bidder to be applied on account of his bid. Twenty per cent. of the purchase money must be paid in cash to the Trustee within ten days after the property is stricken down, the deposit above provided for to be part of said twenty per cent.; the rest of the purchase money shall be paid to the Trustee within three weeks after date of confirmation of the sale, for which confirmation Trustee shall make application within two weeks after sale if first installment of purchase money has been paid in full. In making payment of said balance of eighty per cent, bonds secured by the above-mentioned Deed of Trust may be used at such value as Trustee may estimate may equal the amount such bond would receive in the pro rata distribution of the purchase money: in case of failure to comply with terms of sale the amount of deposit shall be forfeited and applied as specified in the decree.

WADE THANKS JUDGE FOR DEATH SENTENCE

NOTICE OF APPEAL FILED

Execution Stayed Pending Decision —Mrs. Nott and Johnston to Be Tried Next Month.

BRIDGEPORT, Conn., Jan. 13.—Notice of intention to appeal was filed with the clerk of the Superior Court here late today by Frederick E. Morgan, of counsel for Elwood B. Wade, who, earlier in the day, was sentenced to be hanged on May 20 for the murder of George E. Nott in Nott's home in this city on Aug. 20 last. The grounds for the appeal were not announced, counsel saying that they would take a good part of the twenty days allowed to decide this point.

The filing of the intention to appeal automatically takes the case to the State Supreme Court of Errors and suspends execution of the sentence until the Supreme Court has passed on it.

Wade was one of the coolest persons in the courtroom today when sentence was pronounced. Before court opened he smilingly commented on the lessened attendance. When asked by Judge Hinman whether he had anything to say he calmly replied "No, sir," and after the sentence was pronounced he said, "Thank you," and reached for his hat and overcoat.

"May 20, before sunrise," said the sheriff.

"Gee! I can taste the cider already," said Wade.

Wade was taken immediately to Wethersfield Prison, where, according to the deputy sheriffs who accompanied him, he maintained the same calm demeanor while answering questions and being placed in a cell.

State Attorney Homer S. Cummings announced that Mrs. Nott and John E. Johnston, both of whom are indicted for the murder of which Wade was convicted, will be placed on trial during the February term of court, and served notice on their attorneys that no further delay would be allowed in their cases.

Mrs. Mary S. Wade, wife of the condemned man, learned of the verdict as she lay in bed in St. Vincent's Hospital, where she was taken after her collapse in court Tuesday.

"I knew it, I knew it," she sobbed. "I felt he would be convicted. My God! What is to become of my poor, innocent children?"

Wade's children, Gertrude, 4, and Elbert, 3, have written letters daily to their father. They believe that he is in a hospital.

Elbert O. Wade, father of the defendant, again broke down when sentence was passed.
